ANNUAL REPORT. - Col. Shaw, U. S. Consul at Manchester, England, has made his report for the past year to the Department of State at. Washington. It s full of statistical facts and general information. From the voluminous table exports from Manchester to the States it would appear that in one year they have from $8,176,880 to $8,814,443, showing that England's trade is far from declining. The report details the wag-s of all classes of work people, the prices of provisions, England's taxes, factory statistics, the facts of strikes, the condition of the meat, butter and cheese markets, and the general state trade. Emigration and agricultural prospects are dwelt upon. The report as a whole is useful and well, made up. THE JOURNAL PRINT. - To-day the last issue of the Queen's College Journal (session 1879 80) was issued. It was somewhat delayed in order that the details of Convocation, and other important matters, might be given complete.
