DEATH TO THE CURCULIO, - We are informed that if a small quantity of salt is sprinkled under the plum trees just as the fruit is forming, it will kill the curculio and prevent the young plums from being stung. The same person says wood ashes spread underneath the plum trees will also drive the curculio away. He applies both of these remedies, and always has nice smooth plums and a bountiful crop. Perhaps both are effeetual; the ashes will, at least promote a vigorous growth, and the salt can do no harm if it is used sparingly .- Belleville Intelli-
