Daily British Whig. Conkling although so deeply ebullient at his failure to carry Grant's nomination at the Chicago convention...

The Toronto Telegram confesses to the necessity of other attractions than the mere exhibition to bring people to the city in large numbers.

Inspector Langmuir has completed and published the results of an exhaustive investigation into certain loose charges of inhumanity which had been preferred against the management of the Penitentiary Reformatory.

There are some exceptions to the proneness of Conservative journals to shut their eyes to the lesson of the Liberal gains in the votes of West Toronto and North Ontario.

The latest joke on Langmuir is that he expects to be made a Baronet. He has been waiting and aching a long time to be knighted; he fully expected the honour last Queen's Birthday, and a year before that, but he has been cruelly doomed to repeated disappointments.

As so much concern money Peter Redpath and the Congate Milling Machine has disgorged a considerable sum out of the pile he has made from the sugar tax and donated it to McGill College.

A FALL SESSION. The Mail intimates the probability of a Fall session of the Dominion Parliament to consider the terms of the Pacific Railway bargain.

Another horrible case of parricide has occurred near Stratford, Ont. In this case liquor was undoubtedly the inciting cause of the crime.

London Truth is of opinion that the judges should be given power to sentence persons convicted of bribery at elections to terms of imprisonment.
