THE INCREASED COST OF LIVING UNDE on the Budget Sir Richard Cartwright

I think when I have gone through the few examples with which I shall trouble the House they will say that there is a great and pressing need to do something to relieve those people from the burdens which are imposed upon them. I may reir rk that I have endeavored to meet the wishes of the Minister of Finance as far as possible, and have selected two or All Goods Offered at Specially three examples from the city of St. John. a place where the operation of the tariff is as severly felt as any part of the Dominion. I find that an artisan of St. John, having a family of four and an income of $350 per year, has to pay on the tea and coffee he consumes a tax of $1,50; on sugar and molasses he pays $6,42; on barrels of flour, $3,50; on five tons of coal, $2,50; on coal oil, $1,25; while on his dry-goods, clothing, and things of that description the tax amounts to not less than $40. The result of this is that out of an income of $350, that artisan is compelled to pay $59.93. Take the case of another artisan with a family of five and an income of $476. I find by actual examination-and these are persons who are prudent, temperate and suber men, keeping a pretty accurate account of what they spend-that his taxes on the articles of tea and coffee are $1.92; on sugar and molasses $1.40; on flour and oatmest, $6.50; on coal, $3.50; and on coal oil about half that amount. On dry goods and clothing he about consumes $3.62, in all $57, or a trifle less than the charge in the other case. I take next the case of another not residing in St. John, whose family num. Investment Society. bers six and whose income is $520. Here we have a tax on the tea and augar of $7.60; on flour and coal, $6.20; and with family of nine and an income of $600, find that the tax on the same articles amounts to $88. If we take the case of a clerk with a family of six and an income of $1,100, the taxation on these articles amounts to $74.83, and it must be remembered that to these taxes must be added a reasonable proportion of excise duties, which amounts to $6 50 for each adult male in this Dominion. And if you allow an extremely small sum for the taxes on all such matters as furniture. books, medicine, tools, and mingr mat must obtain some quantity, you will find it is not an exaggerated statement to gentleman's taxation amounts to thishaving an income of $600 is at this momtariff. Now, I would like to know whether the hon, gentleman has ever considered what the result of such taxation as this may be. I would like to know if he has considered how many persons in this Dominion are affected by

> > A Shocking Suggestion.

A new suggestion, and a striking one, is the use of electricity as a means of executing the death penalty. A German writer imposingly describes the plan of execution. In a dark room, draped by a ringle torch—the chamber of execution tice, with her ecales and aword. Stern Justice is popularly supposed to have no bowels, but the German goddess will cution. The decent of the scale-pan will complete the electric circuit, and shock the wretch into the next world. And isn't this a pleasing prospect.

who, having broken the law, wish for indemnity. 2. That the Church of England in Provincial Synod assembled in the year 1877 solemnly re-cuacted the Table of Affinity which forbids such marriages, and that the Synod was composed of bishops and representative clergymen

Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. 3. That Holy Scripture plainly forbids such marriages. In Lev. 18: 16 20 and 21 a man is forbidden to marry his brother's wife, and by parity of reasoning a man may not marry his wife's sister unless it be agreed that the 10th Commandment does not forbid a woman to mother or his wife's daughter. 6. That history proves that relaxation of the prohibited degrees "Wherein whomsoever are related are forbidden in Scripture and our laws to marry together leads to laxity of morals, and frequency of divorce, and that if a man may marry his deceased wife's sister he may marry his divorced wife's sister.

7. That the proposed Bill for the abolition of aunts and sisters-in-law will wholly revolutionize domestic life, and introduce jealousies into families now happily free from them. 8. That there is no force whatever in the argument that the sister of a deceased wife is the best of natural guardian of

VI (Borgia) to the King of Portugal. For the aforesaid reasons your petitioner humbly implores your honorable House to postpone action regarding the proposed bill and allow the various religious bodies of the Dominion an opportunity of expressing their convictions.
