AT THE BAZAAR

At a Reduced Price

AFTER 1ST APRIL.

IN order to bring Vienna Bread into general use we have decided to

Reduce the Price to $1.60 per Dozen.

Vienna Bread is made from "New Process Flour," manufactured from Hungarian Wheat cleansed from all impurities before grinding. New Process Patent is for the improved process of separating the Bran only from the Flour. All that is removed from the Wheat is the outside skin. The balance is ground into Flour, leaving nothing but the coarsest Bran, consequently the Flour is coarse and strong, equal to Graham Flour with the hard skin taken out, making a White, Light, Nourishing Bread.

WHEN LOVER TURNS ROVER.

They met each other in the glade—
She lifted up her eyes;
Alack the day! alack the maid!
She blushed with swift surprise
Alas! alas! the woe that comes from lifting up the eyes.

The pail was full, the path was steep—
He reached to her his hand.
She felt her warm young pulses leap,
But did not understand.
Alas! alas! the woe that comes from clasping hand in hand.

She sat beside him in the wood—
He wooed with words and sighs;
Ah! love in spring seems sweet and good,
And maidens are not wise.
Alas! alas! the woe that comes from lusting lovers' sighs.

The summer sun shone fairly down.
The wind blew from the south,
As blue eyes gazed on eyes of brown,
His kiss fell on her mouth.
Alas! alas! the woe that comes from kissing on the mouth

And now the autumn time is near.
The lover roves away
With breaking heart and falling tear
She sits the livelong day.
Alas! alas! for breaking hearts when lovers rove away

Slavery in Canada.

(Ottawa Free Press.)

A correspondent of the Globe, writing from Fort Walsh, N.W.T., gives some interesting details of Indian customs, and the state of the tribes generally in that far off region. Among other things he makes us aware of the fact that a most abominable system of slavery is regularly carried on between the whites and the Indians. We give the correspondent's words:

"It will be hardly believed by the people of Canada that Indian women are bought and sold like slaves. I could go out and buy a dozen Indian girls to night for from five to twenty dollars each—the price depending on the looks of the girls. The trade is altogether with white men who come into the country. They pay the money to the father of the girl and take her away, and she dare not again show herself at her father's teepee. The condition of the women is most degraded, and will soon lead to the extinction of the fine muscular lot of men in the different tribes at present. There is little wonder that the Indians hate the white men."

Mr. Dewdney, Indian Commissioner, is now at Ottawa, we believe, and we strongly commend this matter to his attention. It almost exceeds belief that such frightful immorality can be allowed in the Dominion where heretofore we fondly imagined no such thing as human slavery could exist in any form. Once on a time Canada was looked upon as the land of liberty, towards which the bondsmen of America looked with longing eyes, and towards whose cold but kindly soil they travelled amid the most dreadful perils. But it seems the accursed thing has taken new form within our borders through the vice and brutality of white men who think they can defy all laws human and divine when they get beyond the bonds of civilization. On inquiry of persons who have visited the far West the truth of this correspondent's statement has been confirmed, and we are sure, now the facts have been publicly made known, that the Government will lose no time in putting down this infamous traffic.

Tunnelling the River.

(Witness.)

The prompters of the proposed tunnel between Hochelaga and Longueuil are very quiet about it. However, application will be made to Parliament in a few days for a charter for a company to construct this work, and then the public will be favored with more particulars. The plans have been perfected by a city architect, and a rough estimate of the work has been made. A syndicate have the matter in hand, and it is said that there are men of wealth behind the syndicate who are able and anxious to have the work pushed through. Of course this is not the first time that the scheme has been mooted, and others think that this time it will receive as little support as before, but others contend that never was one-half the necessity for this tunnel five or six years ago as there is now.

The tunnel is to lead under the river from Hochelaga to the Longueuil ferry upon the south shore of the river and will be some eighty feet below the surface of the river, with double tracks for the railways, but with no accommodation for foot passengers or horse traffic. Surveys have already been made and the plan is declared quite feasable whether viewed from an engineering or a financial basis. The boring, it is stated by the promoters, will be through black rock with occasional blue clay and boulders, and it is believed by them that no volcanic formation or trap substance will be met with.

The cost of the tunnel is estimated at $3,000,000, and some of those who have figured up the matter think it might be built for even less than that amount.

Cost of Being in Parliament.

The British laws require every candidate for Parliament to make a return of his election expenses, and although the direction of the law is not so implicitly followed as to the result in anything like a complete exhibit, it affords some indication of the large outlay necessitated by such a contest as that which is now pending. The total expenditure by candidates at the last general election in 1874 amounted to $5,235,000. For the 652 seats in the House of Commons, there were 1,081 candidates. Less than one-third of the whole number, 187, were elected without opposition. The 652 successful candidates expended $3,195,000, and the 429 unsuccessful ones spent $2,040,000. The average outlay was largest among the Conservative candidates, $5 450, and the smallest among the Home Rulers, $1,275. In the English and Welsh counties the expenditure was on a larger scale than the average constituencies, reaching $10,800 for each Liberal and $7,000 for each Conservative candidate. In the contested elections in these counties the expenses of the Conservatives averaged $15,010, and those of the Liberals $13,280. The largest sum spent in any one country election was in the case of North Durham, where the four candidates spent altogether $141,010, and the largest sum in any borough or city election was in the city of London, where six candidates spent $77,855.—Boston Journal.

Rev. J. G. Stearns writes: "I consider Perry Davis' Pain-Killer the best remedy I ever knew for Dyspepsia."

TALKING TWENTY-SIX HOURS.

A PATRIOTIC AND TERRIBLE SPEECH AGAINST TIME TO KILL A BILL.

(Peoria National Democrat.)

The longest speech on record is believed to have been made by a member of the Legislature of British Columbia, named De Cosmos. It was in the interest of settlers who were to be defrauded out of their lands. De Cosmos was in the hopeless minority. The job had been held back till the eve of the close of the session. The day before the expiration of the limitation De Cosmos got the floor about 10 o'clock a.m., and began a speech against the Bill. Its friends cared little, for they supposed that by 1 or 2 p.m. he would be through, and the Bill could be put on its passage. One o'clock came and went and De Cosmos was still speaking—hadn't more than entered upon his subject. Two o'clock—he was saying "in the second place." Three o'clock he produced a fearful bundle of evidence and insisted on reading it. The majority began to have a suspicion of the truth. He was going to speak till next noon and kill the bill. For awhile they made merry over it, but as it came on to dusk they began to get alarmed. They tried interruptions, but soon abandoned them because each one afforded him a chance to digress and gain time. They tried to shout him down, but that gave him a breathing space, and finally settled down to watch the combat between the strength of will and weakness of body. They gave him no mercy. No adjournment for dinner; no chance to do more than wet his lips with water; no wandering from the subject; no sitting down. Twilight darkened, the gas was lit, members slipped out to supper in relays and returned to sleep in squads, but De Cosmos went on. The speaker to whom he was addressing himself was alternately dozing, snoring, and trying to look awake. Day dawned and a majority of the members slipped out to breakfast, and the speaker still held on. It can't be said it was a very logical, eloquent or sustained speech. There were digressions in it; repetitions also. But the speaker kept on, and at last noon came to a baffled majority, livid with rage and importance, and a single man was triumphant, though his voice had sunk to a whisper, his eyes were sunken and bleared and bloodshot, and his lips tottered under him, and his baked lips were cracked and smeared with blood. De Cosmos had spoken twenty-six hours, and saved the settlers their lands.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry.

The standard remedy for the cure of cough, colds, influenza, bronchits, hoarseness, asthma, whooping cough, croup, sore throat, diphtheria, difficulty of breathing, quinsy, phthisic, pain in the side and breast, spitting of blood, liver complaint, bleeding of the lungs, and all diseases of the throat, lungs, and chest, including even consumption. It seems hardly necessary to dilate at length upon the virtues of this favorite remedy for all diseases of the lungs, throat and chest. It was introduced to the public by Dr. Wistar nearly half a century since, and by the wonderful cures which it performed gained an immediate and enviable reputation, which to this day it has fully sustained. From the Gulf of the St. Lawrence to the shores of the Pacific, and in many countries abroad, there are few villages or hamlets without "living testimonials" to the rapidity and certainty of its curative effects. The proprietors, mindful of their responsibility to the afflicted, exercise the utmost care in the selection and compounding of the various ingredients of which the BALSAM is composed; and the sick are assured that the high standard of excellence on which its popularity is based, will always be maintained. Seth W. Fowle & Sons, proprietors, Boston, Mass.

The Arthabaska Outrage.

The murderer of the young woman, Odelite Desilants, has been captured, and turns out to be Cleophas Lachance, a brother of the farmer whose daughter had invited the victim to visit her. It seems that the rascal waylaid her at an unoccupied house, about midway between his brother's house and that of Tesilets', attempted to outrage her, and in the struggle killed her with a knife and a billet of wood. A most barefaced attempt to hush up the matter was made by the authorities, and in the only despatch to the Montreal press the names of the parties were carefully suppressed. It was not until the Montreal High Constable, Bissonnette, was sent to investigate the affair that the murderer was arrested. His father and uncle were upon the jury which closed up the enquiry, and it was said that the person suspected was a pedlar who had gone away. Lachance is nineteen years old, of forbidding aspect and of worse passions.

It is said that some of the alkaloids which enter into the combination of Fellows' Hypophosphites are extracted from trees which attain to a great age, and that this fact suggested to Mr. Fellows the idea of their employment. Whether the success of the preparations is due to this we are not prepared to say, but the idea is a good one.
