MONDAY EVENING, JULY 19.

CITY AND VICINITY.

Go to Rathbun's for your doos.

PROGS.—Fresh to brisk winds cloudy to rainy weather.

EVERYTHING in the sash factory line at the Rathbun lumber yard.

POSTPONED.—Rev. H. W. Beecher, during the summer, could not be obtained for a lecture unless on a Saturday night, which arrangement would not suit the Mechanics Institute. The lecture has been deferred until the weather becomes cooler.

GOLD MINING.—The Tamworth Echo says: Mr. Thornton's gold mine is still improving. Mr. Thornton has passed down through several different kinds of rock, all of which bear gold. There is no doubt as to the certainty of this being a safe mine, and one that will pay well.

POLICE COURT.—This morning three youths were before the court charged with bathing at the foot of Brock street yesterday. The law regarding Sabbath breaking is very severe. A fine of $40 may be imposed. The boys were severely reprimanded and dismissed. Mary Ann Ahern was sent to goal for three months.

KINGSTON AND PHILIPVILLE ROAD.—To-morrow the Streets Committee and some of the city officials go to Seeley's Bay, where they will hold a conference in regard to the transference of the Kingston and Philipville road to the adj. township in Leeds county. We hope the transaction may be of advantage to the city.

LOOKING UP MINES.—Mining is all the rage in the back country, and amateurs are scouring the woods, especially on the track of the Kingston & Pembroke RR. Rich iron mines are said to be found in the township of Lavan, on the 4th con., Lanark county, and within a mile of the located railway track, thought to be richer than those now in operation.

VALUE OF PHOSPHATE.—A considerable quantity of phosphate has already been shipped to England, and another large cargo will go in a few days. English farmers have found it to be a first class fertilizer. At the present time $10.00 per ton is offered for first class phosphate. The farmers in this vicinity are just awaking to the fact that to use it adds greatly to the success of their crops.

ANOTHER FAILURE.—The attempt to have a meeting of the City Council this evening has again proved a failure, a sufficient number of Aldermen not signing the requisition for that purpose. Another week will elapse and possibly a quorum of civic legislators may then be induced to attend to the duties which the people expect them to perform. The public business is being abominably neglected.

THE CAMP GROUND.—The steamer Princess Louise was never more crowded than on Saturday afternoon when she left for the camp ground. Men, women and children, who suffered from the heat, hurried off to a place where they might at least pass a few hours under the shade trees and in view of water over which a cooling breeze usually sweeps. The services yesterday were interesting.

THE TRICKY DONKEYS.—We are not exaggerating when we say that not only scores but several hundreds of persons, walked out to see the English donkeys on the premises of Mr. W. Godwin, Pine street. A few young men, desiring to exhibit themselves, endeavored to ride them—with the usual results. One young hero has been unable to sit since his experience with one of the pesty critters!

Y.M.C.A.—There was a very good attendance at the usual services in the rooms last night. Mr. Lockett in the chair. Several other Christian friends took part in the proceedings. A young man, who goes to the old country this week, made some very impressive remarks, urging the young men to make greater exertions in the cause of Christ and to stand fast in the liberty where with Christ had made them free. The meeting was closed in the usual manner.

A MISTAKEN POLICY.—During the past few days we have been called upon by emigrants from Scotland and England, who informed us that they had failed to come to work—abandoning poor situations in the old country to come here and fail to find employment at all. They said they had been deceived in regard to the demand for labour and that those who represented Canada in the old land should be more cautious in their representations.

A COLD WAVE.—Mr. Vannor some time ago, in the columns of the Argus, Albany, N. Y., predicted the occurrence, shortly after the 30th of July, of a "cold wave," with fall-like weather, frosts and "possibly snow falls in mountainous country." This he again reiterates in a letter to the Montreal Witness, expressing confidence in his first impressions, and stating that he already has observed the speedy approach of this wintry blast in his clippings from the American newspapers. The frosts, he says, are likely to be widely experienced.

WIND WAFTS.

FROM VARIOUS SOURCES AND ON VARIOUS THEMES.

—Dr. Moyny is visiting friends here. —Who's the Alderman that signs himself "Ostario?"

—A detachment of "A" Battery has occupied No. 1 Fort, Point Levi. —Mr. J. F. Flanagan, of the Utica Herald spent yesterday at Carleton Island. —There is a very prospect of a large attendance at the St. Andrew's excursion this evening.

—F. P. Batts, of Kingston, was among the visitors to the Canada Buildings in London on July 5th. —Nothing tends so much to develop the sentimental feelings of a young man as a moonlight excursion.

—Stephen Quilloe, of Joyceville, found near Kingston Mills the bracelet advertised as lost, and returned it to the Wain office.

—A party of emigrants arrived this morning. They were eagerly looked after and by noon were all despatched to places.

—Editor Cronk, of Tamworth, has never gaiters. To break them he takes a tramp abroad, and has closed his office for that purpose.

—The Sailors' Union thank the owners of the schr. Forest Queen for the gratuitous use of that vessel for Saturday's excursion.

—It is said the Kingston & Pembroke RR. Company will commence to extend the line toward the Madawaska about the 1st of September.

—The London Free Press says the Military College has a special mission to perform, and that its work cannot be measured by appraising to dollars and cents.

—Referring to the collapse of one of Forbush's trick horses the Napress Express remarks that if the animal showed his best tricks in that town he didn't die a day too soon.

—The steamer which charges seventy-five cents for a trip to the camp ground, will not find it very exciting competing with the Ferry Company, which sell 20 tickets for $5 by the steamer.

—The Kingston and Athletics will play on the 30th at the cricket field for the lacrosse champion cup. They are both practicing, the Kingston Club having begun work on Friday evening.

—On Tuesday last of the Division Court, Tamworth, a limb of the law defended some female witnesses, and the Echo man thinks he should "have his soft pate oiled up to a peak." Careful, Aaa!

—Master Conway Cartwright, son of the Rev. C. E. Cartwright, was the only successful Kingston student this year for entrance to the Military College. He was educated at Mr. Andrew Hay's Kingston Academy, and does it credit, being well up in the list.

—The party of one hundred school "marines" that passed down the river the other day was under the protection of one man. The learned professor who has charge of this bouquet of sweetness will be versed in something besides the dead languages before the trip is finished.

—A plank walk that would have done for a couple of years yet has been torn up on Wellington street, near the Park, while the roadway is still in a rough, unfinished state, and holes in the walks are plentiful all over the ward. The Committee should do the most pressing work first.

Protection of Life.

We are informed that there is a statute to the effect that there must be every wharf at which passenger steamers call not only a life preserver, but a long rope is attached, but a pikepole and boat-hook, by which persons who accidentally fall into the water and cannot swim may be assisted and saved. If such a law exist it is enforced in no place, apparently, but in Toronto, where the city officials feel sufficiently interested to see that reasonable arrangements are made for the protection of life at all points where crowding at or near the water creates a danger. Had any of the appliances mentioned been convenient the life of Miss Potter, of Belleville, might have been spared. It will be remembered that when the young lady was unused, and it was believed, alas! too truly, that she had fallen into the water, much valuable time was lost in procuring hooks with which to grapple for the body. It is to be regretted that such a fatality was required to make men think of the necessities of the hour. We observe that additional lights are being erected on some of the wharves. We hope a step further will be taken, and that life preservers, ladders and boat-hooks will be provided. It is well to have them, as no one can tell what emergency a day may bring forth.

Military Service.

The Canada Gazette states that the following graduates of the Royal Military College of Canada have been appointed Lieutenants in the militia: Company-Sergeant-Major Duncan McPherson, Sergeant-Major James Spelman, Sergeant William Davis, Sergeant Charles DeGrisay, Corporal Alfred Wattle, Sergeant John Cuhrens, Battalion Sergeant-Major Harold Krifer, Sergeants Victor Brisbois, Francis Dixon and Frederick Davis.

Under regulations the above officers are required to be attached to corps as supernumeraries for the period of the annual training. They should, therefore, report themselves for that purpose to the Deputy-Adjutant-General of the military district in which for the time being they are respectively resident.

When a man attached to "A" or "B" Battery dies on service without leaving sufficient effects to pay the expenses of his funeral the Department will make good such deficiency of the necessary expense as may be in excess of any arrears of pay due him and the proceeds of the sale of his effects. The cost of any such funeral is not to exceed ten dollars, and the necessity for such charge is to be certified by the commanding officer.

Go to Rathbun's for your blinds.

SCHOONER ON FIRE.—The schooner "B. W. Folger," at the wharf for repairs, caught fire at 3:40 o'clock from the upsetting of a varnish pot upon the cabin stove. The cabin and one sail was considerably damaged. The shipyard hands subdued the flames.

PERSISTENT THIEF.

A SERIES OF OFFENCES—A QUIET BUT RAPID WORKER.

Thomas Bennick alias Rainy alias Price came to this city some time ago and obtained admission to the hospital, where he had an operation performed upon his eye. Having recovered from the surgical procedure he passed out of the medical institution at midnight and immediately commenced a series of thefts. The offence which led to his arrest was the larceny of a spade and axe from the premises of Mr. G. A. Kirkpatrick. When in custody he unburdened himself to Detective Macaulay. He admitted that for several days he had been stealing, and what is most singular he has been but once in a position which aroused suspicion—the occasion of his larceny of a roll of calico and a parcel, taken from a house on William street and observed by a little girl coming out of the gate with the parcel under his coat and the parcel in his hand. He had a penchant for the theft of axes and shovels, some of which have been recovered. He also picked up a bundle of axe handles at Mr. P. Smith's on Ontario street, and three valuable books—Sheridan's complete works, copy of Shakespeare's writings illustrated, and a French and English dictionary—worth about $10 or $12, which he sold to Cliff for 30 cents. He had but one price apparently for everything, having sold the axe-handles, the calico and parcel, and the books for the same sum, though to different parties. He told where the books were, and on being asked for them Mr. Cliff at once delivered them to the police. The leaves on which the names of the owner seemed to have been written were torn out, and the only information the thief can give of them is that the house from which he looked them was situated somewhere near the Drill Shed. Those missing the books should communicate with the police without delay. The calico he says he sold to a person on Bagot street, and the individual named respondent the statement, but admits that the goods were offered to him for sale and rejected. The prisoner, whose plunderings have been prosecuted for the purpose of satisfying his craving for liquor, was before the court this morning, and on two of the charges was committed for trial. He is now in a fair way to reach the Penitentiary within a few days.

DR. ELLIOTT'S MINISTRY.

YESTERDAY'S PUBLIC DISCOURSE—CHARACTERIZED BY ELOQUENCE AND FORCE.

Rev. Dr. Elliott commenced—rather re-entered upon—his ministerial labours as senior C. M. minister in the city yesterday, his sermons being characterized by great earnestness, deep thought, and piety.

In the evening he occupied the pulpit of the Queen St. church. His theme was "If thy presence go not with me, I will not go." He opened with an interesting explanation of the circumstances under which Moses came to make use of this remarkable sentence, the deliverer of God's ancient people having hesitated about following a conqueror which he was called upon to take unless he had the assurance of the Most High approval and assistance. Moses felt that he could not guide the people of Israel, that he could not guard them, in consequence of their hard heartedness and stiff neckedness; he knew he could not support and sustain them alone, that they could only be directed and encouraged and comforted and saved by the Omnipotent One, and hence his prayer, "If Thy presence go not with me, I will not go." By which he meant that he had to have the manifestations of God's power in a direct and gracious and active way. Hence reference was made to the necessity of God's presence in making one's way through the world and in one's connection with the Church. It was wanted to give unity in his service. What could be done without unity, without harmony and without agreement? It could be done without God's influence. What could be done without harmony in any department of science or in art with all its beauty and completeness and poetry and perfection? Unity was strength. There was no possibility of making any means of weakness, if the combination was wrong one, if the component parts would not coalesce, if the composition gave increased force to the side of wrong. To such a man he did not refer. The point was this, if unity was wanted for the prosperity of the Church how was it to be effected? By magnificent preachers with command of wondrous eloquence and power? No, for if such a man were to be brought into the Church he would be, low at the feet of Immanuel. God's presence did more than that—it changed man and made the individual delight in the service of God. The Almighty had promised to write a new law on the hearts of His people and when He had done this they would be qualified to serve him with acceptance and success. It was a fact of which the Church was satisfied, that the combined wisdom and power of man did not save him, Christ taught this to Nicodemus when he said, "Except a man be born again he cannot enter the kingdom of Heaven." "That which is born of the flesh is flesh, and that which is born of the spirit is spirit." God's presence was a genuine man. This was a strange world, and they were strange people. He had said of the dignity of human nature to such that he loathed the very name. The dignity of human nature. Take human nature and strip the covering, elevate, present it to God and it was the saddest sight under heaven and on earth to look at. It was stated that if any man lacked wisdom he should ask it of God, who gave most liberally and copiously. It was said that the man who commended himself to the audience of God should feel strengthened to discharge the duties of life day by day. God's presence also protected and provided for the believer.

During the evening, after calling for a number of passengers at Hog Island, in rounding the western part of the island, struck the bar and damaged her wheel by breaking one of the iron flanges.

APPEARANCE OF OUR CITY.

AS NOTICED BY A VISITOR—EVIDENCES OF REVIVING TRADE—ITS HARBOUR AND MARINE TRAFFIC, ETC.

A few days ago we gave an artist's opinion of Kingston. To-day we give the impressions of a commercial man, who writes thus to the Shipping Gazette, Toronto:

Any one who knows the "limestone city," does not need to be told that it is not only a very well built and not unpicturesque place, but also a busy and thriving one. Of course here as elsewhere the depression of trade has been felt, and has left its traces, but not nearly to such an extent, we fancy, as in some other localities. At present there seems to be many evidences of reviving trade, and the advent of better times. Kingston possesses special advantages as a business centre. Judging from the very large attendance upon its tri-weekly market in the portions of quite an extensive and productive county, district, and its marine advantages are undeniably exceptionally good. Consequently the docks are always crowded with shipping of various sorts, no small quota of which consists of the numerous ferry passenger boats that ply from this to the various lake ports, Canadian and American. The marine traffic has been, here as elsewhere, a very barren source of profit during the last few years, and many captains and shippers to whom we spoke were unanimous in saying that it barely, if at all, covered expenses. One very intelligent captain lamented in the plainest terms to manifest injustice that was done to the shipping interests by shippers who are so blind to their own interest as to give way to the policy of the railway companies during the period when they raise their freights. "Surely," he said, "if a little management they could so arrange their freights as to send them all during the season of cheap freights, and thus prevent the railways from securing the utterly unfair monopoly they are so eagerly trying to acquire."

The prospects of trade are on all hands admitted to be much better this season, and the tone of vesselmen in this part is in every respect cheerful. There is hardly a trace of the gloom and depression that has been so universal, and we venture to predict that, as all parties interested in marine matters become more alive to their true interests and the measures to be taken for their protection, the recurrence of such hard times as those just passed will be next to impossible. A little prudent forethought by its absence among men hitherto, will do much, if not everything, to prevent the stagnation of trade that has so much afflicted our inland marine during the past two or three years.

As to the general features of Kingston, your correspondent has only to say that they are exceptionally pleasing. The various public buildings have an undeniable pretensions of architectural beauty and effect. The streets are in capital order, and the pretty frequent appearance on their sidewalks of the "natty" Royal Engineers or Artilleryman gives a striking variety that is very pleasing to the eye. The hotel accommodations of Kingston are very good, and some of them compare not unfavorably with some of your best houses in Toronto.

A CURIOUS CASE.

During the Franco-German war a man named Teule was captured by the Prussians and taken to Germany, but on the way he attempted to escape, and in so doing nearly killed a sentry, and was condemned to be shot. By a mistake of the sentry, however, Teule was placed in the cell of a prisoner condemned to ten years' confinement in a fortress, and this latter was led out and shot in error. When Teule comprehended the mistake that had been made he resolved to leave the authorities in their error, and abstained from writing to his family in France. Meanwhile his wife and father made inquiries at the War Office, and were informed that Teule had been shot for assaulting a German sentry. On the strength of this his wife married again, and had a child now four years old. Nothing was wanted to make the confusion complete but the return of Teule to his native village, which took place a few days since, and the son of course received by his wife as the son returned from the grave. He had gone through the remainder of his ten years' confinement, and left Germany without arousing suspicion as to his identity.

The str. Flight, on the way to Nap-les, on Saturday, after calling for a number of passengers at Hog Island, in rounding the western part of the island, struck the bar and damaged her wheel by breaking one of the iron flanges.
