CANADA IN SYMPATHY

With The Demands of The Uitlanders in Transvaal.

RESOLUTION WAS ADOPTED

WITHOUT A DISSENTING VOICE IN THE HOUSE

And the Members Rose and Sang the British Anthem, "God Save the Queen"—A Little Tally For Kruger and a Declaration of the Rights of the People Who Pay the Taxes of the Transvaal.

OTTAWA, July 31.—When the house met to-day Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that he wanted to interrupt the regular business so as to propose a set of resolutions in regard to the condition of things in the Transvaal. The Transvaal, although a self-governing country, was, nevertheless, under the suzerainty of her majesty the queen. There were 80,000 British subjects in the Transvaal who were allowed to develop the country, to open up mines and to otherwise share in the development of the land, yet they had been denied any participation in the administration of the country. They were subject to taxation and the full share and burdens of citizenship were imposed upon them, yet they were denied the rights of citizenship. There were things to be admired in the character of president Kruger. His patriotism and his sense of duty were to be admired, but patriotism was not incompatible with truth, justice and generosity. It might be said that to refuse the Uitlanders citizenship was within the rights of president Kruger. That might be true, if he did not impose upon them the burdens of citizenship. The treaty that made the Transvaal independent also gave to the queen suzerainty there, and, therefore, the subjects of the queen should be given the rights of citizenship. But, the premier said, he would not put the question on these grounds but he would appeal to the conscience and judgment of mankind. There was no country composed, as Canada was of different races who would better appeal to give to the British subjects in the Transvaal adequate justice and equal rights to all, a policy that would give to every citizen who bore the burdens of citizenship the rights of citizenship. That was the policy which Canada had adopted and which proved a success. It was on its trial in Cape Colony, and it should be put in force in the Transvaal. The Uitlander should get the same rights in the Transvaal as the Dutch citizen got in Cape Colony. It seemed to him that the sympathy of the Canadian parliament should be extended in bettering citizenry in South Africa, to forward them in good fellowship, and to show that our hearts are with theirs.

He regretted that Sir Charles Tupper was absent, and read a letter from the leader of the opposition approving of the resolution. He moved, seconded by Mr. Foster, this resolution:

"That this house has viewed with regret the complications which have arisen in the Transvaal republic, of which her majesty is suzerain, from the refusal to accord to her majesty's subjects now settled in that region any adequate participation in its government.

"That this house, having learned with still greater regret that the condition of things there existing has resulted in intolerable oppression, and has produced great and dangerous excitement among several classes of her majesty's subjects in her South African possessions.

"That this house representing a people who have largely succeeded by the adoption of the principle of equal political rights to every portion of the population, in harmonizing arrangements and in producing general content with the existing system of government, desires to express its sympathy with the efforts of her majesty's imperial subjects to obtain for the subjects of her majesty who have taken up their abode in the Transvaal such measure of justice and political recognition as may be found necessary to secure them in the full possession of equal rights and liberties."

Mr. Foster made a brief but eloquent appeal for the Uitlanders in seconding the resolution. They might be called Uitlanders, but the heart of the great British empire said they were Islanders. There should be no tax on them without representation, and he had much pleasure in supporting the resolution to the British subjects in the Transvaal who were struggling for their rights.

Mr. McNeill and Mr. Wallace also spoke in support of the resolution, which was carried by the whole house rising and singing "God Save the Queen."

For the fourth time this session the house of commons was called upon to day to mourn the loss of one of its members. Shortly after resuming after dinner the premier announced that he had received the sad news of the death of Sir James D. Edgar, the first commoner of the dominion, and as the suggestion of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, seconded by Hon. George E. Foster, the house immediately adjourned.

Is He Jealous?

New York, Aug. 1.—Governor Roosevelt will not allow the rough riders to participate in the land parade in honor of admiral Dewey upon his return to New York October 1st, declaring that he was opposed to having the organization used for advertising purposes. Replies from fourteen governors accepting the invitation to take part in the parade have been received, and also from former officers of the Olympians.

PURCHASING BY WHOLESALE.

Another Big Steel Combination Anticipated. CLEVELAND, Aug. 1.—Another big steel combination has been purchased by big lake carriers by the wholesale. The Marine Review announces the sale to the National steel company of the nine steel steamers that have been controlled since they were built by M. A. Hanna & Co. The boats are the four steamers of the Mutual transportation company, the Corolla, Corsica, Corona and Cassin, and the five of the Macomines transit company, the Grecian, Roman, German, Saxon and Briton. The five last named are now under charter to the Canada Atlantic line, but the engagement expires with the close of the present season.

The sale of these boats is part of an important transaction whereby the National steel company, which is regarded as one of the strongest of the big industrial corporations, acquires also practically the entire stock of the Chapin mining company and Winthrop iron company. The annual capacity of the mines in their present condition is 1,750,000 gross tons, and the ships are capable of moving fully a million tons of ore in a season from Escavada, to which port they will run regularly.

ESCAPED IN A GARBAGE BOX

Prisoner Regains His Liberty In A Novel Manner. CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Leo Lubin was carried from the county jail to liberty in a garbage box. The prisoner first found his way from a cell in the old jail to a hole in the wall in a portable box for waste paper and sweepings. Through the hole in the wall he got into the basement of the jail known as "garbage." They dumped him from the basement into a larger, or stationery, garbage box in the jail yard. They put the lid down and upon him, and then departed, going through the streets under the eye of a deputy sheriff on duty.

Shortly after Lubin had been deposited in the big garbage box the teamster who removes the refuse drove into the jail yard from the alley and left the big gates open. Carelessly he lifted up the lid of the garbage box. The prisoner, who had his gun in his pocket, slipped out and ran. He refused to be taken and fled in every direction. The prisoner sprang out and the teamster recoiled.

ADRIFF ON THE LAKE.

Out Loose From Their Tug by the Heavy Sea. OSWEGO, N. Y., Aug. 1.—During the heavy storm on lake Ontario Monday the three large coal barges Sherman, Clark and Lipping, owned by the George Hall company, of Ogdensburg, were out loose from the tug Mary P. Hall off Long Point and left to the mercy of the sea. The barges and their cargoes are safe, a despatch from Ogdensburg announced. The tug ran into the port and laid up with a broken rudder and boiler pipe.

The tug was between the Thrush and the Lipping parted and the latter went ashore. The tug went to the other barges and set about to pick up the Lipping, but in the attempt broke her boiler pipe. The barges carried crews of eight men each, and, being seaworthy, were in no great danger, although some relief was felt by Capt. Richards, of the Hall, when the despatch announcing the safety of the craft was received.

INCENSE AND CANDLES

Are Neither Enjoined Nor Permitted—Important Archbishop's Decision. LONDON, Aug. 1.—The archbishop of Canterbury, the most Rev. Frederick Temple, D.D., has rendered a decision in the ritual cases which he and the archbishop of York, the most Rev. William Dalrymple MacLagan, D.D., heard in May. The archbishop declares that, while far from saying the use of incense and the carrying of lights in processions are unsuitable or undignified, or accompanied of divine worship, they are obliged, in accordance with the prayer book, to come to the conclusion that such adjuncts are neither enjoined nor permitted by the law of the Church of England. Therefore, the archbishops add, though they may be used to sweeten a church or for purely lighting purposes, they are not to be used for the purpose of the peace of the church, to discontinue their use as part of the service.

First Drink Poison.

ROME, Aug. 1.—Father Verri met a tragic death when he drank a medicinal wine while he was celebrating mass at Serravalle, a town in the Apennines. When he drained the chalice he fell to the ground, groaning: "They have given me poison." He died in terrible agony in a time. Subsequently it was found that the priest's nephew, who was serving at the altar, had inadvertently filled the altar glass with nitric acid, which was kept about the altar for polishing the brass chandeliers, mistaking it for wine. The nephew, who is distraught with grief, has been arrested.

Montreal Bank Suspends.

MONTREAL, Aug. 1.—The president of the Banque Jacques Cartier, senator Desjardins, says that institution has suspended payment. The bank's capital is $500,000 and it has a reserve of $250,000, with a note circulation of about $200,000. Besides the head office the bank has fourteen branches located in the suburbs of Montreal and in the towns of the province of Quebec.

EDUCATION OF YOUTH.

Huntington Railroad Magnate, Says There's Something Wrong About It. CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—A special to the Chronicle from Greenville, Tenn., says: Ollin P. Huntington has written a letter to judge V. W. Grubb, chairman of the state committee of the industrial commission, explaining his recent speech at San Francisco, wherein he said that the youth of the country were being over-educated. Mr. Huntington says that education is not harmful in itself, but the generality of men spend too many of perhaps the most valuable years of their life in the school room.

The mass of boys, he declares, by carrying their education beyond the point required to enable them to cope with the practical details of business, gain a positive detriment for labor that does not come under the head "General" and as a result young men are crowded into poorly paid places, where they do not have to sell their hands or do manual labor and good chances for promotion go begging in many cases.

The condition of things he says is curious and must be explained before the present system of the educating of young men in this country can be called successful.

Va., under the name of Henry Dampton, married a woman who later died under suspicious circumstances; that in Milwaukee he married Maximilian Spear, a Chicago woman; that both Schmidt and Carolina Schneider, both of Milwaukee. Upon obtaining their money, the allegation runs, he left them. In this city he took to wife a woman worth $12,000. She died suddenly, leaving her property to Dots, then known to as Fred Hon. His next wife was a South Side woman possessed of $1,000. His arrest at this point cut short his matrimonial experiences.

Yesterday he went to the farm house with a revolver and shot the girl in the cellar. He then set fire to the building. Mrs. Morrill was carried out but died shortly afterwards. The Indian threatened to shoot himself, but it is not yet known whether he did.

Secretary Alger's Justification.

The secretary says he was led to make the statement on account of the "many criticisms which have been made by the public press, and especially on account of a recent article which appeared in the London Times, containing assertions which have no foundation in truth."

TWO FARMERS TRADE WIVES.

Live Near Each Other And All Seem to be Happy. PERRY, Okla., Aug. 1.—A real case of wife trading is reported from Woodward county, Okla. Charles Newburn and J. W. Alsop were neighbors and swapped wives, and now Newburn is living with Alsop's former wife and Alsop is living with Newburn's. Both are farmers and each sued for a divorce from his wife about the same time, alleging extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty.

Newburn's wife was a witness for Alsop and Alsop's wife was a witness for Newburn. The trial judge remarked when the divorce was granted that there was something strange about the divorce case. Two months after obtaining his divorce Newburn and the former Mrs. Alsop were married in Kansas, and Alsop and the former Mrs. Newburn were married in Texas.

Now the two former neighbors are still living near each other and all seem to be happy.
