

THE DAILY WHIG.

"Opis per Orbem Dior."

DELINQUENT TRUSTEES.

Mrs. Hoodless, who came to Kingston and addressed a meeting, is after the Hamilton school board for its inexplicable action upon the subject of domestic science.

In Hamilton the ladies, with philanthropic spirit and laudable motive, have been really forcing this issue upon the trustees. They have demonstrated the usefulness of domestic science by classes which they have managed to the complete satisfaction of all who have had to do with them.

The utility of the subject, and the favour of the people in regard to it, having been demonstrated, it was expected that the board of education, in Hamilton, composed as it is supposed to be of progressive and practical men, would go the length they had indicated, and add domestic science to the public school curriculum.

GARCIA BULKING.

The letter from Gen. Garcia, of the Cuban insurgent forces, to Gen. Shafter, of the American forces, is a remarkable one. It announces that he has resigned his commission in the Cuban army because he has not been recognized in the ceremonies attending the surrender of Santiago.

The breach is evidently widening between the American and Cuban forces. The Cubans have not impressed the Americans anywhere as a people who can rule themselves. They were believed to be an intelligent and noble race, whose oppression had robbed them of thrift and prosperity.

The breach is evidently widening between the American and Cuban forces. The Cubans have not impressed the Americans anywhere as a people who can rule themselves. They were believed to be an intelligent and noble race, whose oppression had robbed them of thrift and prosperity.

It is because Shafter has taken command of Santiago, in the name of America, and because the stars and stripes flew at above the clouds, and not the Cuban flag that Garcia has bulked, and it is an indication of the further differences that will be had with the insurgents as the conquest of Cuba develops.

THE ARMY CANTEENS.

A revolt has occurred in the United States against the saloon canteen which, according to practice, has been established in every military camp.

A crisis was reached when, in the Mobile army, that which was being collected and drilled and fitted for service in Cuba, the traffic in beer became obnoxious. Singularly enough this traffic was under the direction of a distinguished brewer, whose consent to the opening of a saloon canteen preceded the consent of the commanding officer. Not only was the business all important, but its success absorbed attention.

That such a condition of things should continue long without a protest was not to be expected. This protest was strong and emphatic. It was participated in by a number of bishops, many of whom denounced the canteen as a vicious institution.

Incidentally it may be said that the time has come when the canteens should disappear from the Canadian military camps. These camps are now largely composed of young men, in whose way the temptations of the canteen should not be put.

A fine looking body of men were the fifty or more of the yachtmen who paraded for church services at St. George's cathedral yesterday morning. One of their numbers, the Rev. G. E. Whitcombe, of Hamilton, gave a short address from Roman vi. 23, taken from the epistle for the day.

Last Friday evening while the family of John Stewart, of the second line, were busy with the usual evening duties about the farm, the little three-year-old daughter wandered away from the house, and when the parents realized her absence, were nowhere to be found.

On Saturday next the employees of the Kingston railway and locomotive works were on the athletic ground in a friendly baseball match. The first mentioned team is being coached by Sandford Kelly, while Charles McConville and J. Kelly are preparing the locomotive work team for play.

At the police court this morning W. Arnel was charged with abusing his wife, but she failed to put in an appearance.

THE LATE EVAN MACCOLL.

DEATH IN TORONTO OF THE BARD OF LOGH-FYNE.

A Man of Principle, and of the Most Unyielding Character—He Would Submit to No Impugnment, However Small, and Sacrifice His Opinions.

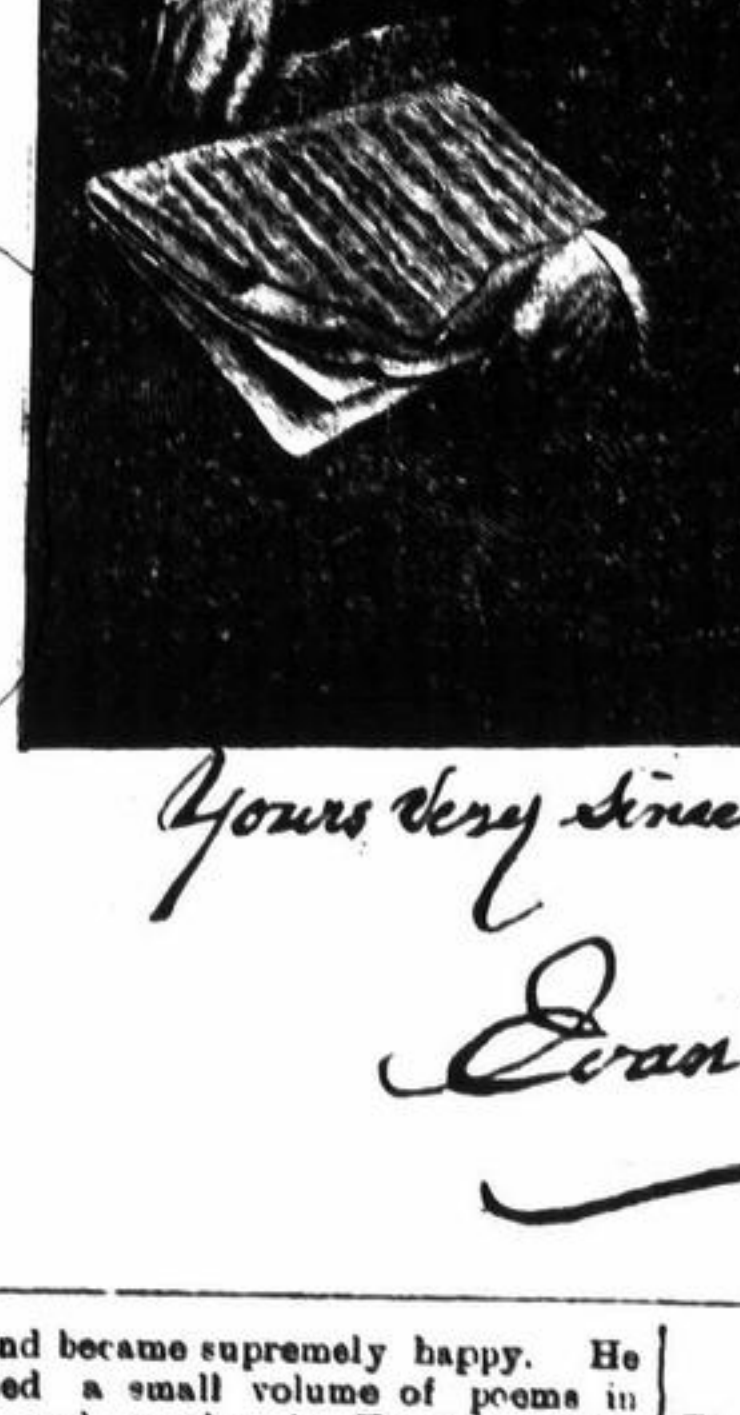

Intelligence was received this morning of the death in Toronto of Evan MacColl, the bard of Loch-Fyne, in his ninetieth year. His remains will be laid to rest in Categar cemetery on Tuesday.

Deceased was for many years a member of the customs house staff here, but for the past eighteen years had been on the superannuated list and living in Toronto.

Evan MacColl was born at Kenmore, Lochnyde side, Scotland, on the 21st of September, 1803, where he was well known as the mountain minstrel.

The late Evan MacColl and the late Charles Sangster are the last of the now paper writers that flourished in this city between 1850 and 1880. They were constant contributors to the Writ in those days, enriching the community with their meditations.

A sudden death occurred Tuesday near Winchester Springs, near Cornhill. Margaret, farmer, dropped while at the well for a drink of water, expiring instantly.

Yours very sincerely Evan MacColl

IN HIS 90TH YEAR.

Wedded This Morning. Two Young Kingstonsians Joining the Ever-Growing Rank.

A peep-day wedding was celebrated this morning in St. George's cathedral when two of Kingston's popular young people were united in tender bonds.

The groom, William Harvey Hughes, son of W. H. Hughes, merchant, Brockville, was supported by his brother, Leslie Hughes. He is the representative of a Montreal wholesale house, and is one of the most popular commercial travellers on the road.

Among Evan MacColl's old country friends were John Mackenzie, of "The Boatman;" the late K. Carruthers, LL.D.; Hugh Miller, the brothers Scherbiek, Stank, and Miles Agnus, with whom he drank out of a coach, once the property of Prince Charles; Donald Moore, author of "Scenes Before the Wood;" and "The Bard of the North;" Alexander Rogers, the author of "Behave Yourself Before Folk;" Rev. Dr. Norman MacLeod, Dr. Chambers, Bailie, the author of "Festus;" Leighton, author of "The Christening of the Bairn;" J. Stuart Blackie, the great Edinburgh professor; James Logan, author of "The Scottish Gael;" Fraser, of Fraser's Magazine; and Fraser, the publisher of the Leader.

A Veteran Orangeman. A veteran Orangeman, G. H. Pidgeon, Hamilton, was in the procession on July 12th. He joined the order in Dublin on June 15th, 1840, and thus has been fifty-eight years' service. He has been W. M. of four lodges in Kingston, and is P. W. M. of Royal Black Preceptory, No. 139. He is an old soldier, having served in the famous 23rd regiment and in the Royal Canadian rife; he was a member of the guard of honour for the prince of Wales in Kingston in 1859, and helped to fire the salute at the time of the re-interment of Sir Isaac Brock in 1857.

Two brothers, John and Henry Chambers, were seen at their mill near St. Charles, near Winnipeg on Sunday, and both perished.
