Here is a likeness of the celebrated HUNG-CHANG-CHI-CHOW, a celestial mandarin from the Land of Lauterna a direct descendant of the first Tea grower Chinese Empire.

JAMES REDDEN calls the attention of the public to the honest look of this China man's countenance, and at the same time reminds it that the reason of the great success which has hitherto attended his business is, first—The genuine quality of his celebrated Teas which he imports direct from the flowery vales of China, through the agency of the above Hung Chang Chi Chow; Second—The extraordinary low price not only of his TEAS, but also of every article which comprises his vast Stock of Groceries, including everything from Bird's nest Soup to nightingales tongues.
