A Curious Incident In the Career of Novelist Crockett.

Mr. S. R. Crockett, the novelist, tells a rather remarkable story of an incident that befell him in his early writing days, before fame and fortune had come to him and while he struggled on for a living. At that time he was obliged to write for yery small sums indeed, and among the publications to which he contributed columns and half columns was The St. James Gazette, a London penny evening newspaper. A Pretty Wedding Custom.

There is a pretty wedding custom in Peru. The origin and the significance l could not learn. Some say it is a Biblical and others that it is an old Moorish custom. It is customary for the padrina, or godfather, of the groom to hand the padring, or godfather, of the bride a tray containing 13 pieces of money. It may be gold or it may be silver, but there must be 13 pieces, because Christ and the 12 apostles make that number. The godfather hands the tray to the bride, and she hands it to the priest, and the priest spends the money for charity.-Chicago Record
