The jubilancy of the party could not be restrained until Mr McRory was called to the patform by Mr Peter Johnson Esq., when he said that language failed to express his gratitude to those who had displayed such untiring seal and energy in his behalf in securing for him so overwhelming a ma jority. He was pleased to see so great a gathering, but regretted that owing to the large extent of the Riding a number of his warmest supporters were unable to be present. He then reverted to our struggling industries, and was pleased to see that the country had given so open a verdict of condemnation. He joined sympathy with those present for their worthy chief, Sir-John Macdonald, who will be called upon to endure the fatigue of another election campaign. He then thanked them for the confidence they had so generously reposed in McRorey was followed by John Bell, Esq. TO BE HELD AT KINGSTON I Camden, G.
