Late News Coming In.

LONDON, Dec 27.-A Cape Town despatch to the Daily Chronicle, dated Dacember 21st, says it is reported that several men who were lately employed as sentries have been arrested as the result of the discovery of a plot to connive at the escape of Boer prisoners.

The Cape government has received most assuring accounts from all the country magistrates regarding the attitude of colonial Dutch. The Boer prisoner who escaped on Dec. 20th was not commandant DaMillion, but his son. He was arrested near Cape Town.

ARUNDEL, Dec [20.-The force here, consisting mostly of cavalry and horse artillery, has successfully checkmated a much larger force of Boers about Colesburg. The military situation demands a large increase in the cavalry. Experience bere shows that the Boers greatly need cavalry with horse artillery. The Boer positions here are strong, and an assault would involve terrible losses but either flank could be readily turned and retreat cut off if our cavalry were sufficiently numerous and the horses fit. The Boers would then be forced to attack the British in their position or disperse them. Loyal Boers say the enemy has gained few recruits in this neighborhood.

STERKSTROOM, Dec. 19 -Though the British misfortunes have encouraged many waverers to join the Boers their numbers have been exaggerated. It is not loyalty, but fear, that prevents a general rising. The local members of the Afrikander bund are disloyal to a man, and the Boer popu lation are so with rare excaption. The Free State and Transvaal are nevertheless disappointed by the number of colonists who have actually taken up arms.

few invited guests. The bride was attired in a handeeme rown of white-brocaded silk, with chiffon trimmings, her only ornament being a pendant of pearls, emeralds and diamonds, the gift of the groom. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. The brideemaid was Miss Badford, of Sar ginson, who wore a gown of white cashmere with satin trimmings and tucked yoke. She carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. Edward Cleugh, brother of the bride, assisted the groom. The bride entered the bautifully decorated drawing room leaning on the arm of her father while Miss Hawley, of Campbellford, played Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

After the ceremony the newly married couple" received the congratulations of their friends, and then the party adjourned to the dining room where a very sumptuous breakfast was served.
