The latest on the Eastern question to the effect that the British troops are to be entirely withdrawn from Afghanis tan and the country left to its fate. in other words, to its own people, British forces are not leaving Afghanis tan before having vindicated British honor and leaving behind toom a whole some respect for the power of England. The reigning Ameer also is of British appointment and the general condition of affairs is just now satisfactory. How long this will so remain is quite another question. Enough for the present that the troops of England can evacuate country whose useless invasion has cost such a terrible sacrifice of blood and treasure and that they can now return home in peace and with honour. Whatever the native Afghans may now do it the matter of their own Government it is not likely that England will repeat the mistake of reviving the spirited foreign policy by again invading and conquering them.

The election of Mr. Manson, for Brome, was an event which we anticipated, and in fact predicted. The county is essentially a Conservative one, having for years been the constituency of that consistent Conservative, Hon. Mr. (now judge) Dunkin, who was a member of Sir John Macdonald's ministry in the Government of old. Canada. It is true that the late member, Mr. Chandler, was a Liberal, but his elecpersonal popularity in the county. Mr. Fisher, the Liberal candidate in the re cent contest, has no reason whatever to be ashamed of the fight he made or o the defeat he has sustained. The ma jority against him is a comparatively small one, and he may be able to verse it at the next opportunity. Had Dr. Prime, the third intended candidate, remained in the field Mr. Fisher's election would have been the inevitable result. Of this the Tory leaders were well aware and hence their strenuous and at the last successful efforts to in duce him to retire. Considering the political antecedents of the county we are not at all surprised at the result nor do we see in it the slightest occasi for Liberal discouragement.

LOCAL ENTERPRISES.

Apart from the positive harm do the people of Canada by the National Policy in the burdensome taxation which it imposes upon them, there are many indirect disadvantages accruing from it. Not the least of these is the public impression that protection will create and foster industries without the exertion of the effort that would otherwise be necessary to their existence and success In spite of the policy of protection the people of Canada will have to re-learn the lesson that whatever specess at tends their industrial enterprises wil be due to their own efforts and sacri-National Policy to-day, and our citizens may as well at once wake up from the else delusion of trusting in such a broken reed, and to the fact that if their city is to prosper it must be by dint of their own exertions. To the Editor of the British Whis MY DEAR SIR,-Would you allow to draw your attention in the matter of the Queen's Counsel appointments to a point which you have apparently over-looked, that is the injustice done to one member of the legal profession particularly, in the recent appointments. If the honor is to be given merely on the grounds of legal standing it will readily be admitted that Mr. J. McIntyre was as much (to say the least) entitled to the position as either of the two local appointees. But as we all know that these appointments are semi-political and, therefore, naturally Reformers generally are overlooked) I submit that Mr. McIntyre was even much more entitled to consideration than Mr. Walkem. for his prominence in politics on the Conservative side is admitted generally, and I am satisfied would not be disputed by Mr. Walkem himself; and Mr. kirkpatrick has often admitted the
