in a highly creditable manner. The attractions were advertised, and as a result the city was filled to overflowing with sightseers. The amusement began at six o'clock in the morning, when the different bands serenaded prominent citizens. At ten o'cleck there was a lengthy parade, participated in by the 40th separate company of militis, the school children, veterans, etc., while large floats helped to make the affair attractive. At twelve o'clock there were ceremonies in the opera house, consisting of prayer, reading of the declaration of independence, selections by the 14th P.W.O. rifles'band an 1 the customary oration. furing the eighth innings. At the time he score stood five to four in favor of the Kingston team. The Ogdensburg team was in the field, when a Kingston batter knocked a fair ball into the crowd of spectators. The umpire declared it s blocked ba'l and would not allow the men on bases to advance. He called for the Kingstonians to resume playing which they would not do. He therefore declared the Ogdensburg team winners by a score of nine to nothing. Old baseball umpires say the decision was unjust and not according to precedent or ruine of the game.

The 14th battalion band created a favorable impression. The organization was given the post of honor at the head of the procession. During the day bandmaster Carey was presented with five beautiful bouquets of flowers by admiring citizens of the burg. It was everywhere declared that the Kingston band was the finest

All he hopes for is a change in the liberal ranks, and to such an extent that the government must go under in six months or less. He is modest enough to say nothing of himself, but of course he is looking for an opening somewhere of which he can take advantage, get a seat in the legislature, and become a minister-when Mr. Whitney forms a government.

This business may as well be looked at in cold blood. Mr. St. John need not delude the people, nor try to do it, with fine talk. The party to which he belongs has had a hard time of it raising the money with which to lodge the protests. It requires a lot with which to carry on the trials, and it has been careful enough to select only the cases upon which they have a hope, (however ill-founded), of success. Mr. St. John says every petition will be carried to trial. He knows better than this. He knows that many petitions were fyled as a matter of bluff, and that they warship. are being properly set aside because there is no money to fight them and no evidence to support them.

Yet in six months he expects a seat in the legislature and in the government He is imitating Tupper, (the baronet,) who gave the Laurier government just eix months in which to pass in its checks and cease to be. Two years have passed, and, notwithstanding its mistakes, the government still lives, and, so far as the opposition is concerned, is calculated to go on forever. Mr. St. John does not see it in that light, but, like many of the party, he is colour blind.
