The New York Arrives Montreal Gazette.

The American line new steamer New York arrived in port shortly after eight o'clock last evening, and landed her passengers at the landing at the foot of Lachine canal

The New York is a good looking boat about 180 feet long with a forty four foot beam, and has been built so that she can ness through the Canadian locks. A noticeable feature of the New York is her broad promenade deck forward of the saloon cabin. This is a most desirable attribute for a steamboat running upon a scenic route

Union Jacks in Demand.

As a result of the friendly feeling now existing between the two great Anglo-Saxon nations, the union jack was in great demand at Ogdensburg yesterday. The few merchants who had them in stock sold ont very quickly and regretted that they had not a few bundred more to sell. The union jack was conspicuous in the decorations and a huge one of that standard headed the morning procession, accompanied by the stars and stripes and the lone star flig of Cuba. Kingston excursionists who possessed themselves of small "jacks" lost the a long scalp wound on the back of his bunting through the desire of Ogdensburg- head

INSURANCE RISKS.

An Icehouse Gaid to Be More Dangerous Than a Planing Mill.

"Spesking of fires," said the insurance man, "they are the queerest things in the wor'd. A fire will sometimes take infinite pains to burn up everything indestructible in sight and leave an inflammable article untouched. I have run across all sorts of queer pranks played by fires in my time.

"Some years ago the insurance companies established a rule that all benzine rags in printing offices must be put into closed metal cans during the day, and that these cans should be emptied into the furnaces at the close of business each evening. Shortly afterward there was a fire in a printing office on Randolph street one night. We tried to find out the cause of it and finally concluded it must have originated from spontaneous combustion of oiled rags. The printer insisted that every rag was burned each . 't and called his errand boy over to corresporate his statement that they could not have 'spontaneously combusted.' The boy looked crestfallen and said that he had forgotten to take them down the night before. But the theory was knocked out when he undertook to show us where he had left them, for there under a heap of burned rubbish was the rag receptacle with the lid securely fastened down and every rag safe.

"In another printing office fire every case was charred and every line of metal type was either melted or warped so as to be of no further use, but the only font of wood type in the office turned up all right, and when the linseed oil which had boiled out of the wood and stood all over it in beads was wiped off it was as good as ever. being rolled and put in first-clast con-

old frame planing mill which I knew brick planing mill that I have insured has | for the afternoon session. been burned, but the old frame shed stood until last year, when it was torn down and replaced by a new brick building.

"Icehouses would seem to be good risks, but they burn more readily than match factories, and when the fire is over the contents are usually a total loss. I would rather insure gunpowder than ice any day."-Chicago Record.

PLACING HIS TALENTS.

The Shrewd Old Farmer Saw Where His Son Properly Belonged.

"Father, I'm vanquished," sighed the young man in soft raiment and long hair who had just come from the city to the old homestead. "The world is too much for me. I wrote. My poems and my stories were rejected. I painted. There was no market for my pictures. I lectured on scientific subjects. The expenditure was always more than were the receipts. I flirted with fortune on the market. She jilted me. I tried a clerkship. My mind was not on my business, and I was discharged. I became an insurance agent. Not a policy could I place. In sheer desperation I became a politician. I failed and paid all attendant expenses. I loathe the past. The future offers me nothing." "My poor, poor boy," said the fond mother as she wiped her glasses. "You know the home is always here." "You bet it is," from the father with square jaws and snapping blue eyes. "It's been here all the time you've been spending our hard earned money trying to do something easy that you're not fitted for. I don't want no healthy young man that weighs 180 pounds whining around me, throwing up his hands and saying there's nothing in the world for him to do. I'll show you different. Go up stairs and get into that old blue jean suit of yours, change that white linen for a hickory shirt, put on them cowhide boots you left in the closet when you went out to conquer America and grease 'em. Then go along with me. I'm breaking up that ten acre field of stump land, and I'll start you on an honorable career that you're liable to succeed in. No coaxing now, mother. What this young man needs is sand, and I'll have him pumped full of it by fall. Get into your uniform, my son. "-Detroit

Good Veal. Ella Morris Kretschmar, writing of "Dainty Dishes From Milk Veal" in The

Woman's Home Companion, gives these practical directions for recognizing a good " 'Milk veal' is the only good veal, and the best period is from 4 to 6 weeks old. The flesh is then a delicate pink, the fat white and clear. If the flesh has a blue tinge and is flabby, it is too young and therefore unwholesome. If it is white, it has been bled before killing and likewise unwholesome. It is very easy to learn to recognize yeal at just the right age and in the proper condition. One or two careful inspections and comparisons with that which is undesirable fixes the matter in the mind. Surely it is worth while for every housekeeper to learn this simple lesson, the starting point of so many delight ful dishes. Not to learn it simply means disappointment whenever veal is served at one's table, unless the pleasure and convenience of the butcher happen to combine favorably to one's advantage."

Preparing Gold Powder.

Finely powdered gold may be prepared by a most simple process. Fill a small unglazed, earthenware bowl with common kitchen salt, cover it and expose it for some hours to heat. The stove oven is a good place for it. When the water has all been dried out, put equal quantities of this salt powder and honey on a glass grinding plate and mitx in with it the necessary quantity of gold leaf. Grind this up very gently, being careful not to press hard on the mass. The salt acts as a disintegrator, and the honey is used because it will not dissolve the salt. When the gold is reduced to the finest possible powder it must be thoroughly and carefully washed with an abundance of pure water to remove the salt and honey. - New York Ledger.

WORK OF ORGANIZATION FOR APPROACHING PLEBISCITE.

biscite Bill-Committees Appointed To Arrange The Work.

TORONTO, July 5 -The Ontario branch of the Dominion alliance opened its annual meeting in the pavilion in the horticultural gardens this morning. Dr. J. J. McLaren, Q.C., president, occupied the chair, and between 200 and 300 delegates were present, but many more are expected in before the afternoon session opens. Senator Vidal was among the prominent delegates present.

The morning was deveted to the presur tation of a report from the executiva con mittee which reviewed the work of the year, told of what had been done in the way of organization for the approaching plebiscite and contained some vigorous remarks on the necessity of further organization and continued and renewed efforts to make the plebiscite a success.

Touching on the question of legislation the executive committee reported that an act had been passed by the Ontario legislature, in response to the appeal of the alliance, relating to the sale of liquor by druggists, but that unfortunately it was not of such a character as would do any good. The report was adopted. The chairman and secretary, F. S. Spence, were questioned a good deal by delegates in regard to the details of the plebiscite, as towho would have the right to vote, whether or not women could vote, etc., "I once canceled a policy on a rickety | showing that the terms of the plebiscite bill were by no means understood by them would burn up inside of a year or two. | Several large committees were appointed That was 25 years ago. A Great Fortune Said To Have Come to a

WINDSOR, Ont., July 5 -Mrs. John Leighton, of this city, and her four sone will in all probability receive a large fortune from England in the course of a few months. George Hall, an uncle of the late sergeant-major Leighton, who lived for many years in Windsor and was connected with the militia at this point was a cattle raiser in Australia. He died about thirty years ago, leaving an estate which is now valued at nine million dollars. He left a widow but no family. Mrs. Hall has since died, and now the estate, according to a will made by Hall previous to his death, is to be divided among the children of the mother of Sergu-Major Leighton. He had three brothers, but one of them died a bachelor, and this leaves the large fortune to be divided among the families of the other three. Two of the brothers are also dead but have left families. The share coming to the family in Windsor may be about $3,000,000 to be divided among the widow and three children. The other two families interested live in Gloucestershire,
