Independence and Servility.

BY JOHN M. MACDONALI What is rank ? but care and trouble ; A vain deceitful empty bubble That fools adore. It glitters in the day's clear sheen Until it bursts in air unseen, Yet thousands clutch the gaudy show, And on it all their thoughts bestow, So that they may Bask in its smiles, tho' short the time They wear its robes, perchance its crime, That brings delay.

See yonder oringing abject drope, Who yields the homage that alone And fawns on rank to reach the pelf, Or crave some favour for himself.

Contrast the man whose hands or head Can earn his needful daily bread, And wins esteem, Assisted by his moral force, That keeps him bravely on his course,

Is in an honest workman's name-Above reproof With manly pride his bosom burns, Both knaves and fools alike he spurns From both aloof.

What need he care for rank? his fame

With cheerful heart on even track Life's burden lightens on his back; Earth's sorrows never can combine To change his path from virtue's line,

Bravely he labours, struggles on, Until his work of duty done Calmeth his breast Respected thro' a useful life : Successful warrior in the strife,

The purest pleasures found on earth Are centered in man's moral worth, That gives the tone, WELLINGS HEATED BY STEAM And cheers his path with brightening rays, Honolulu, May, 1878.

He sinks to rest.

Influence of Flowers.

There is a presence—a spirit in the woods that becomes domesticated in the garden. The "solitude" of the garden is pleasing, because in reality it is the choicest championship. I would not have statues in a garden. The timid sylvan spirits that might hide behind a rock or a fountain, would flee from the glare of cut marble. Then, how many things a little ground will make room for. My garden is scarce four quare rods, and yet it would make a respectable catalogue to name all the plants in it Almost all the countries of the earth have contributed to it; and though I think that Ontario Building and Sav-Flora has been about equally generous to all parts of the world, it is a satisfaction that our republic of flowers, like our political one, should be strengthened from all countries. Office, Wellington Street, Oppo-The growth of flowers, too, is full of surprises; you watch for the bloom of a favorite with great interest, to-day you can find no President, William Ford : Vice-President, sign of a bud, to-morrow the sly thing will, perhaps, show you one half developed, Something has come to you from half round the world, you have read descriptions or seen pictures of its flowers, and you know just ly for a bloom you do not know, but supand you do not think it will do better this rowers. ## The Rowing Season.

The rowing season in the United States and Canada seems to have so tar been one of great interest. The Boston Herald, a standard authority on rowing in the United States. these recapitulates the results up to last week. The season thus far has been a brilliant one. and several oarsmen who held front rank at The Maxwell Single Reaper, the beginning now find themselves among fourth rate men. Riley and Morris have especially dropped to the rear, and the great reputations they had a few months ago are now lost. Riley is now himself, and has fallen off wofully. His old grit is gone, and to-day it is hard for him to secure third PLATED-WARE, place, especially if there is a good field against him. Morris has always had a good reputation in this city, and previous to the Fourth of July regatta his friends gave out that the race with Frenchy would be a walk over. While some have been falling to the rear. Hanlan has greatly improved, as have also Plaisted and Frenchy Johnson. Kennedy a good record for himself. Davis and Reagan a good record for himself. Davis and Reagan have done nothing, although the latter has a great local reputation, gained by his defeating Landers. Ross has been doing good work since the season opened, and promises a great race with Hanlan who defeated him so easily last fall. The articles for the coming race stipulate perfectly smooth water, an Ross is confident with even chances he can defeat Haulan, but this is hardly to be looked for, if one judges of the two races just rowed by Hanlan, in each of which he had a very easy victory over Plaisted.

been so fearful that "British interesta" would not be sufficiently protected at the Congress, now have the opportunity of revising their opinions. With Gibraltar, Malta, and Cyprus, occuying respectively the west, the centre, and the easternmost boundaries o the Mediterranean, in her possession, with Egypt and Asiatic Turkey practically under her protectorate, and with the strong frontier of the Balkans as a defence against northern aggression, England may well be considered as the chief gainer in the diplomatic struggle at Berlin. All this has secured without firing a shot, and by the expenditure of a comparatively small sum. Russia, on the other hand, after a war that has strained her resources and internal organization to the ntmost, that has involved the loss of $600, Elevator, Electric Bells, Parlors, Bedrooms | 000,000 and 200,000 lives, finds her conquests narrowed down to the thin strip of
