HEART.

had serious heart trouble for four years, caused by excessive use of tobacco. At times my heart would beat very rapidly and then seemed to stop beating only to commence again with unnatural rapidity.

This unhealthy action of my heart caused shortness of breath, weakness and debility. I tried many medicines and spent a great deal of money but could not get any help. Last November, however, I read of a man, afflicted like myself, being eured by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I went to Roper's drug store and bought a box. When I had finished taking it I was se much better I bought another box and this completed the cure. My heart has not bothered me since, and I strongly recommend all sufferers from heart and nerve trouble, caused by excessive use of tobacco, to give Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills a fair and faithful trial."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box or 3 for $1.25, at all druggists. T. Milburn & Co., Toronto.

} The 66th New Year Greeting OF THE BRITISH WHIG

TO ITS EVER FAITHFUL FRIENDS AND PATRONS.

NEW YEAR'S DAY.

The bright New Year begins this morn, And with it many hopes are bern-Hopes fair and sweet. O, they may blossom gaily now, And with new grace the mind endow, Full and complete.

Forward we look with joyful eye, And scarce can tell the reason why Our pulses thrill. But stoutest difficulty flies, And strength and energy arise, To work our will.

Then far away be murky gloom, For love and life there's largest room; Let them abound! Who joys and maketh others joy, And laughs at all that might annoy, Spreads roses round.

He scatters lilies here and there, While perfect music fills the air, And sweet perfome. The children in the street are glad; The troubled are no longer sad-Far off is doom!

ADVANCE.

The centuries nineteen have nearly run their round, And yet the stars above have heard no sound; The doings marvellous in this our earth To other planets had not slightest worth.

The rise of continents, the ocean's flow. The growth of empires, and their overthrow, The spread of peoples from the distant east, To lands unknown, but not amongst the least.

Of what concern is this to other spheres? It cannot ever touch their hopes or fears; And yet this world is all in all to man. Although his life is but a dream, a span.

But in that dream what ardent hopes arise! And in that span a good that never dies! What noble works, what schemes, what plans indeed, Develop as rich barvests come from seed.

You cannot put the wheels of progress back; You cannot turn them from their destined track; Onward, yes onward, must they ever go, As rivers rush, and to the ocean flow.

HUMANITY.

The civilizing touch Of unseen hands. To-day awaiteth much In many lands.

A seraph marcheth on With wings outspread; He's heralded with song, Might wake the dead.

O'er land and sea he flies-We see him not: And yet he cleaves the skies; Illumes each spot.

Humanity! How blest! She gaineth force, From east to far-off west, We trace her course.

CONFLICT OF INTERESTS.

The clash of interests is hot indeed; Divergent habits constant discord breed; The conflict of ideas lends its force, And often seems to leave but one resource, Pale-visaged war.

For troubles rise which cannot be put down, And animosities no floods can drown; Nor compromise nor arbitration seems To find a place except in Fancy's dreams; So flames out war!

It may be that the strong oppress the weak; Men everywhere their own advantage seek ; They cannot think, they cannot work alike,-With gun and sword and spear they haste to strike, In cruel war.

Then fruitful fields are made a desert land, And flocks are seized by every hostile band, While homes are desolated everywhere-What is there that the iron hand will spare Of ruthless war?

O, what terrific engin'ry is used! How nature's forces strangely are abused To mow down armies, vast and powerful too, And fierce Destruction's utmost might outdo,---What havoc dire!

In the mundane fight The weakest and least cunning fail; As darkness yields to pearly light, And joy succeedeth bale.

Negroes are made slaves! The Kaffirs and Basutos grind! Who careth much the weak to save? Where can they succor find?

Red Indians flee! The "pale-face" wants his hunting-ground; His refuge is the far-off sea, Where fish, not game, abound.

It is man 'gainst man, And everywhere tribe against tribe Has fought, almost since time began-The strife who can describe?

But the time may come When swords to ploughshares shall be turned, When strife, and conflict, and war's doom Shall by the wise be spurned.

GOOD WISHES.

Thus, having travelled very far, Now we come home again; Friendship hath neither bolt nor bar, Nor distance, nor disdain.

May you and yours as prosperous be As time's brief space will grant, From grief, and care, and worry free, And whate'er else might daunt.

Much is there in this world to praise, And much to be enjoyed; We sport, we laugh, the song we raise; The good is not destroyed!

May joys be many, and not few, Good-will and peace abound! May age itself its youth renew And un-mixed bliss abound. -J. L. BURROWS, LL.D., Ashtabula, Ohio.

79 Clarence Street.

Perhaps you have contracted a cold—it may be in the head—the passages are already closed, the head feels heavy, perhaps it aches. NATURE has tried to cure your trouble. but as the air is drawn through the narrow passages it bears with it fine, irritating particles of dust and disease germs. These are scraped off as you "sniffle" aud "hawk," and become lodged in the glands of the throat; their presence there further irritates, and prevents the glands from healing, causing discomfort and worry; your throat is sore and you feel like calling in a PHYSICIAN, but you hesitate, for experience has already taught you that "DOCTORS COST MONEY." Now, if you could only put your hand on some "RELIABLE REMEDY" that would give you relief and banish the ailment from which you suffer, at a trifling expense, you would hail such a remedy with joy! Try

COLTSFOCTE EXPECTORANT.

It is the one remedy of all others that will cure you. You commence by taking a spoonful at a time, and the healing process begins with the first dose. The swelling and inflammation disappear gradually; the nasal openings get cleaned, discomfort, hawking and spitting cease, for the medicine has washed away the irritating particles of dust; it has at the same time KILLED the germs that were finding their way into the tissues; it sooths and heals, and coats over the inflamed tissues, and prevents other germs from gaining a foothold. Now you are cured. One bottle, at a cost of TWENTY-FIVE CENTS, has done all that the most efficient physician could do-perhaps more. Could you ask more? Could you expect more? If you have a COLD, COUGH, SORE THROAT, HOARSENESS, or any disease of the respiratory organs, go to the nearest drug store, step in, and ask for a 25c. bottle of SLOCUM'S COLTSFOOTE EXPECTORANT, take it home, or open it in the drug store, take it there, and you will be cured without the aid of a doctor.
