BASEBALL HAS BEEN REVIVED
ODDESSA.

Looked as though the Camden Boys Would

Win, but the Odessians Tamed Out a

Victory—A Bad Injury—Terrible injury, to Frank Jones.

Odessa, July 18.—Interest in baseball, at a low ebb for a couple of years, was somewhat revived on Saturday last, when the first game in two years was played here. The junior team of Camden East came down and met the junior team of Odessa, assisted by a couple of the old seniors. The game was a very exciting one. Up to the sixth inning the home town was blanketed, and the visitors had piled up ten runs. In this inning Charlie Jones started the fire with a two-bagger, and the rest followed suit, until five runs had been scored. This was the turning point of the game, and the home team easily piled up eighteen runs in the next three innings, the final score being eighteen to thirteen in favor of Odessa. The battery for Odessa was G. Barry, Percy Baker and R. Cairns, and for Camden East the Smith brothers and George Guy. Both pitchers did good work at times. The game was fairly umpired by Mr. Guy, Camden East.

Much sympathy was expressed for Frank Jones in his terrible accident. The injury to his head is exceedingly serious, but if inflammation can be prevented there is no imminent danger. The sight of the right eye has been destroyed, and there is a deep cut across the forehead and right cheek. The sufferer is doing as well as can be expected and is resting under opiates.

Benjamin Mabee and wife have returned from Ottawa, where they have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. Macaire. Mrs. Stanley Mabee arrived in Odessa from Idaho on Tuesday last, to spend the summer with friends. The Methodist Sunday school picnic will be held at Lake Ontario park on the 18th inst., in conjunction with the Sabbath schools of Newburgh and Yarker. A number intend camping on the bay shore, south, this summer. Rev. Mr. McKee, with his children, has already pitched his camp. Mrs. McKee left on Saturday last for Toronto to visit friends.

ON SUSPENDED SENTENCE.
A Boy Charged With Criminal Assault—Was Released.

This morning Clifford Peterson, aged fourteen, of the township of Kenebacco, was charged before Judge Price with criminal assault alleged to have been committed on Alma Selman, of Arden. The latter is a girl of fifteen years, and swore that while coming from school on June 6th the prisoner, who had been hiding in the bush, rushed out and attempted to assault her. She broke away from him and took refuge in a neighbor's house. Peterson threw stones after her. The prisoner's mother pleaded on behalf of her son, stating that she was a widow, her husband and two children having died very recently, and that the prisoner was her only help. Mr. Selman, the girl's father, was willing that the prisoner should be released if he would promise to do him no harm, as he had threatened.

Judge Price said he would release the prisoner on suspended sentence if he could try and behave himself in future. On account of his widowed mother, he would not be hard on him this time.

Mrs. Peterson has had great difficulty since her husband's death, and has pulled through bravely. James Hart, a neighbor, spoke in favor of the prisoner, whom he said had been badly treated in the neighborhood. There did not seem to be any case of criminal assault truly out, and the whole affair might be called merely extreme frolic.

A Popular Summer Resort.

Bath, July 12.—The ancient and historic village of Bath has of late years become quite a summer resort. Our enterprising boarding house keeper, T. Edwards, has his hands full and there are every prospects that he will be kept busy all through the summer. The Americans are flocking here more than ever. The fishing is good. The scenery around Bath is enchanting and the drives along the bay shore from Kingston to Adolphustown, about thirty miles, are scarcely to be out-rivaled. The rector of St. John's church would be very pleased to recommend boarding houses irrespective of creeds. It may be mentioned that J. Chapman has given leave to play tennis on his grounds. There is a bicycle club and all strangers who are lovers of the wheel are made welcome. Bath has the reputation of being one of the healthiest spots in the dominion and the sanitary condition is well cared for by the committee and their able inspector, F. Whisker. Among many others we find that the following visitors are now staying at T. Edwards' Mr. Ross, New York; Mr. Grymes, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin, Syracuse; Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg, Buffalo; Mrs. Stead, four children and nurse, Kingston; Mrs. Phelan, friend, two children and nurse, Kingston; J. S. Skinner, Kingston. Truly we are going to have a lively time this year, but the more visitors we have the merrier it will be. There are two first-class hotels at Bath.

Bathes, which is a strange medley of modern and of ancient France, bears a distinctly aristocratic stamp. Its streets in the old, as well as in the new, quarters of the town are lined by stately mansions, with huge portes-cochères and immense windows, such as one sees in the aristocratic Faubourg St. Germain at Paris. At Bathes, also, the territorial nobility from all the surrounding countries establish themselves for the winter season, after having spent the summer and autumn at their country seats and chateaux. The whole city teems an intensely dignified and stately aspect, and there is nothing to suggest that frivolity which one is accustomed to associate with the French character.

The mixture of the old and the new at Bathes is due to the fact that during the last century two-thirds of the city was destroyed by fire. The oldest part is very old—the cathedral, for instance, having been built as far back as the twelfth century. King Henry VII of England presided over meetings of the English parliament at Bathes, and it was in Bathes, too, that the French hero, Bertrand du Guesclin, routed the English and performed some of his greatest acts of valor. The celebrated Madame de Sevigne made it for a time her home, and from here she dictated many of her famous letters. Up to the time of the revolution Bathes enjoyed a certain degree of autonomy and had a parliament of its own, which sat at Bathes.

It is in the palace formerly occupied by the Brittany parliament that the court-martial of Capt. Dreyfus will take place. It is a rather grand and pompous edifice, designed in the reign of king Louis XIII by the architect Debrennes, and in its aspect it recalls to mind the Pitti palace at Florence. It is adorned in Italian fashion, with pilasters and colonnades, as well as with statues of Breton lawyers and judges, while the roof is decorated with balustrades and all sorts of fanciful gargoyle and waterspouts of most fantastic design. Nowadays it is occupied as the palace of justice. Its interior decoration is the work of Jouvenet, Erard, Coypel and Ferdinand, four artists of the reign of king Louis XIV. The principal gate is superbly carved, and above it Barre's statue entitled "Religion."

It is free, the formula which restored him to vigorous health after suffering for years from the effect of the follies of youth, which caused a failure of the vital forces and nervous exhaustion.

the grand old trees that line the streets in every direction, forming species of verdant settings for various buildings, looks exceedingly picturesque.

THE GREAT PICNIC

At Sydenham Street Sunday School—Term

of Races.

The annual picnic of Sydenham street Methodist Sunday school was held yesterday at Long Island park, T. F. Harrison, superintendent, being in charge. The supper arrangements were of a general character, and the parents and adults responded so generally to the invitation of the school that it looked as much like a church gathering as a school. The tables were arranged to accommodate 300 at one sitting, and even then a great many had to wait for a later supper. The weather was pleasantly cool, and made the competition in the games, etc., more attractive. The steam yacht of the Knights Union was busy carrying parties during the afternoon for a short trip along the shore. The sports were under the management of Dr. McCannum and E. P. Jenkins. The subjoined is a list of the races, etc., for which suitable prizes were given:

Children, five and under, boys—Robert Richardson, E. V. Canoekey, Girls—E. Chown, E. B. Jenkins. Infant class, boys—H. H. Chown, L. Skinner, Girls—Bessie Chown, Edith Chown. Boys, under nine—H. H. Chown, Lewis McCartney. Girls, under nine—Florence Shaver, Alice Martin. Boys, twelve and under—Norman Shaver, Charlie Jackson. Girls, twelve and under—Mina Shaw, Ada Hughes. Boys, sixteen and under—Frederick Watson, John McCartney. Girls, sixteen and under—Hattie Godell, Mina Shaw. Boys'
