CIRCULATION.

The DAILY BRITISH WHIG has circulated and still circulates more copies regularly than any paper published between Toronto and Montreal. The books are open to any enquirer who will guarantee a similar concession on the part of other papers.

The WEEKLY BRITISH WHIG exceeds the circulation of the combined local Weekly papers, being fully 50 per cent. in advance of its long established rival.

The public are again cautioned against the false reports sent by rival Journals to Pettengill's Newspaper Directory. The BRITISH WHIG has the largest circulation either Daily or Weekly and has never yet found it necessary to issue a falsehood about them.

THURSDAY EVEN'G JUNE 14, 1877.

"The career of the ex-Minister of Justice has been most decidedly a failure." This is from a Tory organ. Sir John is an "ex-Minister of Justice," and we most emphatically apply the quotations to him in everything involving the honour of the country during his Governmental career.

In the congenial job work of Cabinet tinkering there must be a peculiar sort of comfort to Tory organs. They are vigorously and continuously hammering away in the forlorn hope of striking some stray nail on the head. Should one of them accidentally hit the mark in but one case out of a hundred, the solitary success would more than atone for all the miserable failures. The lucky organ would shout the triumphant "We told you so," and never cease to plume itself above its less fortunate contemporaries as the veritable "Old Probs." of the Tory party.

Among many other equally foolish surmises here is one which may be regarded as one of the latest jokes in the line of Tory conjecture. "It will cause no surprise if, ere long, that gentleman (Mr. Blake) be elevated to the Bench, to the position, perhaps, of Chief Justice of the Court of Appeal in the place of Chief Justice Draper, who will retire." Judge Draper will, no doubt, "retire" when this authoritative announcement arrests his attention. So significant a hint from such a source will, no doubt, have quite a moving effect upon the Chief Justice. The Hon. Edward Blake may some day don the ermine. No public man in Canada was ever more fit to wear it with ability and honour. Let not our Tory friends, however, lay the flattering unction to their souls that he is soon to leave the floor of parliament to ascend the Bench. His name will long remain a tower of strength to the Reform cause and a terror to the evil doers in the Conservative camp.

THE CHANGES.

It perplexes us to know how the Mail can take the interchange of offices among three members of the Cabinet as indisputable evidence of the speedy disruption of the Cabinet, while other Tory journals are publishing lists of past changes more radical than this last, but which were followed by no disaster such as is now predicted. So much cry about so little wool, if evidence of anything, is rather the proof of Conservative desperation. How journalists, with plenty of pretension to common sense, should so presume upon the common sense of their readers we are at a loss to understand. The changes portend no disaster to the Reform party, and it is needlessly exciting public ridicule against themselves for Tory journals to say so. The changes were effected to relieve Hon. E. Blake of the onerous duties of the department of justice to which the present state of his health was not equal. Only that and nothing more. They have no significance whatever beyond that. But Tory rage can perhaps be accounted for. The organs had predicted certain sweeping changes in the Cabinet. They are intensely chagrined that these predictions were so far from verified by the event. They had bottled their rage for the coming occasion, and when it came they had to pour out the vials of their much fermented wrath, no matter how much it might cover themselves with the confusion of public contempt.

REFORM DEMONSTRATION!

At a largely attended and most enthusiastic meeting of the Reform Association of Kingston, held last evening, it was resolved to tender a public reception to the Hon. Messrs. Mackenzie and Mowat, Premiers respectively of the Dominion and Ontario Governments. It was also determined to extend a cordial invitation to several of the Reform leaders of both Houses to take part in the demonstration. It will give Reformers the liveliest satisfaction to know that the inventions of Tory mendacity are not to pass unchallenged. The most unqualified confidence was expressed last evening in the probity and ability of the men placed by the country at the helm of affairs. There is an undisturbed conviction that the reckless misrepresentations of the opposition leaders can and will be met and triumphantly refuted. As the City Hall would be entirely inadequate to the accommodation of the large numbers who will be sure to attend, the proposed demonstration will in all likelihood take place at the Crystal Palace grounds. Here city and county can with equal convenience unite in the rare treat of hearing the political issues of the day discussed by the ablest men in Canada. Judging from the enthusiasm which has marked its inception, the coming public reception of the Reform leaders promises to be the most imposing and influential political event ever known to the history of the city of Kingston and County of Frontenac.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

There is much in a name spite of a high opinion to the contrary. Our Conservative friends are like their chieftain is proclaimed to be, "lenient to a fault." They are in fact proverbial for their consideration of the feelings of their opponents, and although a sense of duty or party loyalty may sometimes prompt them to call a spade a spade, and a Reform Minister a "beast," and apply to their opponents other harsh epithets of the "bloodhound" species, yet, as a rule, Tory moderation is known to all men. Under these gentlemanly circumstances it is only fair that they should expect from Reformers reciprocal amenities, and on behalf of his party Dr. Tupper demands that these shall be granted. So, let it be understood, the $180,000 bribe furnished by Sir Hugh Allan was not a bribe. It was a "subscription," intended in some vague way, he hardly knew how, to advance the construction of the Pacific Railway. To be sure it was not altogether a patriotic contribution, but it was partly that; and, for the rest, was intended, by the completion of the great transcontinental road, to bring honest grist to his mill by furnishing his ocean lines with additional traffic. It is in this light we are to regard the contribution of the above vast sum from a man who had never before been known to subscribe a dollar to party purposes. Then we are given to understand that the "subscription" was accepted by Sir John in the same spirit in which it was tendered by Sir Hugh. In the expenditure nothing wrong was either intended or perpetrated. The guileless doctor entered, we are told, "into a detailed statement regarding the Pacific Railway charges, and vindicated the conduct of the late Government, whose leader in the matter was actuated by the most patriotic motives." The country condemned this peculiar patriotism by ignominiously driving the patriots from power to make way for "honester men." But it seems the country was mistaken. In fact the Chieftian said so last year in Belleville, and declared that he would yet compel the people who had done him so base an injustice to reverse their decision and declare his innocence. True, he sold the public charter, and with the proceeds bought in a Parliament, and for this double shuffle of corruption was condemned by the voice of the English speaking world. But what of that? Both Chieftain and Lieutenant unite to say that corruption is a misnomer in the case, and patriotism is the word. What can the Canadian people expect from men who are straining every nerve to regrasp the reins of power, and whose moral sense is so blunted as to call their political crimes by such sweet soft names, and expect the people to do so too? As says the London Advertiser, "they are evidently planning new sins, which, the darker they are the more patriotic they will call them."

A SILLY CRY.

Tory organs are still stoutly opposing the appointment of M. Laflamme as Minister of justice. There is no objection to him in this capacity which would not be equally valid against him in the office he held before. If his mental endowments and legal attainments are equal to the occasion he is just as unobjectionable for this position as for any other in the cabinet. True his election is being contested, but ministers of the crown are as much exposed to this hardship, if it be one as are private membe a of parliament, and more so, since they must be twice elected. If there is any force in the noisy protest of the organs it would amount to this that the opposition of the day could prevent the appointment of any Minister, or, for that matter the formation of a ministry from the majority at all. And by this simple plan. It is well enough known that every newly appointed minister of the crown must submit his assumption of office to his constitutents for approval. He does so and is re-elected. What is to hinder his defeated opponents from filing a protest against his return? But in this last case he is a Minister of the Crown upon his trial, and therefore he should not dare to outrage public decency by retaining his office, but should instantly retire to private life! But, then, nothing is too absurd for Tory argument in the present heated condition of the party organs. If not too excited for the discrimination, can our Conservative contemporaries distinguish between a prisoner undergoing trial with his innocence assumed till his guilt is proved, and a convict undergoing his punishment with the unmistable brand of his guilt upon him? M. Laflamme is being tried, but is not yet pronounced guilty. He may be, but we must wait till he is. Sir John A. Macdonald was unseated and nearly disfranchised by the judge for corrupt practices. Sir John was Minister of Justice but shortly before, the Tory party would gladly hail his return to the same position did the Country only permit it. In view of these facts, how absurd it is to bluster about the indecency of M. Laflamme's appointment.

London Picnic Notes.

—Dr. Tupper complained yesterday that he had lost his voice in Kingston. It is to be hoped that a suitable reward will offered for the recovery of the missing article. 'It was all.

—At London Sir John said that at the time of Confederation Canada was a "half ruined country." As Canada had been governed for some fifteen years before that by Sir John himself, there can be no doubt as to whom Canada's "half ruined" condition should be credited.—Times.

—Sir John had considerable to say yesterday about "whitewash"—an article with whose effects he seems to be quite familiar. This gave the key note to the oratory of the day, as about all the other speakers did was to daub the whitewash on the right honorable gentleman pretty heavily. Quite right. He needs it all.

—During the performance at the political circus yesterday afternoon, polite and gentlemanly ushers distributed thro' the audience illustrated show bills in the shape of Grip's last cartoon. These were carefully folded and put in their breast pocket by the Conservatives, to be preserved as memorials of the great performers, and to be handed down to their posterity.—Tiser.

WANT TO SETTLE.—It is said that the course for the Sarnia Canadian has made an offer to the Premier for a isettlement of the libel case, but the latter refused any settlement unless the Canadian acknowledged publishing a deliberate falsehood.

BELLEVILLE NEWS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

There is little local news of importance to chronicle. In fact there is nothing doing, and if we are to judge by the pabulum of news (of a home nature) that is served up by the local reporters of this town's papers, their task is indeed a difficult one. Doubtless, like all quill drivers, they like to make a good show in their departments, but they are unable to do it, as the material is much wanting.

PLEASING AFFAIR.

This afternoon Mr. J. W. Loudon, foreman of the job department of the Daily Intelligencer, who is about taking a trip to England, was presented by his fellow employees with an address, accompanied with a handsome dressing case. The address recited the good opinion entertained by the men of Mr. L., and the wish that his visit to his native land would be beneficial to him. Mr. Loudon expressed his thanks for the manifestation of regard presented to him, and a pleasant affair was thus brought to a close.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Yesterday afternoon a barn belonging to Mr. W. McWilliam's Hotel, in the village of Marmora, was struck by the electric fluid, which split a rafter and set fire to the structure. The fire was subdued without much difficulty.

DASTARDLY OUTRAGE.

The body of Mrs Cross, which was buried at the village of Tweed on Monday, was exhumed that night and the intestines taken out and some of them thrown back into the coffin in a very indecent and shameful manner. The outrage was discovered on Tuesday by the finding of parts of coffin trimming near the grave. Several villagers are suspected of the crime.

THE WAR NEWS.

ALL TURKS ORDERED OUT.

The Situation Desperate!

But Yet a Turkish Success.

A Russian Repulse at Kars.

Fights on the Danube

The Liveliest Day Yet in News.

New York, June 14.—A Constantinople despatch says there is excitement there consequent upon a decree of the Sultan, ordering all subjects to be ready for immediate service. The Sultan's cabinet considers the situation very critical; and at an extra military council on Wednesday it was decided to press the war tax and enforce the call for more men and material.

It is stated that the Greek Patriarch, after a long conversation with the Sultan on Wednesday, promised to use his influence with the Greeks to prevent their offensive operations against Turkey.

An important victory is announced at Constantinople by Parmley Pasha at Basil. No details.

Mukhtar Pasha is evidently in a critical position at Erzeroum, and unless the Russians be drawn off by some strategy, it seems impossible that the Turkish forces there can avoid a surrender en masse. The fortress and town of Varis are similarly situated. The great difficulty is that communication is cut off, as the Russians are guarding every pass and road, thus intelligence is not to be obtained of what is being done in different places, such as Varis, Erzeroum, Arsetoum and Batoum. Several efforts have been made to restore telegraph lines, but all failed. A Batoum despatch says the Russians are pushing siege works. Reinforcements are greatly needed, and without relief the Turkish troops there will become tired and the officers despondent.

A Cartrage despatch says the Turks advanced along the Duga pass on Tuesday night.

The Turkish and Montenegrin armies face each other at Dubritschka, but no fight yet reported.

A correspondent at Berlin states that the central committee of the Jewish Alliance have resolved to petition the German Government, protesting against the oppression of their brethren.

Bucharest, June 14.—The Turks are entrenching at Kustendjie.

London, June 14.—A despatch from Erzeroum states that desperate fighting is going on before Kars. A battle began yesterday. The result is not known at present.

London, June 14.—Latest reports of the siege of Kars say the Russian commanders attempted to take Kars by storm last Saturday, while simultaneously an attempt was made to sieze the heights commanding the town. The garrison made a sorte and repulsed the Russians with heavy loss.

New York, June 14.—A despatch from Vienna says the Turks succeeded in relieving Necisi.

A telegram from Tiflis states the Russian siege of Batoum is steadily advancing and the Turks are greatly in need of reinforcements. The capitulation of the city is expected within a few days.

London, June 14.—A Times financial says the Russian loan of $75,000,000, originally offered to the Houses here and refused, is now to be issued at Paris and Berlin at 70 per cent by a syndicate of bankers.

A Times correspondent at Bucharest telegraphs: "The Russians and Turks have constructed strong batteries on the opposite shores of the Danube at Salurnou and Isuktchi, where the Russians crossed in 1828. The immense mass of material which the Russians are moving toward the Danube can scarcely be lodged in the depots on the river before the 1st of July. It is, therefore, scarcely probable any attempt will be made to cross before that month, and this supposition is strengthened by the present state of the Danube. The enemy will certainly be on the alert on account of the Czar's arrival at headquarters, and therefore instead of the Czar's arrival, as thought by the same being an indication of immediate activity, it is much more probable it be allowed to lose its awakening effect on the Turks, and that they be suffered to relapse into the r usual lethargy."

London, June 14—The race for the 1,000 sovereign gold cup, the great event of the day, was won by Lord Dupplen's Petrarch, with Skylark second, and Comassie third.

Erzeroum, June 14.—The Turks after occupying Olti marched in the direction of Ardhahan. A Russian detachment was sent from Ardahan to reinforce the centre. Twelve battalions of troops, a field battery and four mountain guns, left of the Russian left wing, are before Topeck Kaleh.

Constantinople, June 14.—Three attacks were made on Friday by the Russians against Fort Tamax, which was erected in 1855 to strengthen that of Fort Velipachi, which is key to Kars. Other returned attacks followed on Saturday, but the result is unknown.

A despatch from Lieut.-General Mehamed Ali, dated June 12, announces the defeat of the Montenegrins at Atchins.

London, June 14.—A telegram from Rustchuk yesterday says that last night a party of Russians opposite Maretin attempted an attack in boats upon a Turkish Monitor there, but the latter, with the help of the land battery, beat them off. To-day another attempt was made to construct a battery on the island, but the Turks compelled the enemy to retreat. Both affairs are considered feints to find out the position of the Turkish batterys.

A London despatch from a correspondent with the Mukwah Pasha camp, dated June 11th, says reports have arrived from Kars that the Russians have massed round Kars all the troops which they brought from Ardahan, Gumry, Kagishman and Gouricamich. For several days they have attempted to storm Forts Tohmas and Karadagh, but on every occasion they have been repulsed. On Saturday they made a desperate effort to take possession of some of the heights when the garrison of Kars made a sortie in force with field artillery and repulsed the Russians with great loss. There are no Russian soldiers between Olti and Erzeroum. Mukhtar Pasha's pickets extend from his camps at Zewia to Olti on one side, and to Erzeroum on the other.

The Russian batteries have been very successful in frustrating all attempts. A sortie yesterday repulsed with heavy loss to the Turks, only seven Russians slightly wounded.

The women are believed to be connected with a fashionable millinery store in this city. The whole seizure will aggregate to some twenty thousand dollars.

London, June 14.—The receipt of Lord Derby's reply to Prince Gortschakoff has not been officially acknowledged at St. Petersburg, as the Russian Cabinet consider that it couched in curt and unusual language.
