London, Dec. 14 -A despatch from toineula, the American forces are now in Modder river says that in the battle of chnical occupation of the whole northern Magerefontein, as Monday's battle is id of Luz in from a point just north of the known, the British loss in killed, wounded ilf of Lingayen. and missing was 817. The casualties in abandoned his troops and is hiding in the Highland brigade alone amounted to province of Bengues.

LONDON, Dec 14 -The Daily News correspondent with Gen. Methuen cable : "After shelling the Boers alt day Sunday | Sen. Conception and stuff, killed and with our howitzers and naval guns, the whole force, with the exception of those high prisoners, including 150 friars, and left to guard the camp, moved forward The attack was opened at 3:20 o'clock Monday morning by the Highland brigade In front were the Seaforthe, Argyles and the Black Watch, with the Gordone and the Highland light inlantry in support The men marched in quarter column formation. The Highlanders had reached to within 200 yards of the Boer trenches when a deadly fire was opened on the front and right flank. Here about 200 men were mown down, and those leading were forced to retire. The supports wo e then brought up, but they also failed to carry the kopj; and the right flank was thus in serious jeopardy. The guns, how ever, dashed to the rescue, and protected by their fire, our shattered force was able

"The 4 7 inch naval gun opened on the enemy at 6 am. When our right flank was threatened, two equadrons of the 19th Lancers were dismounted and skirmished through the bushy country, clearing and holding it until the afternoon. "Our terrific artillery fire provoked no response except from the enemy's rifles. All efforts to carry the position having failed, the action at midday sank into a desultary artillery fire, with the exception of some sharp skirmishing on the right

"At 8 45 the Highlanders formed up to renew the attack on the trenched kopje. but the Boere, who had made no use of their artillery during the whole day now opened on them with a heavy shrapnel fire. The brigade was immediately forced to re tire again, and the fight between the guns continued until dark.

"The losses on both sides were very se vere. Many Boers were killed in the trenches and wire entanglements " The entanglements mentioned in foregoing are probably explained by the fact mentioned in another press despatch that the Boers came upon open ground on the British fromt for the purpose of attack the Guards and the artillery. The Daily Mail's correspondent says that the murderous fire on the Highlanders at 200 yards caused in a single minute the larger part of the fearful British loss "Startled and overwhelmed, brigade retired quickly, but rallied and crossed the open velds against the trenches was invariablishe occasion of a spon- soldiers of manual labor, arrived in camp has been occupying since August last. on the right, fought an invisible foe for | taneous demoration. Ill-Luck Attend Gatacre's Column From London, Dec. 14.-Rand mines on London stock exchange at two o'clock to-day jumped up to one pound on rumors that Gen Clery had envered Ladysmith and that Geo. Baller had captured 3,000 Boers. There is no confirmation of reports as yet.

London, Dic. 14 -A Times despatch from Buchman's Hook, dated Dec. 12-h, after describing the hardships endured by Gen. Gatacre's men, concludes as follows "Ill luck has pursued this column from the first start. The intended task seemed feasible, but errors rendered it impossible. The march was too long, and the enemy's position was impregable, but success would have yielded immenee results, and the rick

The Royal Irish and Northumberlands, who were leading, were ordered to take cover from the fire. The Boere had the superior positions, but their shooting was bad and this saved the British from being annihilisted. The British artillery attempted to flank the enemy, but the Boers anticipated this movement and our men were sandwiched between a furious fusilade for an bour. Au artillery duel followed. Our artillery did epleudic work. The Cape police displayed conspicuous bravery and worked their Maxims in fine style during the Boer flank movement. The Boer guns were silenced for a time, but re opened from a new position. The fight lasted three hours, when Gatacre fell back in face order, the artillery covering the retreat. The Boers followed closely
