the elections here will produce a wonderful in fluence upon the public mind of the Dominio as showing how wise and judicious was the plan suggested by Mr Howe and approved b Sir John for the pacification of Nova Scotia Five years ago one selitary man struggled into Parliament to find eighteen of his opponent elected to destroy Union, if possible. To-day we are thinking of a contest just over, in which the issue of Repeal or of Anti-ism was not once distinctly presented. To-day we find twenty representatives out of twenty-one pared to rally round Sir John and to give him a generous support to preserve the Union from the dangers which threaten it. The people Nova Scotia have adapted themselves to the situation; take a broader view to-day of Do minion politics than the Grits, and though far away from the Canada Pacific Railroad, from the canal system of the St. Lawrence yet and I and 3 p.m. more clearly realize the necessity of those great works, and the value of that great country, than, according to appearance, do the Grits of Ontario. We have expanded beyond the provincial bounds, and we look with amazement at the determined offorts of George Brown and Mr McKenzie to revive the narrow provincialism—the parechial politics—of the past in such a province as Ontario. A better HAMS! HAMS! check to the disgraceful attempts of the Grits than the rebuke administered by the people of the Maritime Provinces we know not. Let the men of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick hurry on to administer the medicine. are the best hands for the work. They know something of Mr George Brown and his career, even in New Brunswick. The St. John News says : Mr George Brown's expression of wrathful indignation against Sir John for smiting Mr Carruthers on the cheek when that gentleman branded him as "a liar" has had the effect of recalling the memory of an incident in Mr Brown's career. Mr Brown, in 1867, was defeated in South Ontario by Mr. Gibbs. Just after that defeat occurred, Mr Brown found himseif at the Whithy Station on his way home from the scene of the disaster. While tarrying at that station for the approaching train, Mr Brown was accosted in an unsympathizing manner by a certain little man called Geddes, who unfeelingly said some thing like this : Ah, you have been defeated, have you?" Thereupon, Mr Brown, being him in a highly gratifying manner. Of course, that was all right in Mr Brown, and, perhaps, edifying to Mr Geddes. But in Mr Brown's judgment it was an enormously wicked thing for Sir John to slap Mr Carruthers' offending mouth. Mr Carruthers is a Grit of the finest water, and make a good many thousands a year or two ago by working up an oil ring at the expense of the general public. Such a man should be privileged to call a man a liar with The religious community will be grieved to impunity, especially if he happens to be Premier of the Dominion, the first statesman of the country, and an honoured servant of the
