1 ... Insurance Management.

The Chicago Inter-Ovean has also been misled in regard to the way in which the agents of insurance companies at Kingston do their business are to his bed, but was rescued.

"It is most laughable to hear the gone on a holiday. Time will tell. argo department of an insurance com pany complaining against the hull de partment of the same company. The cargo department of the particular com pany alluded to is 'managed' by agents in Chicago, Milwankee, Detroit, Toledo. etc., and the hull department by agents at Kingston, Montreal, etc., the nominal manager of the company allowing the gents generally to 'run him' as they please. Up here the cargo agents insure grain for little or nothing, and down there-on the St. Lawrence-the hull agents insure old traps of barges for little or nothing, and when the grain from here gets into the old barges the atter sink, and the company has to pay for cargo and hull too. This looks bas for insurance 'management,' and shows clearly that there is their commissions and nothing more. Now if the Inter-Ocean will give a list o'clock. of the barges in which any grain has been wet or lost on the river it will oblige the insurers and forwarders. The letter of Marine Inspector Taylor clearly show that not a cent of insurance has been paid by any companies during the years of 1879-80 for loss or damage in grain shipments, except in two instances. If the western record were as good the Chicago papers would have reason to expect a compliment.

Fish Market.

Yesterday an hotel keeper of this city had some guests who desired fish for dinner. He was in a dilemma. He went to the fish house but found it securely bolted. As a last resort he went to a Brock street dealer, and, taking a fish departed for his inn. Before he reached it he encountered a member of the Market Committee who demanded where he had made the purchase. The hotel keeper refused to supply the information. The alderman got excited and called upon a farmer to witness that the hotel keeper had a fish, and promised to have the latter fined for violation of the by-law. The hotel keeper became angered and was going to strike the Alderman, but checked himself. The Alderman went in search of justice but up to noon to-day had found it. The episode caused the spectators of it much merriment.

Cost of Coal Oil.

The price of coal oil had advanced to 40 cents per gallon, about double its former value. There are two reasons for this-(1) a strong combination of oil men has been formed, and (2) a much higher standard is exacted by the Government. It has to stand the test of 115°.
