Ald. Price said he thought all they could do was to refer the report to the Finance Committee, so that they could be able to see where they could economise during the year. He thought he had told a doleful story last meeting but he did not think it was so bad as the Treasurer's report told. He estimated the deficit at $4,000 but the Treasurer put it at $8,000. The expenditure over the revenue was about $16,000. And then there were over drafts in several of the Wards, so that they did not know what was actually due. The deficiency would actually be about $21,000. Besides this there was no provision to meet the notes in the bank. It was, therefore, the duty of the Conneil to cut down everything to the lowget point. He was therefore glad that the Mayor had decided to rule as he had done that evening. He had tried to keep down extension of Bagot street, through the Ar. that there were $59 estimated for No. 2 the expenditure by a resolution last year but had failed, and Ald. Allen intended to try this year by law. He protested against such petitions as those for remissions of license, as they would be giving advantage to some at the expense of others. There was no reason why they could not keep the expenses down. The streets in time gone by had cost $12,000 to keep in repair and they were then in bad condition when $6,000 was expended they were in a better state. He also protested against making the city poor house for all men. He hoped the City Engineer would have back bene enough to get a day's work in reality out of his men. They should held the Engineer responsible for the condition of the streets, and they could keep them in good order for $6,000.
