> GET THE EIGHTEEN PENCE."-An old supporter of Sir John Macdonald was persuaded to go down to Gananoque on Saturday to listen to the Free Trade Missionaries, Mesers Cartwright and Huntington. He does not appear to have been convinced by the plausible stories these gentlemen told, and says : That from all their speeches he could tion. At the close of the speeches there came vividly to his recollection a circumstance which occurred in Kingston marfair wages, these immigrants collected and were addressed by one of their unmber, who appeared to be of a superior order. He said when they left Ireland they were led to believe that Canada was a great country, demand; also, that food was plenty and cheap. Now, potatoes here were two shillings and sixpence a bushel, while in Ireland two bushels could be bought for eighteen pence. A citizen, who was listening to him, said : "Why don't you go back to Ireland again where you can get two bushels of potatoes for eighteen pence?" "But," said the Irishman, "there is a great question to be solved, How could we get the 'eighteen pence?' If we can get it here I suppose it will cover all the trouble. not one could give even a hint of how to get the "eighteen pence."
