FATHER LANGCAKE'S REASONS

BATURDAY EVENING, FEB. 10

SECOND LETTER. TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY NEWS. Sir, ... In Father Langeake's address on Tuesday evening he urged his Protestant hearers to investigate the reasons which induced him to embrace Roman Cathelicism. These res sons, as mentioned in my first letter, were, that therein he found unity of doctrine and discipline. I have tried to find out if Roman Cathelicism through the progress of centuries has been marked with thes unity which was asserted for it so strongly by the eloquent Josnit ; but I have failed to find it out. the contrary, strife, internal commotion, differences in teachings, and many other features of an absence of unity characterizes its his tory. I have already asked for information regarding the periods at which certain degmas were introduced, and now return to the subject. Father Langcake says that the Holy Roman Catholic Church is the church founded by Christ and His apostles. Where are the Risks taken on the most evidences of its apestolicity? Certainly net favourable terms. Fidelity of Employees in its creed. If it is the church, then its doc-

Christ never told his fellowers to pray to this saint or that saint for he ascended on high to make intercession, &c., and if that intercession is not sufficient then I for one don't want to have anything to do with saints or angels. What authority has Father Langcake for penances? Here again the efficacy of the atomement is set at nought, and self-inflicted punishment, after the manner of the heathen, is made a substitute therefor. Did Christ and the apostles ever teach this dectrine ? If so, where, and to whom ? What Scriptural authority have we for the celibacy of the clergy? This was simply an invention to securing the attachment of the priests to the church, and is contrary to the rules of society; and the same may be said of the seclusion of nuns, which has ne foundation whatever in Scriptures, and is at variance with every principle of Christianity. Father Langcake regards the ever you call the church, I cannot be induced confessions; as a most hely ordinance, and to give up my faith for yours. - Yours, &c., states that men can forgive sins. Well, don't object so much to a man making confession of his sins, as in the assumptions of the priests, whe proclaim absolute forgiveness. They ignore in this particular the offices of the Holy Spirit. This doctrine leads men from looking directly to Christ, and instead thereof substitutes the ability of the priests to give them absolution.
