Nothing presents a sadder commentary upon the present condition of society than the large number of families, both in town and country, but more especially in the latter, that subscribe to no paper of any kind. Hundreds and thousands of families are thus growing up utterly ignorant of what is transfiring in the world around them-ignorant of the mighty events of the day. But who can tell the vast amount of injury that is being inflicted on the rising generation -those who are to take our place in the busy world at no distant day-growing up without any knowledge of the present; or any study of the past.
