and at' this point the reported infanticide was the cause of much talk and not a little excitement. On Monday morning P. C. Hinde preceded the Coroner about an hour and a half for purpose of summoning a jury and collect ing the evidence to be used at the in quest. It may be explained that nearly three months ago one Jane Belford had an illegitimate child, and the mother of it made the statement that her father was its father. This assertion caused ordinary gossip - which took a serious turn when at the infant's death rumour was circulated that foul had been exercised. The public feeling was so much agitated that it was really necessary to hold the enquiry to confirm or emphatically disprove the stories to which currency had been given. At the Lake P.C. Hinde found the residents the locality in which the Bedfords lived somewhat divided as to the desirability of an inquest. The parties more immediately concerned were semowhat annoy ed about the proceedings, but when all was over they could not but have been very well satisfied with the issue. The jury assembled at 12 o'clock, and soon after the evidence was taken at some length, the following witnesses being examined : Robert Belford, father of the girl having the child . Jane Belford, his daughter and mother of the child; Catharine, mother of Jane ; - Wright, Alice The last named resigned. Graham, and Rachel Holmes, neighbors and visitors of Belford's house. The sister kissed it, then lifted one of its arms, and discovering it to be dead, gave utterance to a startled exclamation and fell in a kind of faint. On Christmas day the Jonner, Patrick Devans, and Joseph child was buried in the plot or land set apart for cemetery purposes on the Bruce Joseph Moore, James Grant, John property. WESLEYAN LITERARY ASSOCIATION EXCELLENT PROGRAMME.

The regular public meeting of this markable interest taken in the municipal popular Association was held last evenng in the Lecture Room of the Queen Street Methodist Church. The room was crowded to the door by an intelligent and appreciative audience, many being compelled to stand throughout the whole proceedings. B. M. Britton, Esq. A., one of the ex-Vice-Presidents of the Association presided and by a series humorous speeches which 'occurred' to him as the programme proceeded kept the audience in a ripple of merry humour throughout. Devotional exercises having been conducted by Rev. W. 'Gal braith, B.C.L., the rendition of the programme began with a splendid chorus from the choir given with a faultless time and blending of the several parts. A duet from the Tandy Brothers tollowed eliciting rounds of hearty applause. R. Crawford, B. A., then gave a capital reading from Addison's Spectator on the oratory of St. Paul. It is needless to say that the author did not suffer in the worthy Captain's hands. Mrs. Chapman then gave with taxteful shading and en pression a song entitled "Watching and waiting" The sensation of the evening was the debut of the Queen St. Quintette Club which, as well the Choral Club, has recently been organized in connection with the Queen street choir.
