THE ORANGE QUESTION.

Judgment Committing the Orangemen. His Honour Mr M. C. Desnoyers, Police Magistrate, gave his decision this afternoon on the merits of the legal action brought against the Orange Order. His Honour said it had not been directly proved that the defendants belonged to the Orange Order as, by a decision of Sir A. A. Dorion and other judges, the witnesses summoned to prove this had been exempted on the ground that they Mayor and Ald. Mercer to the Orange Hall on the 12th, when David Grant, County Master, being asked for, the defendant of that name responded, thus showing that he was the man. The evidence of Dunbar Brown, Alderman Mercer and Mr McNally was cited, showing that there was the strongest presumption that the defendants belonged to a secret society and one that fell under the statute. Enterprising Telegraph Men. It is scarcely necessary to say that a great deal of public interest is taken in the doings for the Government candidate. It is reported of the two great carsmen who are at Laching cpaning for the struggle for the championship of America to be contested now in a little over a week, and every few hours the the euterprising telegraph operator, who is about as ubiquitous as the newspaper reporter, sends to all parts of the continent an account of what is being done. The telegraph wires have been extended to the headquarters of the respective champious. Until to-day, owing to unfavourable winds, Courtney was unable to get a first-class pull. over the course, but this forenoon, the water being in fair condition, he took a long exercise concluding about eleven o'clock. It was his intention to go out this afternoon also. Hanlan was out this morning for half an hour, and is feeling well. Notman is engaged in photographing both oarsmen. The stars and stripes float over Courtney's cottage, and his countrymen claim they will prove the winning colors in the coming con test. The Americans are taking a very lively interest in this affair and it is much regretted that, as the result of the confidence each champion inspires in his countrymen, considerable betting is taking place on the result.
