Unfair Discriminations.

The refusal of the alderman to relieve the athletic association of taxation is ungenerous and unfair. They treat other associations which are of a paying nature much more liberally than they do this association, which it is a struggle to maintain. Every other city council helps athletic bodies of this class, but in Kingston leading men want to knock down every public movement, feel disappointed in the necessary in fact. But there is one thing the petitioners of the athletic association can say—they have never been heard asking for remission of taxes on their own properties, no matter how long vacant, which a number of aldermen cannot say, and they are the head of every public movement, with substantial help, which a number of aldermen are not. They do their public duty.

Suspended For Life.

TORONTO, July 19.—The following letter was received yesterday by chairman A. E. Walton of the racing board:

Dear Sir,—I have to inform you that at a meeting of the general committee of the Transvaal cyclists' union, held last June, a Rand racing cyclist named C. W. Edwards, was suspended for life, his license cancelled and he was warned of all tracks within the jurisdiction of the T. C. U. on a charge of having attempted to bribe A. Van Heerden into losing the tentative race for the Caledonia cup. As the T. C. U. is an affiliated body please see this suspension is extended to your union. Faithfully yours, (Signed) Henry Sturmy, hon secretary.

PONTON IS CHEERFUL

And His Friends Still Protest His Innocence.

THE TRIAL ON THURSDAY.

GREAT INTEREST MANIFESTED IN EVERY DETAIL.

E. Guss Porter was Refused An Interview With His Client, But Obtained Permission From The Attorney-General—Blames This Sort of "Yankee Justice" on The Pinkerton Men—A Fractional Joke Played On Fox, Colton And The Public.

NAPANEE, July 18.—There were no new disclosures in the bank robbery case today. The town was all excitement this morning for a short time when the rumor became current that Dr. Colton, of the Campbell house, had been arrested in Kingston on Saturday, but no person here put any credence in the report and in a very short time the joke became known. It appears that Dr. Colton had been drinking some and went to Kingston on Saturday afternoon in company with a man named Chambers, who worked the thing up as a practical joke and palmed himself off on the unsuspecting Kingstonians as detective Daugherty. The report seems to have flown all over in less time than it takes to tell it, for enquiries came pouring in from Montreal, Belleville, Toronto and other towns for confirmation of the story.

E. Guss Porter, Ponton's counsel, came to town this morning expecting to be present at the hearing before magistrate Daly of his client, Ponton, but was surprised to be informed that in the small hours of Sunday morning Ponton was brought before P. M. Daly and remanded until Thursday. He immediately repaired to the jail to have an interview with his client. Here another surprise was in store for him, for he was stolidly informed by the jailer that he had orders to allow no one to interview the prisoner. Mr. Porter is terribly indignant at this, what he terms a disgrace to British justice, to be debarred from an interview with his client. He wired the attorney-general for permission, which later in the afternoon was granted, or will be granted before Thursday, or in good time for the hearing.

Mr. Porter claims that this is some of the Yankee way of administering justice, and blames the Pinkerton men severely, saying they are allowed access to the prisoner for the purpose of "sweating" him and Ponton's friends readingly take to this same idea. Wilson & Wilson, of Napanee, have been retained by the prisoner Mackie to defend him, and they were also refused an interview, and have wired for authority. The trial is expected to take place on Thursday and it is said some startling developments will come to light.

Ponton is cheerful and apparently has any amount of friends in town yet who are hopeful that he will come out all right, although very damaging stories have come to light.

The Latest Particulars.

Detective Dougherty has gone to Montreal to bring up Mrs. Saucier, who did not come as expected on Saturday. Detective Wilkes asked if he believed Ponton had given out the combination, replied: "Most undoubtedly I do. So I sat on the stand when the trial was held last year."

The prisoners in the jail at present are: W. H. Ponton, Edward Pare and Robert Mackie. None of them wear prison garb, and all have their food sent in to them. All have money, and especially Pare, who has a large amount in the keeping of the jailer. At 7 a.m. the cells are opened and the prisoners let out. The day hours are spent in reading and walking up and down the corridors, though no communication among them is allowed.

On the register of the jail is found this legend: "July 17th, visited to day 19 a.m., ordered pipe and tobacco for W. H. Ponton, and one dozen pills, two to be given to Pare at once, and remainder for use at any time; balance of inmates well. (Signed), R. A. LEONARD, surgeon."

Ponton expressed his opinion of the state of affairs when he said to the jail surgeon, "I want this investigation to go on. I want it cleared up from hell to backery." He is confident that nothing can be brought out to injure him. Ponton spends most of his time reading magazines.

Robert Mackie is weakening fast, and a confession may be expected at any time from him. It has leaked out that about fifty unsigned Dominion bank bills were found at his house in Belleville. Mackie feels his position keenly, and presents a striking contrast to the placid demeanor of Ponton.

A piece of evidence that is supposed to work against the prisoner is that while he was losing heavily at the races, yet he bought a piano, and was placing large sums in the bank.

What Hearing Was This?

Belleville Intelligence.

In connection with the arrest of Robert Mackie, an incident which attracted a great deal of talk at the time has once again become a topic of interest. It seems that Mackie and another party hired a horse and cutter from E. Roe's livery on Saturday evening, Jan. 29th, 1897. They returned several days after without the horse or cutter, and when questioned, Robert stated that they had been to Napanee and got away from them. The horse and cutter, the latter badly smashed, were recovered a short distance on this side of Deseronto.

Robert and his companion neglected to settle for the rig, and were brought before the magistrate on Feb. 17th. Mackie was acquitted but the companion, who engaged the rig, was fined. The fine was never paid until August 9th.

In connection with the fact that Holden and the rest of the gang were in Napanee at the time, and, putting this fact together with Mackie's unsatisfactory explanation of how he lost the horse, imagine that the incident may yet prove to have had some bearing on the bank robbery. However, it is merely a supposition, and it may be that the mystery can be quickly cleared up by Mackie if necessary.

Since he was acquitted before, Ponton has lived here quietly with the members, taking part in trap shooting and other athletic sports, and sitting and speaking as if nothing had happened. He always wears a cheery, unassuming air and never spoke of the robbery, unless directly questioned on the point. Last week, however, he complained bitterly to a friend that he had been shadowed ever since the last trial, and that often when walking to his boarding house at night he had seen a man following him.

In conversation with the Intelligencer Mr. Ponton said he never saw Holden or any other of the gang in Napanee. The scribe remarked that this seemed a little strange, Holden being a man of unusual appearance and Napanee being a small town where every stranger was noted, but Mr. Ponton simply reiterated that he had never noticed him.

SKILLFUL SHARPSHOOTING.

Work of a Western Marksmen at the Battle of Corinth.

"It was in the battle of Corinth," writes an army officer, "that I first saw an effective shot by one of the Illinois sharpshooters. It was just before the final desperate and unavailing assault on Battery Robinet. While waiting for the movement of a Confederate sharpshooter in our front amused himself by shooting at conspicuous mounted men, such as aids and orderlies, who came riding up the hill. He was a very uncommon marksmen. The distance seemed too great for effective shooting, yet he had wounded two officers, shot the horse of an aid and sent his bullets whistling so close to the ears of two other officers that they dismounted in haste, though they must have known they would be chaffed by the aid soldiers, as they were.

"An infantry officer who sat on a crack-box, with his back against the earthworks, smoking his pipe undertook to warn mounted officers who came that way. Soon he called one of his men and instructed him to go to the next regiment, the Sixty-sixth Illinois, I think, for a crack shot. The soldier returned with a man whose stooped shoulders made him appear anything but soldierly. This sharpshooter carried his rifle, not a musket, in his hand, like a careful hunter, instead of on his shoulder. As he stopped to talk with the officer, who now stood and pointed with his pipe toward a clump of distant trees, he took out a piece of charcoal and slowly rubbed his gun sights like a man about to shoot for a prize.

While the officer and the sharpshooter were talking so quietly, mounted on a big horse, he was leading from the town. Obviously, he had a message, was in haste and was uncertain where to go. He had stopped below to ask a question, then dug a showy Mexican spur into his horse, which almost leaped up the slope. The rider stopped him with a jerk to speak to the officer with the pipe, but his question never asked. He raised his hand to a salute, gave a gasp, clutched at the air and fell over, to be caught with one foot in the stirrup down the slope by the frightened horse.

"After a single glance at the body of the orderly bounding away over the rough ground the sharpshooter adjusted his sights with deliberation, rested his gun on the earthworks and fired at a spot where a puff of smoke indicated the marksmen who had shot the orderly. It was a long shot, and the chances seemed all against it, but being effective, at least at a first attempt. After the shot a cheer went up along the line back of him, the men rising in disorder. Something had rolled out of a tree across the open space.

"A mounted officer in brilliant trappings came up and stopped, but no shot disturbed him. There was no doubt that the something that had rolled out of the tree was the Confederate sharpshooter."

THE DECISIONS OF THE JUDGE ADVOCATE-GENERAL.

Finds the Santiago Cable—Accidentally Discovered While Raising the Indian's Anchor—Will Use the Spanish Rifles—Government Will Arrange to Purchase the Cartridges.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 19.—The judge advocate-general of the navy has decided an interesting question that may have an important bearing on the work of the American vessels in Manila bay. It relates to the superiority of the Americans over the Spanish squadron. Under the law concerning the distribution of bounty money to the crews of vessels that destroy the ships of an enemy, the United States pays for every man in the complement of a vessel destroyed.

The law provides that when the American ship is superior to the defeated ship of the enemy, there shall be paid $100 as bounty for each man on the enemy's vessel, but if the American vessel is inferior to the other, then $200 shall be paid for each man. While some of the Spanish ships were superior to some of the American, as, for example, the little Petrel, it is decided by the judge advocate-general that the relative strength of the opposing squadrons must be made the basis of settlement.

The judge advocate-general, therefore, decides that admiral Dewey's force was superior to that of admiral Montojo, and the distribution will accordingly be made on the basis of $100 for every Spaniard attached to Montojo's squadron. Secretary Long has written to admiral Dewey, requesting him to furnish as nearly as he can a statement showing the number of officers and men on the annihilated Spanish vessels. No money will be paid for civilians and non-combatants. It is estimated here that the Spanish crews numbered 2,000 men. If this is correct the amount to be paid to Dewey and his officers will reach $200,000, of which the American admiral will receive one-twentieth, or $10,000.

The Cable Picked Up.

OFF SANTIAGO, July 19.—On Thursday night the Indians, while raising her anchor, found that it had fouled something, which, on examination, proved to be the much-hunted after cable running from Santiago to Kingston.

The auxiliary cruiser St. Louis and the cable steamer Adria had made many attempts to grapple this cable and cut it, as it was the only remaining line enabling Capt. Gen. Blanco to communicate with Madrid, but their efforts were futile and they finally abandoned the undertaking.

Owing to the surrender of Santiago Gen. Blanco will not be able to use this line, and the cable was, therefore, not severed, and when the city is occupied by the Americans the line will be ready for their use.

Military Governor of Santiago.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Gen. Shafter's expressed determination not to accept the post of military governor of Santiago, which has been made known to the department, has opened discussion as to who will be appointed to the important place. It seems to be the general opinion of officials of the war department that the man most likely to be selected is Brig. Gen. Chas. McKibbin, who has been prominent in the military operations before Santiago. He was lieutenant-colonel of the 21st United States infantry when made a brigadier-general of volunteers, and is a member of the famous fighting McKibbin family of Pennsylvania.

Will Use Spanish Rifles.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 19.—The war department is making arrangements to procure ammunition for the Mauser rifles captured from the Spanish soldiers at Santiago. As soon as definite information is obtained in reference to the number of weapons of this kind which will come into the possession of the government as a result of the surrender of the eastern portion of Cuba the ordnance bureau will call for proposals to supply cartridges for the rifles. Ammunition for these rifles is manufactured in this country and can be secured promptly.

Fired On The Iroquois.

LONDON, July 19.—The Hong Kong correspondent of the Daily Mail says: United States consul Waldman informed me that as the German cruiser Irene was passing Mariveles, off Manila, the other day, the United States gunboat Hugh McCulloch was sent after her to ask her to stop. As the Irene refused to obey a shell was sent across her bows and a small boat went down to the Spanish soldiers at Mariveles, where Col. Bryner and his regiment will be under the command of Gen. Fitzhugh Lee.

Cowboy Young Ladies.

PERCY, Oklahoma, July 19.—Miss Lizzie Delesander, a "cowboy young lady" of western Oklahoma, has organized a company of forty-two girls, whom she calls rough riders, and she will offer her services to the military and insisted that McKinley to fight the Spaniards. Miss Delesander says any member of her company can shoot as accurately as the rough riders at the front.

The Claims Awarded.

LONDON, July 19.—The Rome correspondent of the Daily Mail says: The Italian foreign office learns from Washington that the Colombian government has accepted the award of $250,000, made by president Cleveland to Ernesto Corti, an Italian subject, in a claim made by him against the republic of Colombia, and that the incident is now closed.

MRS. M'MULLEN IS DEAD.

A Most Estimable Lady Of Pictou Has Passed Over The River.

PICTOU, Ont., July 19.—Mrs. Eliza B. McMullen, wife of the late Rev. Daniel McMullen, died at the family residence yesterday, at the advanced age of eighty-three years and eight months. Mrs. McMullen was the daughter of Stephen Conger, one of the first settlers of this country. She was born at Conger's Mill near Pictou, Nov. 14th, 1814. Her brothers, David S. and Roger B. Conger; her sisters, Mrs. John P. Robin and Mrs. Owen Robin, all died in recent years. Two sisters, Mrs. Brickman and Mrs. Herrington, died many years ago. Mr. McMullen died in 1874. Mrs. McMullen left a family of ten children. Her six sons, Messrs. H. C. and G. W. McMullen, of Pictou; James B. McMullen, of New York, and Daniel Y., David S. and Roger B. McMullen, of Chicago, are all at home and will be the pall-bearers at her funeral to-morrow. Three daughters, Mrs. Rev. S. J. Shorey, of Peterboro; Mrs. John Rockwell, of Toronto, and Miss McMullen, of Pictou, are here. The eldest daughter, Mrs. R. W. Patterson, of Milwaukee, will be the only one not present. She had but recently made a farewell visit to her mother. Mrs. McMullen was the last surviving member of the older generation of the Conger family. She had been a life-long resident of this county, and was held in the utmost respect by the whole community.

A Vegetarian Victory.

BERLIN, July 19.—A very interesting walking match took place here over a distance of about seventy English miles. There were twenty-two starters, amongst them eight vegetarians, and the distance had to be covered within eighteen hours. The interesting result was that the first six to arrive at the goal were vegetarians, the first finishing in fourteen and a quarter hours, the second in fourteen hours and a half, the third in fifteen hours and a half, the fourth in sixteen hours, the fifth in sixteen hours and a half, and the sixth in seventeen hours and a half. The two non-vegetarians who walked five miles more, all reached the goal in splendid condition. Not till an hour after the last vegetarian arrived did the first meat-eater appear, completely exhausted. He moreover, was the only one, the others having dropped off after thirty-five miles.

The victor presented himself, at the request of several high officers, to the war minister, who took a great interest in hearing about his vegetable diet and way of living.

Bishop Latteche's Funeral.

THREE RIVERS, Que., July 19.—All stores were closed in Three Rivers this morning on the occasion of bishop Latteche's funeral. Trains have been bringing large numbers of priests and people. The cathedral was handsomely decorated. The eulogy was pronounced by archbishop Brochee, of Montreal. Among those in attendance were bishops Grand, Emad, Elsie, Larocque; judges Oimeux, Fagnault, Mailhot, Loranger; senators Dubouché, Laroche; prime ministers Laurier and Marchand, and ex-premier Flynn. It is estimated that 5,100 people assisted at the funeral. Among the names prominently mentioned as late bishop's successors are: Mgr. Marois, Quebec; Rev. M. Laflamme, l'Université Laval, and Rev. M. Emard, Three Rivers.

Winipeg Notes.

WINNIPEG, July 19.—Lieut. Gov. Patterson returned from the east yesterday. The receipts of the exhibition association last week amounted to about $30,000.

Capt. Williams, of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, returned to the city yesterday to take over the office of D.O.C. for the Winnipeg military district from Lieut. Col. Holmes, transferred to London.

Anglican Turned Catholic.

PARIS, July 19.—Rev. John Spencer Turner, formerly an Episcopalian rector at Rochester, has been received into the Roman Catholic church by the pastor of the church of St. Joseph. He has had an audience with cardinal Richard, archbishop of Paris, who will confirm him to-morrow. Mr. Turner will study for the priesthood at Rome.
