FREE WATER QUESTION. A question arises in connection with the and Dewey is one without a doubt. demand for free water for lawn and boulevard purposes. Supposing the water works grass about our city ?

The enquiry is suggested by the experience of Mr. Case, superintendent of the The Streets Need Looking After, Cleaned Detroit water works system, who has been considering the matter of free water for many would put in baths if the water were of cleanliness and of public health the ex. periment should be tried.

A study of the situation led to these benefit should be commensurate with the outlay. In Detroit there are 12,500 bathe, day along the lower business portion more would use it?

This argument is rather in favour of baths than against them. The use of them is, inferentially, the result of education, and the sooner it begins the sooner will grow the inclination that makes the bath a common necessity.

Incidentally the thought is quickened, would the people purchase and use the hose in watering the grass plots if given the had he the full amount asked for the city water free? Would the public taste show streets would be kept in better condition. itself sufficiently to warrant the experiment? Is this a subject for education, too? be used to good advantage. It would cost The Which has favoured the idea, but it in but a trifle to keep two or three old men volves considerations that cannot be put at work going about the city cutting down lightly aside.

OUR TRADE-OUR MILLIONS. The gratifying news comes from Ostawa bage. Litter and filth fill the guttors of that the surplus of the last financial year | the business streets, to the disgrace of the over the expanditure was about a million dollars, and that, with a continuation of the prosperity which now reigns, the surplus at the end of the next year should be in excess of a million.

A surplus of any kind, however, is something to be commented upon. It indicates alone. Citizens like to have a basty, clean a very marked increase of trade, since the city to live in and their desire abould be customs duties alone have risen from $19,- | catered to. 478,000 to $21,467,000, and there must be demand for the goods or they would not be imported.
