Grand Trunk Railway was a very serious one, and would have caused the flooding Ald. Allen said the Grand Trunk Railway ought to have made an arched drain under the track at every street, and they would have to do so yet. He contended that if the obstruction was caused by the log under the Grand Trunk Railway, there was a case against them. Ald. Gaskin drew attention to the fact that Ald. Allen and Drennau began to build the Princess street drain in the middle of a block, spending $11,000 or $12,000 in constructing a drain which had no proper means of egress. He thought the log was the cause of the trouble, and believed A'd. Allen and Drennan were to blame for not seeing that this was all right. Ald. Drennan said that Ald. Gaskin must have a short memory if he did not remember that he frequently urged the drain to be begun at the water's edge. If Ald. Gaskin while a member of the Council permitted the drain to be made in an unbusinesslike manner he did not do his duty. Besides, there were plans which had to be followed, and Ald. Allen had nothing to do with these. Ald. Allen thought that if Ald. Gaskin had been on the Committee the mistake might not have occurred. Ald. Drennan had nothing to do with the making of the drain. He (Ald. Allen) was one of those who was oppresed to the extension of the drain to the water. He contended that the Grand Trunk Railway was responsible for all the damage. If the culvert had been properly made the drain would be all right. He would go for
