Ignorant Magistrates.

In a township, not many miles from Kingston, there is but one justice of the peace who is capable of writing out warrant, and he has latterly refused act because of old, age. A county resident stated vesterday that in his township justice could not be administered because of the ignorance and incapability of the magistrates, who were mere figureheads. He thought that there should be some change made by the government. The majority of the magistrates throughout the county are not capable of sitting in judgment.
