Henry Clews, New York. Those who come from abroad to enjoy American freedom must be made to understand that freedom is not license and that this is not the place to wreak vengeance upon foreign por tentates; while those here who preach the gospel of envy and hatred and class prejudice, whether from platform, press or pulpit, must realize that they too share the responsibility for creating evil forces, of which Czolgosz's bullet was merely a natural consequence. There are inequalities and evils in our social system that sorely need rectifying; but the sooner the people learn that many of the socialistic and anarchistic remedies ar worse than the disease the better the country. Our people as a whol are sound in political and social aspirations; yet material prosperity has made us too easy-going in regard to public affairs, and toleration in dealing with dangerous classes has gone to the extreme; sterner methods are required in the treatment of disorder, and public opinion needs a vigorous

Give them special instances to fire their ambition, detailed accounts of success. Then impress upon them the fact that in every case the successful and happy man found happiness in himself.

Beauty's Influence on Children. A teacher in Chicago fitted up a little hallway as a "beauty corner" for her pupils. It had a good, though small, stained glass window, a divan covered with an eastern rug, Braun carbon photographs of a few fine paintings and a few other artistic trifles.

The children rejoiced in it greatly, and one day she asked them what they would keep if they could have one thing left of the corner. The decision was almost unanimous for the stained glass window. "What next?" she asked, and they awakening to the folly of tolerating thought they would like to keep the beautiful drapery on the divan. They expressed the love of color that is instinc-

Golden Hornesboes. Roman writers inform us that Commodus caused the Loofs of his horse to be gilded. Nero, when he undertook short journeys, was always drawn by mules that had silver shoes, and those of his wife, Poppæa, had shoes of gold. From a passage in Dir Cassius there is reason to think that the upper part only was formed of those noble metals or that they were perhaps plaited out of thip slips. When Boniface, marquis of Tuscany, one of the richest princes of his time, went to Beatrix, about the year 1038, his whole train was so inagnificently decorated that his horses were shod with silver. The nails were even of the same metal.
