Concert at Sunbury. The second annual concert in connec tion with the Orange Young Britons Lodge, Sunbury, took place in the Town Hall of that town, on Feb. 27th, and was considered a complete success. Although the roads were bad the hall was well filled at 8 p.m. The W. M. called upon Dr. McCammon, County Master, to occupy the chair, and he discharged his duties in a satisfactory manner. The entertainment was commenced by the playing of a selection by an orchestra from the city. Music was furnished by the Inverary church choir, which was very highly appreciated during the rendering of some five or six different selections. The choir was most enthusiastically applauded, and frequently encored. Mr. Robert Hewton, Deputy Reeve of Storrington, gave some six or eight recitations, which was listened to with great attention. The Rev. Mr. Doudiet, Montreal, gave an excellent address on the French mission work in the Maritime Provinces, which gave universal satisfaction, followed by an address from the Rev. Mr. Chambers, which was well received. There was comic songs by Mr. Peter Vance, of the city, and last but not least was the introduction of ventriloquism by Prof. Wm. H. Modge. After votes of thanks to the choir and other performers the Rev. Mr. Chambers pronounced the benediction, and the meeting closed, all having spent a very CATAPULTS. - These things in the enjoyable and profitable time. HAMLET. - Those who have read Hamlet know the opportunity that is afforded for a display of dramatic ability by he who assumes the title ably. Bandmann has been variously criticised, generally most favorably, public opinion equally recording him the first position as an actor of Shakespeare's plays. PARNELL.

HIS APPEARANCE.

The eastern bound train, which passed Kingston station a little before two o'clock, was looked for to-day by about one hundred persons, who had gone to the depot to catch even a glimpse of the great agitator, who was en route from Toronto to Montreal. As soon as train reached the station a grand rush was made to see Mr. Parnell. As the train halted he was seen to alight from first-class car, accompanied by Mr. R. -Mr. Parnell had numerous admirers Costello, of Belleville, and his private Secretary, Mr. Healy. A number of prominent Irish Catholics were introduced by Mr. Costello, with whom the agitator shook hands and expressed himself as "glad to see them." He inquired the name of the place, and when told that it was Kingston expressed himself as deubly pleased. Accompanied by several in Germany and Italy, as was done gentlemen he entered the restaurant for during the late Crimean war. Those dinner, and whilst thus engaged he was the subject of much criticism by the gaping crowds without, who jostled each other about and darkened the windows in their desperation to get a good look at the visitor. Mr. Parnell is thin and tall, his height being somewhat incressed by his silk hat. He has an erect and diguified carriage, and a face which is anything but indicative of an enthusiastic nature. Reis, however, evidently a man of determined manner, cool and calculating. At present he has the sppearance of being much wearied, as he must undoubtedly be as the result of extensive railway travel. After dinner he resumed his seat in the car, and seemingly suffered little from the curiosity of the crowd on the railway platform. Mr. Costello, speak-

This we can say in advance, however, the report of the member of the Engineer's Department, who recently made an inspection of the auggested route of the loop line must have reported favorably, since the proposition forwarded to the Mayor is an evident acknowledgement that a city passenger station would be of advantage to the Company as well as the city, and that the rumoured removal of the workshops from Point St. Charles is not with out good foundation. The Council will, no doubt, give the subject prompt and reasonable consideration. The question is worthy of serious consideration. The Company must be given inducements to make changes at once so significant and expensive, and if Kingston is to get the benefit of what other places are so vigorously striving for, a spirit of liberality must rule in the counsels and deliberations of the people's representatives. The Company desire one thing, the gift of the land in Rideau Ward deeded to the city for the purposes of a public park, and if this and other things be granted the Corporation, it is said, may may safely count upon an addition of at least 5,000 to the population. Whether the returns will be equal to the favours shown by the Council is for those serving the ratepayers in a municipal capacity to consider. Under any circumstances we advise cautious action, that anything done may be justifulle, and, so far as pire are progressing, and not yet comappearances go in the interest of the plete.

t'ookery Lectures.

This afternoon Miss Dods gave the first of her series of lectures on "Cook ery" in Reform Hall, Golden Lion Block. About fifty ladies were in attendance. who, with note books in hand, took down her remarks in a manner somewhat after reporters. They were grouped around her stand. The lectures are divided into two courses. as stated in the circulars, that in the afternoon being devoted to instruction in superior cookery, and that in the evening to explanations in plain cooking. Theoretically and practically, Miss Dods is an expert, and to-day's exhibit of her skill has sufficient to show that she is worthy of the commendation of the Princess Louise. She is not ceremonious in her manner, and she required but a mere introduction to those who will constitute her class for the time being before donning a white apron and commencing operations. Her observations are clear and to the point, and her movements. being closely watched, must result in imparting an education such as must prove of incalculable value to everybody who possesses a desire to improve in the principles of domestic economy. The dishes prepared this afternoon were, stock for Clear Sour, Windham Cutlets, Venoise Pudding, German Sweet Sauce, and Fried Fish, each being passed around among those present for inspection. Miss Dods works quickly, and that she is a professional in the culinary department is apparent from the completness with which everything undertaken by her is accomplished. We have but one more remark to make : that if the cooks of the city could attend these lectures they would escape adverse criticism and sleep more happily in the sweet by and bye.

CANADIAN ARMAMENTS. POWERFUL ALLY IN CASE OF NEED -IN-PORTANT OPINION.

United Service Gazette. Apropos of the interesting work of Cap tain Colomb, just issued from the press entitled "The Defence of Great and Greater Britain," it is extremely satisfactory to observe that the recommendaions of Sir Edward Selby Smyth, which he has so persistently urged on the at tention of the Canadian Government, are taking effect, and proving the immense advantage to the empire of having officers of high standing and merit in such important commands as those of the militia and defences of Canada. To those who have good sense suff cient to regard Canada as a most power ful ally in case of need, both at sea and on land, it cannot appear otherwise than remarkable that such a command should not be looked on as secondary only that of India, and treated as such. should be remembered that we have no longer the power to raise troops sources of supply are cut off for ever, and we must now depend more and more on the fighting capabilities of the empire itself. All praise, then, to such officers as General Selby Smyth, who, fully appreciating the store of first-class fighting material under the Canadian command, do their best to develop it under even discouraging circumstances - discouraging from the fact that the press and public opinion of England are so absorbed Eastern squabbles and home politics that small attention is afforded to the grand reserve so capable of development in the Great West. Soldiers, sailors and ships -such ships as would make admirable armed cruizers-are there to be found in sbundance, as also a large number of trained officers and soldiers. Powder al so is manufactured in the country, but Canada had no small arms cartridge factory, and she had not the remotest idea how just as he was in front of 'All Saints to make a rifled cannon. Both have, however, become faits accomplis. When the But General Smyth knew that he had under his command an officer of the high est scientific attainments in Colonel T.B. Strange, B.A., the Inspector of Artillery in Canada, and to him the matter was referred, with the result that the Canadians have already tested a 64-Por. rifled gun, and with the further result that twelve rifled caunon have been ordered to be made at Montreal, together with their carriages (suitable for sea service), and 6,000 rounds of shot and shell the contract for which has been duly signed. Two of the guns ordered are Palliser 7-inch long breech loaders. he others 64-Por. converted guns. the Canadians have also recognized want of a small arm factory, and General Smyth has inspected desirable buildings at Quebec for this service, whence an officer of the Canadian regular artillery, and a bombadier are to proceed at once to Woolwich to go through a course of instruction for the factory. But Canada again is not stopping here. An excellent military college, under Col. Hewitt, R E., trains young gentlemen for the ergineers, artillery, and the line, and two schools of artillery, one under Colonel Strange at Quebec, and one under Colonel Irwin at Kingston, complete the train ing of artillery officers. This is sound and satisfactory progress, building up from the very foundations the necessary elements of military power. That Canada could, however, do much unaided by the Mother country, we do not believe. She could, of course, defend her harbours, and materially assist the Royal Navy in protecting her merchant fleet. But something more than this might be looked for. What, we ask, would be the portion of Canada in the empire if, after continued self-progress, such as we have pointed out, England were to subsidise her with two millions or three millions of mency to enable her to put forth her full strength in case of war, and to take her part in the West, as India does so well in the East? We believe that General Smyth, and the English and Canadian officers under him, could give a very fair estimate of what Canada could do. When it is known that her supply of hardy sailors is almost unlimited; that her armed cruizers would appear in numbers in every sea, if required; and that an army corps complete would be ready to sail for any destination; less will be heard of war rumors, of volunteer fleets, and all such at present rather alarming threats - alarming, because the Western preparations of the British Em-
