THE PROTON OUTRAGE-THE GOV-

ERNMENT DEFENCE. On Friday the Government organ in this city attempted to defend the Government against the charges laid against it in con nection with the Proton outrage. The organ took three lines of defence.

1. It attempted to throw doubt on the truth of the affidavit, asserting that there was no direct evidence that Lewis connect ed the Government with his threats. 2. It pleaded that neither Mr Blake nor any other member of the Government would be foolish and stupid enough to instruct Lewis to carry out this nefarious 3. It denied that Mr Blake saw Lowis at the time of the election campaign or for Those who have read the organ's defence with any degree of attention and care, need not be told that it not only completely failed to disprove our charges, but also gave rise to stronger suspicious and added to the weight of the circumstantial evidence already adduced. We propose to examine thoroughly into its lines of defence :

1. As to the affidavits themselves, we contend that they were clear, straight and explicit to a marvel. There was nothing hesitating or roundabout in them, as the organ fain would make out. "Mr Lewis, in the course of his speech, stated that before leaving St. Catherines he had received instructions to meet Mr Nixon and both hurry on together, so as to work in concert. He also stated that on his arrival in Toronto, on his way to South Gree, he called at the residence of Mr Edward Blake to get further instructions; and stated that Mr Blake gave him (Lewis) a special pledg truth is not in Ontario. "On the evening of the 27th day of December last, I saw Mr Lewis at Pate's hounderstand that his valuations had not been adopted by the Sandfield-Macdonald Government, but that Blake's government would give the benefit of such valuation to such voters as would support their candidate So swears Mr Wm. Hughes, of Melancthon, a gentlemen of irreproachable honesty "4. The said Lewis also stated at the said meeting and in my hearing, that before starting from Torento he had searched everywhere for Mr Blake, and after finding him, received a pledge from him that those who voted for Dickey should have the benefit of the re-valuation, but those that supported

Mr Lauder should not So swares Mr Wm. Robinson, of Proton. We hold that the three gentlemen from whose affidavits we have quoted, do directly and unqualifiedly prove that Lewis did connect the Government with the outrage. did distinctly and repeatedly announce that they were the prime movers in the matter. and did beyond any manner of doubt admit that while he was particeps criminis, they sary steps to defend the city in the case of ing unwilling horses to work—he could not were its head and front. The question, ernment. If he told the truth, they are guilty; if he lied, they are innocent; but it is for them to show that he did so lie and that can only be satisfactorily done by justituting a Commission of Enquiry, pur ting the witnesses of Lewis' repeated or fessions into the stand and bringing him face to face with those whom he charged with the greatest crime it is possible for a Government to commit.

2. As to the plea of improbability—that Mr Blake and his colleagues would not be likely to risk their reputation in the hands of Lewis-that cannot hold water for a the events of late days there is nothing improbable or impossible with a Grit Government. When Mr Blake and his colleagues inveighed for four long hours against Coalitions, men said that it was highly improbable that they would ever do what they condemned in others; but how stands that improbality idea in view of the Coalition of today ? The improbability of their putting their reputation into the hands of a subordinate like Lewis, is not half so strong as was the improbability of their joining hands vessel to be specified in the tender. A bulk be appointed to the position of trustee in his Alderman Allen Just as convenient as for with a dyed-in-the-wool Tory; yet the latter has come to pass, a fortiori why not the former? We tkink the improbability is all on the other side. We think it highly improbable that a Government official would dare to deliberately lie away his masters' reputation, when he knew that his lies would inevitably reach their ears, and as inevitably result in his condign punishment. Lewis has hitherto borne a good character for veracity, and when he stated publicly over and over again that Mr Blake his instructed him to threaten the Proton electime had been so absorbed in private business "tors with the re-valuation, the inference Alderman Allen still saw nothing to prevent transactions that he feared he could not de- from his previous record is that he spoke the almost unanimous wish of the Council be- vote the attention which these respective com- the truth-we must surely believe a man truthful until we find him guilty of falseas a trustee.
