THE CHICAGO TIMES-HERALD ON THE SITUATION.

The Provisions as to The Boundary Are Certainly Vague-What Did The Framers Mean my Such Terms as "Ocean" And "Const"?-It Is Said That a New Line Is Being Pursued To Secure A. Settlement.

CHICAGO, Ill , July 25 .- President Me-Kinley's mouthpiece, the Times Herald, said in part on the stand of Sir Wilfrid Laurier : "It the American members of the Anglo-American high joint commission have entertained any idea that Canada would voluntarily yield in the Alaskan boundary dispute, that impression will doubtless be quickly dispelled by the significant utterances of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the Canadian house of commons. While the statement position on the boundary question in a way that cannot fail to command the approval of the Canadians, if it cannot change the atbitude of American statesmen. 'It is clear, said the premier, 'that there are only two ways by which the difficulty may now be settled, arbitration or war. While this may seem at first shought to be a startling statement for the premier to make at this time, it is a matter of fact, a self evident proposition and was made with calmness and fisting deliberation. In Mr. Laurier's place an American would have seen only those alternatives, for it is impossible to consider receding from an impregnable position. No fair minded reader of the Anglo-Russian treaty of 1825, which purports to define the boundary line, will dony that the meaning of the provisions is vague and that it is impossible to know at this time exactly what the framers of that document aud 'coset.' The only possible deduction from these facts is the declaration made by | day that thus far thirteen dogs, two horses, Mr. Laurier that there remain but two

WAS GIVEN UP FOR DEAD. Veteran Visiting Ottawa Relatives After

Being Away Forty-Three Years. OTTAVA, July 25 - After forty three years' absence in the United States, Thomas Leatherland, Manchester, Indiana, arrived in Ostawa a few days ago to visit his grand niece, Mrs. John Biehler. Until a year ago, Mrs. Biehler did not know of the whereaboute of her grand uncle, and considered he was dead. Mr. Leatherland NEMERGENT MEETING OF THE BAND formerly lived in Belleville, but in 1856 he went south and was not heard of again until a short time ago. When he lef home Mr. Leatherland had his way to make in the world. He travelled extensively in the states, fought for four years in the American civil war, was wounded several times and still carries a confederate bullet in his left arm After the war he went west and he is now a well-to-do con tractor in Manchester. Mr. Leatherland's family left Belleville shortly after his departure and many of his relatives have died since.

The Family Is Prostrated. NEW YORK, July 25 .- Mrs Robert G. Ingereoll, the widow of the late Col. Ingersoll, is so ill that she is confined to her bed at her home near Dobbe Ferry, N. Y.
