ENGLAND'S QUEEN. As long as truth is bosoured Her virtues will be known-While England's sons are heroes. Her deeds will deck the throne.

The peasant in his hamlet,

Alike proclaim with rapture

The praises of their Queen. The iron plated monsters That guard old Eagland's shore And but their trowning turrets Amid the waves' loud roar, From iron lips salute ber, As on the waters green

They raise the flag of victory

The lord in splendrous sheen

The pride of England's Queen. And 'neath that banner blazoned, Death's angel never came To faint bearts in the struggle For glery and for fame; But into death's dominion They passed 'mid cannou's pinen

And England's noble Queen. Should warlike clouds o'ershedow The rights of suffering man, England standing by his side Would ever lead the van; And in the din of battle Her power would still be seen

But with a reverend mien

Lifts up to the God of storms

Their life's blood shed for England

As of yore when dying lips Gave tribute to her Queen. The spirit of the Indies. Descending scenes spolime. From Himal sye's glaciera To Gauges' sunny clime, In homage bows to England,

Paper Car Wheels, It is a remarkable fact that paper, which is generally looked upon as one of the weakest of manufactured substances, has come into very extensive and increasing use for a purpose requiring the utmost atrength and endurance-namely, for wheels under railway cars and locomotives. A sheet of paper is indeed on our store, we will selt for the next two weak and easily destroyed. But many months our large stock of Koom Paper, Win- sheets, or their equivalent of straw pa per formed with siraw boards, and many sheets of these straw b ands fastened to pressure, and they, after having been shaped, being surrounded with a heavy steel tire, firmly bolted to the paper disc, fixed, form the salest wheel manufactur-

> A Petition for a $10,000 Fee. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Hogg, barris ter, on behalf of the Crown, and Mr. Haliburton for the suppliant in the petition of right filed in the Exchequer court by Mr. Doutre, Q C., against the Queen, proceeded from Ottawa to Montreal, where they will examine by consent a number of leading Montreal counsel to arrive at a true estimate of the amounts usually paid to individual counsel there as fees. This petition of right has been filed by Mr. Doutre, who was one of the Dominton counsel before the Halifax Fishery Commission, to recover the sum of $10,000 as his fee, in addition to $8,000 already paid. The examination takes place in Montreal purely as a matter of convenience and by consent. Should Mr. Doutre succeed in obtaining the increased amount his example will be followed by a similar demand by the seven remaining counsel.
