tobacco imparts. It is said that certain samples of locks in the Paris Exhibition were suspiciously like those manufactured by a New Haven tirm and an examination proved them to be identical. ### The Duke of Edinburgh.

As His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh is now amongst us in Canada, a few words may not be out of place regarding him. Considering that he has passed the greater part of his manbood out of England, he is not the less popular because he is a sailor. He has the misfortune to suffer from a constitutional timidity, -so excessive as to make it absolutely painful to listen to him when addressing an audience-a shyness which, extraordinary to state, never betrays itself when amongst his friends, among whom he is genial without being condescending. He, as all other youngsters, on first nomination was appointed to the Cadeta' training ship, and subsequently made his appearance in the gun room mess of a seagoing ship. His first sea-going ship was the Euryalus, Captain, now Admiral, Sir Walter larleton, in whose ship he served in the Mediterranean and elsewhere. It was, we believe, the desire of Her Majesty and the late Prince Consort that Prince Alfred should be treated in every respect like other midshi men, and consequently no princely allowance was made to enable him to live and act differ. ently from messmates.
