Protection vs. Free Trade.

(From the Evening Post.) No candidate can, with any chance of success, present himself for Montreal. the champion of a Free Trade policy. The people here will not hear of it, and while there may be differences of opinion in regard to this question in other constituencies, in Montreal there is none. Let any man look around him, and note the broad fact, that after three centuries of existence we are still anable to supply ourselves with the common necessaries of everyday life. It is said that Protection will bene fit a few to the detriment of the many Not so. Protection will benefit all, because when the few become richer, so must the many reap the reward. Who will dony that such men as Sir Hugh Allan are enriching the country ! Take his ships and his business away and what have you left what, but the deserted homes of thousands of poor people who benefit because of his wealth. Now, Protection will give us many minor Sir Huch Allans, and thus the many will be benefitted as well as the few. New avenues of advancement will be open to all, and if the few make millions, who only now make thous ands, so will the many who now make hundreds, make those hundreds into thousands, when Protection is obtained. One year of Protection and Montreal will be black with the smoke of the thriving industries, which are now silent because Cheaper than ever. This is your time to of fictitious Free Trade, which is not Free Trade at all. The Free Trade of Cobdon and of Bright are widely different from the Free Trade of the Hon. Mr. Macken zie. The condition of England and Canada are as much asunder as the l'oles. England had made her manufacturers 100 bbls Choice Heavy Canada when she voted the Free Trade policy. No country in the world could compete with her in her iron works and ship building She had her markets full and she wanted Free Trade to enable her to dispose of her gooos. So it would be in Canada if our manufactures were protected for a few years. But we must make a child stand before it can walk, and Canadian industries can never compete with similiar industries, already established and in working order, without protecting them long enough to give them vitality. That Protection would injure the farmer is another fallacy. It would increase the price of many commodities the farmer would require, but in good times it may be cheapor to pay $8 for your beaver, than in bad times, it might be to pay $4 for the same article. All over the world famine prices mean good times, low prices mean bad times. Five years ago it was cheaper to pay $500 for a dwelling house than it is Ac-day to pay $300 for it. High prices

Mr J. L. Toole, the famous actor, who presided at the recent annual dinner of Clover, the Royal Theatrical Society, told the following story of his experience of a stage supper in connection with Charles Dickens: "I was playing Bob Cratchett in the 'Christmas Carol, and every night at eight, for forty nights, I had to carve a goose and a plum-pudding. Mr Webster generally provided a real goose and a real plum-pudding, which were served smoking hot for Mrs Cratchett and the seven little Cratchetts, of course including Tiny Tim. The children always had enormous portions given them that they all ate heartily every night, but what really troubled me was the conduct of the little girl who played Tiny Time. That child's appetite appalled me. I could not belp COAL DEPOT. which she consumed what I gave her, and she looked so wan and thin and so pitlful that her face used to positively CIT. LAWRENCE WHARF, KINGSTON | Young Ladies' Journal, haunt me. I used to say to myself before | D Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all de. I began, 'Well, Tiny Tim shall have scriptions of Coalfor House, Furnace, Black enough this time at all events,' and I'd smith and Steamboat use. pile her plate more and more each evening, until I remember she had on one oc. | kept on hand under cover screened and decasion nearly half the bird, and potatoes and seasoning and apple-sauce, ur til I hardly knew now she could carry it away to the fireplace, where she sat on a low stool, in accordance with the story, far less eat it. To my amazement she cleared her plate as quickly and was as eager as ever, pushing forward for plum-pudding with the others. I grew alarmed, andspoke to Mrs Alfred Mellon, who was playing Mrs Cratchett, respecting this strange phenomenon. 'I don't like it,' said; 'I can't conceive where a poor little delicate thing like that puts the food. Besides, although I like the children to enjoy a treat' - and how they kept on enjoying it for forty hights was a mystery, for I got into a condition that if I dined at a friend's house and a goose were on the table I regarded it a personal affront; but I said, referring to Tiny Tim, I don't like greediness; it is additionally repulsive, 'I said, in a refined looking, delicate little thing like this. Besides, destroys the sentiment; and when I as Bob ought to feel most pathetic, I'm SOFT AND HARD WOOD FOR SALE | always wondering where the goose and pudding are, or whether anything serious in the way of a fit will happen to Tiny Tim before the audience in consequence of her unnatural gorging.' Mrs Mellon laughed at me at first, but eventfully we decided to watch Tiny Tim tegether. Well, gentlemen, we watched as well as we could; and the moment Tiny Tim was seated and began to eat we observed a curious shuffling movement at the stage
