LIGHT-RUNNING ROYAL.

While the various Sewing Machine Companies exhibiting at the Centennial are disputing among themselves as to who obtained the highest honors there, and each claiming to be first—though the fact is they were each awarded a medal and diploma without any actual contest of the same kind of work on the different machines—it is an indisputable fact that the Light-Running Royal, manufactured by the Gardner Sewing Machine Company, of Hamilton, Ontario, goes steadily on its conquering march, and, in actual competition on every kind of work, with all the first class American and Canadian Machines, has, by the people's verdict, taken First Prize at the following Exhibitions held this season in Ontario:—

CITY AND VICINITY

☞ GOLD in New York at 3 o'clock 108⅞

GLASS BROKEN.—Dr. McCammon has been unfortunate in having three panes of glass broken in their passage to Kingston. The loss is covered by insurance.

WINTER.—December made its advent in wintry style. The temperature is about as cold as we should desire it, but the bottom figure is not yet reached. Skating will soon be in order.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.—On Sunday afternoon next the Rev. A. Bell, of Preston, Lancashire, will preach the sermon to St. Andrew's Society in Chalmers' Church at two o'clock.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.—The legal notices are given of the nominations, which will take place on Friday, the 22nd. The prospect is that the elections will be very warmly contested this year.

VITAL STATISTICS.—The City Registrar has the following records for the past month: Births, 15; Marriages, 14; Deaths, 17. "Old Mortality" has had the best of it.

CHEAP.—Mr. J. C. Hardy advocates a good lunch for 10 cents. This is surely low enough for any body, and he has a splendid place. He has a plentiful supply of those well named famous N.B., oysters—cheap.

REV. P. GRAY'S LIBRARY.—Very many would like to secure some memento of the late Rev. P. Gray, and the opportunity is now afforded in the sale of the library of the late Rev. gentleman, which is on exhibition at the book store of Mr. Samuel Woods.

THE BROCKVILLE ASSAULT.—In the assault case, in which one Charleton made an attack upon one Austin (a book agent), the magistrate yesterday fined Charleton $25 and costs, in all amounting to $36. Charleton had to pay pretty dearly for the luxury of boxing an opponent.

LEG BROKEN.—This morning a laborer, whose name we did not learn, came in on the Kingston & Pembroke RR. from Sharbot Lake, his leg having been broken by a blow of a sledge, misaimed by a second person at a drill which the injured man was holding. On the arrival of the train considerable delay followed, no conveyance being ready to take the sufferer to the hospital.

INTERCESSION.—Yesterday the united prayer of intercession on behalf of the Anglican missions throughout the world was held in St. George's Cathedral, the Rev. Hy. Wilson, of St. George's, reading prayers, and Rev. Mr. Kirkpatrick, of St. James' Church, preaching an appropriate discourse. The services will be continued at St. Paul's on Sunday, and in St. James' on Monday evening.

MARTIN FARQUHAR TUPPER.—To-morrow evening the people of Kingston will have an opportunity of greeting the celebrated poet, Martin Farquhar Tupper, who will appear at the City Hall, reading selections from his poems. Mr. Tupper is known best by his "Proverbial Philosophy," published first in 1839; but his minor works possess many merits, a fact that, doubtless, those who hear the accomplished poet will at once acknowledge. Mr. Tupper's "Ballads for the Times," "Lyrics," "Stephen Langton," "Cithara" and his exquisite sonnets have established for him a reputation not second to any of the minor poets of England. It is not likely that the people of Canada will ever have another opportunity of testifying their regard for an appreciation of the author of "Proverbial Philosophy." The Ottawa Citizen says "he is now 66 years of age, and although rugged and hearty is rapidly nearing the allotted time of man."

THE IMPORTANT QUESTION.—A young bachelor alderman, who takes a peculiar interest in civic affairs, and who has designs upon a seat in the Council Chamber in 1877, was around the other day, noting the public improvements, and feeling the public pulse, as it were. He entered one house, in which resides a ratepayer who had been described as 'sitting on the fence.' He solicited his vote and influence, and the old man hesitated. Then the young alderman's eloquence did the business. He told how much he had done for the ward, and how much he intended to do; and then to give practical demonstration of his desire to perform a service he asked: 'What can I do for you? anything?' and the old man smiled, looked askance on an aged maiden daughter, who winked at the handsome gent, and whispered gently, 'aye, man, ye wud muckle oblige me if ye wud tak me daughter, Katie." There was a sigh and a shuffle, and the aldermanic papa was gone. This story has been related to us as an actual occurrence, and we give it as a warning to other candidates to be very circumspect in their lanuguage when canvassing for votes.

AN ESCAPED CONVICT ARRESTED—BLACKMAILING AN ESCAPED PENITENTIARY BIRD:—Says the Montreal Witness; Alphonse Picotte, 21, who was sent down yesterday to gaol for four months by the Recorder, for having created a disturbance in Claude street, is charged with having stolen a gold watch from J. B. Bienvenu, who escaped from the Kingston Penitentiary last summer. Bienvenu says that he gave Picotte money several times to provent him delivering him over to the police authorties, but that he was not satisfied with that, and took his watch by force. Bienvenu was arrested early this morning by Detectives Areand and Cullen. He was found in a small house in St. Felix street. He has been leading a "fast" life in this city lately under the name of Wilson alleged he hailed from California and has spent all his money freely. The officers had got wind of his presence in Montreal by the amount of money he spent with friends. It may be remembered that he stole $400 from Green of Papineau Road, in 1874, and was sentenced to five years' imprisonment therefor.

BURNT DISTRICT.

Re-Opening of Gunn's Drug Store.

On the night of the big fire on Princess Street in June last—when the flames consumed the wealth of years, and seemed to lay in ashes property the value and like of which could not be replaced for a good deal and a long time, and the ruin of which called forth general expressions of regret—perhaps the loss of no place was commented upon more than that which attended the internal destruction of Gunn's Drug Store, and Morrison's Flour Mart, both buildings of fine cut stone, and built with a solidity that meant years of endurance. The firemen did their best to save them. The excellent fire poof qualities of the outside resisted the fire for a time, but eventually the intense heat proved mightier than the opposing elements, and they suffered as the buildings adjoining did, but not to the same extent, the walls still remaining good, especially those of the drug store, the stone work of which stood out firm and solid. The owners made the best of their cases. They at once had the contracts given out to have the buildings reconstructed. The work was begun on Gunn's premises about the 10th of July, and as an advertisement intimates, the re-opening will take place to-morrow, (Saturday) a new stock in the meantime having been provided, and made as attractive as only drug goods can be made by neat assortment and arrangement. Just enter the shop and see the transformation! Everything has a new and fresh look. More than that, modern fittings and modern appliances have been added, and evidences are on every side apparent of an application of improvements to the requirements of the times. This is an age wherein a combination of circumstances is desired, when it can be easily accomplished, hence we see in this building substantiality and beauty—in the first place a solid structure is built and then the embellishments are introduced with appreciable effect. The store has no semblance of similarity to the old one. By an alteration in the depth of shelving, &c., the shop is made much wider, and the windows are enlarged. For the latter plate glass has been supplied through Messrs. Fraser & George, while the door class is furnished by Messrs. Dinoon, Drake and Dodd, of Montreal, and is so made that lettering and ornamentation is shaded in the glass in a very pleasing style. The counters have been made after the most approved ideas, and run the entire length of the shop on both sides, surmounted by handsome show cases. The wood in the floor is of two kinds and shades, laid alternately and at a considerably angle; while the ceiling is frescoed in a very pretty manner. The shelving displays not only nicety but uniqueness of design, and after receiving the finishing touches of the able brush of Mr. A. Grant, a Kingstonian, the visitor must express his admiration freely. In the rear of the shop, facing the entrance and running across the end thereof, is the dispensing department, and in this, as in everything else, Mr. Gunn has shown his good taste and judgment. The appartments lack in no essential. Back of the main building a two story building has been erected to take the place of that which disappeared in June last when surrounded and attacked by the devouring element. It is 27 feet wide and 50 feet long, a creditable piece of workmanship to mason and carpenter. This Mr. Gunn uses for storing, packing, etc., and the several apartments are fitted up with every needful convenience. The cellar is most important of all in its dryness, airness, light and security against climatic changes. It has a perfectly smooth stone floor—the rock of ages; but one seldom seeks an abiding place in the basement. "Upward" is the motto, and as we ascend the eye again encounters the artistic work, which is rendered the more notable by the presence of so many elegant fittings with which Mr. Gunn fell in love while "doing" the Centennial at Philadelphia, and which have the peculiar merit of being novelties in this part of the country. We need not proceed further with our investigations. The whole building is a model of convenience and comfort, and Mr. Gunn can survey his labours with pleasure since a stranger and disinterested individual can find so much to please him. The masonry was done by Mr. George Newlands, the carpentry work by Messrs. Irving & Son.

Of the other buildings we may have something to say when they are re-opened for business purposes, as Gunn's will to-morrow. The change for the better has been such in what is now known as the "burnt district" that it has been remarked that in one sense the fire was a fortunate thing. Without discussing it from a pecuniary standpoint we feel glad that the change has taken place, for every reconstructed building is one that very much tends to beautify the city.

But pause for a moment! Man wants but little here below, nor wants that little long, it has been recorded, and yet a little bit of sidewalk is wanted past the houses of Gunn, et al, and it has been wanted a long time. When the walk is laid it is for the Street Committee to say and determine, but one thing is evident, it should be done speedily, for the season is too far advanced to warrant much delay. Come, gentlemen, be prompt and obliging.

MINSTRELS.—Cal. Wagner's Minstrels arrived in the city this morning, and during the day played through the principal streets. The brass band is very efficient, and cold as was the weather, the music sounded as if it was the production of experienced performers. The "burnt cork artists" will likely receive a cordial greeting to night. They come well recommended.

A valuable horse had swelling and hard lumps in his throat, could not swallow. Applied Giles' Liniment Iodide of Ammonia, instantly the soreness and lumps disappeared. I fell and cut my hand on a rusty nail, applied the Liniment, healing it up without experiencing any soreness. No stable or family should be without it. THOMPSON BROS., Seventeenth and Vine streets, Philadelphia.

POLICE.—John Watson, drunk, fined $2 and costs. John Henderson, drunk and disorderly, fined $10 and costs. William Kilmartin, drunk, fined $2 or 15 days.

SABBATH REFORMATION.

The Annual Meeting Last Night.

Last evening the Sabbath Reformation Society held their annual meeting in the First Congregational Church. The attendance was respectable but it was not large. Rev. R.V. Rogers occupied the chair.

Rev. J. MacKay opened the meeting by reading several passages of Scripture having reference to the subject that brought them together. He also led in prayer.

The Chairman, after a few remarks on the duties of the people to keep the Sabbath, called upon the Secretary, Dr. Mair, to read the Annual Report, which was a very lengthy and interesting paper, especially where reference is made to the death of the Rev. Patrick Gray, who was President of the Society in 1861 and 1862, and afterwards Vice-President for a number of years. He also related how Mr. Gray had the privilege of presenting an address to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, on the occasion of his visit to this country, in behalf of this Society; and he also read the reply from His Royal Highness, through the Duke of Newcastle, stating his deep interest in the welfare and objects of the Society. The late James Linton has also been called away from his earthly labors. He always took a deep interest in the Society. The objects of the Society was: 1. All employees of the Government to have rest on the Sabbath, especially in connection with public works on canals. 2. Early shop closing on Saturdays, so as to allow employees and employed sufficient time to prepare for the Sabbath. 3. Running of cars and vessels on Sabbath. 4. Funerals on Sabbath, especially where there are bands of music. Varied has been the success of their endeavours. There is a feeling, not unanimous among shop keepers, to close early on Saturday. Some 102 consented if it could be made nearly unanimous. In the Parliament it has been under discussion. The late Adam Gordon boldly contended for the proper observance of the Sabbath, and the Premier of the Dominion expressed himself in favour of the objects of the Society, but did not see the way as yet to take active measures. By the Government it would require considerable investigation before anything could be done. Petitions had been sent to the Council about the running of the street cars on the Sabbath. There was something not altogether above board in the way things were done. In the Bill of the Attorney-General nothing is said about running on the Sabbath, while in the one before the Council is one of the clauses committing them to the running cars. There is an evident manifestation to oppose the Sabbath by many in the Council. The disgraceful proceedings that took place during a funeral procession, causing such a desertion of the Church and Sabbath Schools that the clergy took it up and refused to officiate any more at funerals on the Sabbath.

The Treasurer's report was also received, showing a balance of $15.90 in the treasury.

The Rev. Mr. Grafftey then moved the officers for the ensuing year, and also that the reports first read be adopted, and he believed that all present would agree with him. Some people said that every Church, Y.M.C.A. and Temperance Society should be a Sabbath Reformation Society, and so they are in a sense. He had once heard a speaker in England, during the enactment of the corn laws, state that "it was necessary that the Parliaments outside Parliament should be carefully attended to;" and he believed it was so in regard to the observance of the Sabbath. The Sabbath was a great blessing in households and in the city. We should not like to live in any place where the Sabbath was less observed than it is in Kingston. The Society wanted to impress upon the Legislature that it was for the well-being of the country to have the Sabbath duly observed. It is a responsible thing to be an Alderman or Mayor of a city. Some people had said that Corporations had no souls. He thought that some Corporations had no brains. It was the object of the Society to show the Corporation what the people want. Men who desecrate the Sabbath were considered by some the friends of society. The tapsters of the Centennial wanted to have it opened on Sunday—it would be such a convenience—but Mr. Corliss stepped forward and said that if they did open on the Sabbath his large engine would not work. We wanted men like Mr. Corless, with brain and heart and back. The Sabbath was the gift of God, and we should value it as such; it was also a proof of the existence of God. The man who says he will work on the Sabbath insults his Maker. Rob a man of his Sabbath and you take from him what you cannot replace. God gave it to man for physical as well as for spiritual benefit. Street railways affect us all as citizens. It may be stated by some that it will be a great inconvenience if they do not run on Sundays. Well, we have done without it so far, and he saw no reason why it could not be done without longer. Others say it will be so convenient for people to come to church from Portsmouth. That was a growing evil. He (Mr. Grafftey) was invited, when at Philadelphia, to preach in a church some distance from his boarding house, and was told he could take the cars and so reach the church in a short time; but he declined to do so, and had another invitation to a church near at hand which he accepted, and so avoided the desecration of the Sabbath by encouraging railway traffic. It was a matter of noise and quiet, and the Corporation should be impressed with the fact that there are two classes to be considered, those that wanted quiet as well as those that wanted noise on the Sabbath Day. If we get jaunting cars to run on that day we will have immoral clerks. It won't pay to have such things and he hoped the citizens would see that.

The motion was seconded by Mr. A. Macalister without comment.

Mr. E. W. McColl was then introduced and expressed his hearty sympathy with the Society, which would give every man his rights, and it was the right of every man to be allowed to observe the Sabbath Day as a day of rest and attendance at divine worship.

The 120th hymn was then sung, after which Rev. A. Wilson was introduced, who expressed regret at seeing so few present, and his remarks would be few, considering the lateness of the hour. He had, however, not been satisfied with the way the observation of the Sabbath was advocated. He had the pleasure of hearing Dr. Hopkins' paper read at the Evangelical Alliance, and had he had an opportunity he would have spoken against it. He thought man's rest was a low ground to advocate the Sabbath upon. Man's right was equally as low a ground for advocacy. One man said it was a means of recreation to have the parks open on the Sabbath. Such grounds may be of use at some times, but he believed Christians would require to view it from a Scriptural standpoint. The Sabbath was in England at one time believed to be a Jewish institution merely. Scientists, who said that the days mentioned in Genesis were long indefinite periods, tended to do away with the Fourth Commandment. That Commandment was instituted before the time of Moses. We were driven back to the time when God rested from his labors for the institution of the Sabbath. Mr. Wilson then expressed his regret at the practice of Sunday funerals, and stated that he was doing all in his power to discontinue them. He also spoke of the grief it caused him, to see so many boats coming into and departing from the harbor on the Sabbath, and believed that the great losses on our steamboat lines were attributed to the Sunday travel. He believed the companies would lose lose nothing by stopping the boats on that day. They were working against the command of God and must expect to be answerable for so doing.

The address was an able one, and it is to be regretted that more time was not at the disposal of the Rev. gentleman in which to expatiate upon the subject in question.

The doxology being sung, the meeting was dismissed with the benediction being pronounced by Rev. Mr. Dobbs.

WIND WAFTS.

—Vennor, verily thou art a prophet. Thy predictions are perfectly correct.

—The ice is thickening and extending in the Bay of Quinte.

—Six hundred boxes of cheese were shipped from Belleville to England last week.

—The Belleville Ontario trash maker has a good opinion of himself. We said nothing, but suffered in silence.

—Belleville has appointed officials to take the census. It is aspiring to the honors of a city.

—The water in the Rideau Canal will be let off through the main sewer, Ottawa, on Saturday.

—A large flock of sheep was taken over on the Maud to-day from here for Cape Vincent.

—Rev. Principal Snodgrass has been elected President of the Sabbath Reformation Society for the ensuing year.

—This is the weather that makes people lively. It is better than policemen to keep the street corners clear of loafers.

—The New York canals closed to-day by official order; but Jack Frost stepped in ahead of time and closed them on his own account.

—Commence to cultivate an acquaintance with your neighbor's snow shovel; for the indications are that you will soon want to borrow it.

—The Oswego Palladium has perpetrated one pun on Mayor Britton. It says he expects in the coming election that every man will do his duty like Britains.

—Seth Green, according to the Rochester Express, took 2,500,000 salmon trout and 1,500,000 white fish eggs from the St. Lawrence between Kingston and Cape Vincent.

—A Democratic paper sings:

This world is but a fleeting show;
For man's illusion given;
The smiles of joy, the tears of woe,
Uncertain shine, uncertain flow;
There's nothing sure but Tilden.

—A reward is offered by the Napanee authorities for the apprehension of William Tabley, a young man of 18, who made away with clothing and $60 in money belonging to Robt. Cartier, Maryville.

—The Ottawa Free Press man felt yesterday as we felt when he wrote: "This is St. Andrew's Day. But where, oh where is the haggis of yore? Shall we never see it in its immensity any more? Gie us a plate o' parritch." We felt like our contemporary, with this difference:

—Our local contemporary is never wrong, at least it never admits an error. It says it was not wrong when it said the Presidential inauguration would take place on the 4th of March, that that is the day fixed for the inauguration, and if it fall upon a Sunday the ceremony can be fixed for another day. Certainly it can, but fixing the date and the taking place of the ceremony is a different thing.

THE OPERA.

"Le Fille de Madame Angot" has been played in Kingston, but never to better advantage than last evening. The piece was put upon the boards with splendid effect. In no piece was Miss Sallie Holman more spirited and vivacious, and as the maiden "Clairette Angot" dodging the importunities of a pair of lovers she was the star around which all the minor luminaries circled, and whose inspiration seemed to be imparted to and felt by others. Her singing, always rendered with precision and taste, was so captivating as not only to call for plaudits, but for encores. Miss Julia Holman gave an admirable impersonation of the actress "M'lle Lange," who saves "Clairette" from judicial persecution by her lover-like influence over the conspirator "Larivaudiere," (Mr. Ryse), one of the finest basso singers and most useful general performers that has ever been attached to the Company. Mr. Brookhouse Bowler, as "Pomponnet," and Mr. Brandisi, as "Ange Piton," a poet whose writing of rhythm against the Government was the cause of endless trouble, both sang and played their parts well. The rest of the Company may be favourably mentioned, for all did well; especially noticeable was the dancing of Misses Carpenter and Clara Lester, and the comedy of Messrs. Ryse and A. D. Holman and Miss Fice in the farce of "Too Many Cooks." The Holman Opera Company is a complete organization and deserves the success that generally attends it.

ESCAPE FROM THE ASYLUM.—Some time about six o'clock this morning, a female named Mary Smith, confined in Rockwood Asylum, for lunacy, made her escape, but how we have not heard. At any rate she was found in a Mr. Hampsden's, on the site of the Duff farm, to which place she walked in her slippers, but very lightly clad bodily and without any head covering. She stopped at Hampsden's to warm herself, and then word was sent to the police station, the conduct of the poor woman leading the occupants of the house to believe that all was not right with her. P. C. Carson had her conveyed to the police station, and he had only been there a short time when the guards arrived to give notice of her runaway and were somewhat astonished to find her in custody. She was conveyed back to the Asylum without making any resistance. Some days ago she hid herself about the Asylum, and caused quite a commotion and a good deal of search before her hiding place was discovered.
