TREATY OF WASAINGTON. Sir John Macdonald introduced a bill to ive effect to certain clauses of the Treaty of on George Airey Kirkpatrick, of the | Washington, He said he had originally in however, the American Government had ernment had decided to follow the san course. The strict clause of the bill was to suspend the present hishery laws, and prohibit Americans from fishing in Canadia waters. The second clause provided, that, during the existance of the treaty, fish and fish oil; with the exception of such products of the inland lakes, shall be admitted from he United States, free of duty. The third clause provided for the continuance of the bonding system during the operation of the treaty. The 4th clause provided that the he treaty. The last clause of the act provided that the act shall go into effect on the issuance by the Government of an order in Council. This bill brought all the subjects of the treaty, which the Canadian Parlinment had power to act upon, before the House. The treaty had been largely disquased in the public press, and his position consequence, this Parliament had the right with the approbation of James Alexander to roject the clauses of the Treaty affecting Canada if they pleased. If such right dis not exist he would have had no right to sign the Treaty as a plentipotentiary. He renegotiation of the Reciprocity Treaty. I to secure its renewal, but all their efforts ailed. They had came to the conclusion that it would be humiliating to this country to seek further for a revival of reciprocity. the Canadian Government assented to the icensing system on the fishing grounds in 1866. It was not rightly enforced, as we did not possess a marine force large enough and there was still a hope that the American Government would pursue a more liber al commercial policy toward us. When it was found that the American fishermen failed to take out licenses and trespassed coninually in our waters, invading our rights boldly, and when it was declared by American Statesmen that the Reciprocity Treaty was unconstitutional, the Canadian Govern ment in 1870 fitted out a sufficient marin force to protect our rights. In that policy the assistance of Great Britain was given us. Great firmness, but also great dis-creation and no harshness was used in dealing with American fishermen. Every consideration was shown them in carrying out the policy of our Government.
