LINCOLN'S PREMONITION. A Bream which Forecasted the Ex-Pre-sident's Beath. A strange dream was that which Pre ident Lincoln had the night before he The the story was truly told dr. Straton to Dickens the case is on of the most curious on record. Dickens told it thus in a letter to John Forster: "On the of the day on which the President was shot there was a Cabinet Council at which he presided. Mr. Stanton, being at the time Commander in Chief of the Northern troops that were concentrated about here, arrived rather late. Indeed, they were waiting for him, and on his entering the room the President broke off in something he was saying, and remarked, 'Let us proceed to business, gentle men. Mr. Stanton then noticed with surprise that the President sat with an air of dignity in his chair, instead of lolling about in the most ungainly atti todes, as his invariable costom was, and that instead of telling irrelevant and questionable stories he was grave and calm and quite a different man. Mr Stanton, on leaving the Council with the Attorney General, said to him. That is the most satisfactory Cabinet I have attended for many a long day What an extraordinary change in Mr Lincoln! The Attorney General replied. 'We all saw it before you came in. While we were waiting for you, he said, with his chia down on his breast, "Gentlemen, something very extraor dinary is going to happen, and that very soon. To which the Attorney General had observed, 'Something good, sir, I hope?" when the President answered very gravely, 'I don't know, I don't know. But it will happen, and shortly, too. As they were all impressed by his manner the Attorney-General took him up again. "Have you received any information, sir, not yet disclosed to us?" 'No,' answered the President, 'but I have had a dream. And I have now had the same dream three times. Once on the night preceding the battle of Bull Ran, once on the night preceding such another' (naming a battle also not favorable to the North.) His chin sank on his breast again, and he sat reflecting. 'Might one ask the nature of this dream, Sir ?' said the Attorney-General. 'Well,' replied the President without lifting his head or changing his attitude, 'I am on a great broad rolling river-and I am in a boat-and I drift and I drift !- but this is not business,'-

An English collier went to hear the celebrated Bradlaugh, the infidel who is attracting so much attention in England, and at the close of the lecture an opportunity was given to state any obections to the sentiments offered, if any one had such to present, whereupon an uncultured, plain-looking man arose in the audience and said : "Maister Bradlaugh, me and my mate Jim were both Methodys, till one of these infidel chaps cam' this way. Jim turned infidel and used to badger me about attending prayer meetings, but one day in the pit a big cob of coal cam' down upon Jim's head. When a band screnades Gen. Grant it is the best policy for members to choose the easiest tune. The General does not know one tune from another. The other evening when a band was playing "The Last Rose of Summer," he said, "I always did like 'Home, Sweet Home, especially that part of it which refers to the caken bucket." The band began another air, "Yankee Doodle," and General Grant said, "I always did like that tune of 'Home, Sweet Home;' the refrain about 'Away down upon the Swanee River,' always struck me as being very sentimental."
