

The Daily British Whig.

Office for Dublin, 10, St. Paul's Church, Dublin. THURSDAY EVENING, MARCH 8, 1877.

REMEMINDERS.

Annual Meeting of Baptist Church at 7:30 p.m. Lecture by Prof. Mackerras on the Theatre at 7:30 p.m. Meeting of St. Paul's Lit. and Hist. Society at 7:30 p.m.

"DESPERATE TACTICS."

The Mail of yesterday read a severe lecture to Mr. Blake for his speech in the House of Commons on Monday evening, when he could not resist the expression of his opinion upon Hon. John Beverley Robinson's absurd motion, which virtually called for a few more particulars relative to his own election expenses, and the subscription of the Northern Railway & Sir John's testimonial fund.

IRRESPONSIBILITY.

Ordinary politicians have long laboured under the innocent impression that only the man who possessed the confidence of a majority of the people's representatives in Parliament were responsible for the management of the public affairs.

SIR JOHN'S MIS-STATEMENT.

Sir John Macdonald, in the House during the discussion which Hon. John Beverley Robinson provoked, alleged that the Commission appointed to enquire into the affairs of the Northern Railway was instituted as a means of "destroying the characters of men as honest and standing as high in the estimation of the country as any one in the Administration."

OPPOSITION INVENOUES.

Mr. Huntington took part in the discussion of the Northern Railway question on Monday evening in the House of Commons; and he thus comes in for the round abuse of the Tory press, because he dare say one unkind word of Sir John and the practices of the Government of which he was the chief when the country went back on the Macdonald Ministry.

FENIANISM.

O'Mahoney is dead, and so, we think, is the conspiracy whose execrable operations he largely controlled while in the heyday of his career. It has been attempted to utilize the funeral of this Fenian chief in the interest of the defunct Society. The endeavour to galvanize into existence an association of assassins, branded with infamy long ago by the civilization of the world, will prove a signal failure.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS. (Continued.) The tariff debate was resumed by Mr. Charlton. He opened his remarks by reviewing the position of the country and the difficulties besetting the Government when they take office; then the absurdity of attributing to them the depressed state of trade, and the inconsistency which had characterized the conduct of the Conservative leaders.

THE TORY REACTION.

The following is a summary of the "Current Events" in the Canadian Parliament for March. The Dominion Parliament met on the 8th ult., with the usual formalities, though without even the ordinary display of interest or enthusiasm.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The picnic campaign is bearing bitter fruit for the Opposition. Will Sir John pay it back now that he knows where it came from? Some patriot should pour a little ice-water on the fevered brow of Dr. Tupper.

CURRENCY.

Toronto Bay is free from ice. The ice in Buffalo river and harbor is fast rotting away. The seal of Sergeant Bates is marching, but his body is sawing wood in Illinois.

Canadian Banks Misrepresented.

London, March 6th.—The Times, in an editorial referring to a dispatch, dated Montreal, February 10th, to the New York Herald, says:—"To many the news will be no surprise that it is well known that several Canadian banks have been seriously burdened for some time with absolutely or comparatively worthless paper, on account of the railway projects of the Province of Quebec."
