

THE 4 P. M. EDITION.

WHAT MAY BE DONE.

Gossip in Regard To The Great Napanee Bank Case.

NAPANEE, Aug. 5.—B. B. Oler, Q.C., left this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for Toronto.

The court assembled this afternoon at 2:05 o'clock. Instead of Pare inspector Healey, of Manchester, N.H., was put on the stand. It was at his instigation that Pare was arrested.

He described in detail how the bills were found in a cove box in Pare's woodshed. On Pare were found ninety-six bills; in the cove box 219 ten dollar Dominion bank bills.

On next examination Mr. Porter went thoroughly into the details of Mr. Healey's evidence. He elicited no new information, but the witness' story tallied with the tale told by Pare.

The witness declared that the detective agency was much interested in the matter. The first information emanated from Mr. Saville. Mr. Thornhill, of the Pinkertons, was present with officer Connor when ninety-six bills were found in a secret slide in a cove box.

An adjournment will be made at 4:50 o'clock. In June, 1897, a week or two after the time when Pare says they were prepared, a carter named Richardson, who was removing ties on the Bay of Quinte railway, discovered gags, ropes and masks hidden beside the track as stated by Pare.

The gags were three in number, regulation burglar's eggs, the detectives sawy, made of cord, with a roll of cotton, around the middle to put in the mouth, hand tightly sewed to the ropes to prevent their being moved by the tongue. Short ropes, noosed at the ends, for tying the wrists and ankles, and old hats to pull over the eyes, and two masks made of brown coat lining, were included in the find. They were given to constable Silks weeks before the robbery. Silks presented them and they will be presented as exhibits.

The defence do not know how much of Pare's statement the crown might be holding in reserve, and are going into every detail simply to find out where they stand.

"There is a woman in the case" is about to be proved true in this case. The crown has brought a woman witness into town, who is expected to reveal startling facts.

Holden has signified his intention of going into the witness box. One who knows him says that when he tells his story "there'll be music."

John Hill, who lives in a log cabin half way between Belleville and Napanee, will swear that Mackie and Holden were at his house on the wagon trip, which, Pare says they made between Belleville and Napanee, when the first attempt was made to rob the bank and when the hole was drilled into the side of the safe.

The clerical element of the town and vicinity is well represented at the trial. They are attentive listeners.

Mr. Oler is reported to have said that in all his experience of criminal witnesses the man Pare is the most unique. He is a conundrum.

Mrs. Ponton arrived in town from Belleville Tuesday noon and is the guest of Mr. Wilkinson. Rev. T. J. Thompson, pastor of John street Presbyterian church, accompanied her, and attended court for a few days.

Doorkeeper Hinch, who guards the private entrance, has a hard time of it. The orders were that the room was comfortably filled to suit no more. They come to him in crowds, but to their smiles and persuasive arguments he says, "No; this entrance is only for lawyers and thieves."

"Well," said one witty one, "we are all thieves."

The Walking Was Warm. A day or two ago young Wincross street merchant wheeled up to Babo to visit friends under a canopy at camp "Oufand." He remained over night and started for home the next morning. Near Collins Bay his wheel broke down and he could not get it repaired. He left it in care of a farmer and footed the balance of the distance to the city, arriving here foot-sore and tired. Last evening accompanied by a "brother-in-law" he drove out and recovered the wheel.

Cheese Markets. Thursday: Brockville, 2,266 colored and 1,957 white cheeses were offered; 69 colored sold at 7 1/2 to 16c, 69 colored at 7 1/2, 1,180 colored sold at 7 1/2 to 16c, and 1,157 at 7 1/2 to 16c. Belleville, 1,608 colored and 1,015 boxes colored offered; 250 sold at 7 1/2, 510 at 7 1/2 to 16c, and 64 at 7 1/2.

It seems quite likely that the new romance hats, turning abruptly off the face, will be very strong rivals this season to those worn very far forward or tilted up as side caps and down on the other.

The navy and army blue serges, foulards, mohairs and lightweight costume cloths are made into stylish sailor costumes for traveling and general wear, that hold their own against all the endless smart and novel gowns which the present season has produced.

The most elegant black gowns just now shown at the importing houses are of very lustrous watered silk, made in princess style and trimmed very elaborately on the neck portion and front of the gown with black lace, with girdle and yoke, brettele or tye piece of the finest jet.

Eight colored capes of plaited silk mull, lace, chiffon and transparent silk are one of the fashions of the season. The material is accordion plaited, and billows and yards of it are used for each cape, which is pointed front and back, short over the elbows. It is sometimes finished with very long scarf ends.—New York Post.

Francis E. King, barrister, has just east on a business trip. Jim. Jeffrey, the Californian, is willing tonight to bet that he will be in the city on Monday. They have been absent from the city for twelve years.

INVESTIGATION CONTINUED.

MORE EVIDENCE TAKEN IN THE POLICE CHARGES.

Result of The Enquiry This Morning—The Chief Witness Not to Be Found—Very Little Progress Made—The Investigation to Be Continued.

Further evidence was taken this morning in the matter of charges preferred against police constable McCullagh. The space set apart for the public was not adequate to accommodate the rush of spectators. A few minutes after the doors opened the entire court room was filled to overflowing. It required the assistance of two police constables to keep out boys under age and to keep order. So great was the crush that the court room door could not be closed.

G. M. Macdonnell appeared in behalf of the publishers of the Times, and W. L. Whiting in behalf of constable McCullagh.

Edward Halliday was the first witness called. He knew nothing whatever about the charge. Had heard James Hanley mention that McCullagh was drunk. Was called on by Mr. Gowdy, but told him he knew nothing about the case, and informed Mr. Gowdy he should go and see James Hanley. Witness had not been out of his house all day. McCullagh was not in the Hub on that day. Hanley told witness that "he had been out with McCullagh."

Thomas Hutchison, nightwatchman at the Thousand Island house, testified, after Mr. Gowdy's evidence was read over to him, that Mr. Gowdy had never spoken to him concerning constable McCullagh. Mr. Gowdy's evidence was not true. Witness wondered at seeing such a statement published. Did not give McCullagh any drinks on the night in question. Did not see him in the hotel on the night in question. Saw McCullagh at the hotel yesterday.

McCullagh asked witness to tell what he knew about the matter. Mr. Gowdy had made statements about McCullagh and he wanted witness to tell whether or not Mr. Gowdy's statement was true. While in conversation Alexander Walsh was present. Walsh said McCullagh had called at the hotel at about four o'clock during the morning in question and had been served with a sandwich by Walsh.

While the conversation was in progress another policeman, whose name he did not know, entered and spoke to McCullagh. Could not say that he ever saw McCullagh in the hotel since July 13th until yesterday. Was on duty all night during the night in question and did not see McCullagh in the hotel that night. Witness never drank with McCullagh.

James Hanley was twice called but failed to answer to his name. A policeman was sent in search of him and returned saying his brother had not seen him and did not know where he was.

Matthew Miller knew nothing about the charge, except that he had heard James Hanley remark that "McCullagh's lesson did not have much effect, as he was out with him last night having a time." Had heard several persons mention the fact that McCullagh was drunk on the night in question, but could not say who the persons were.

Was asked by Mr. Gowdy about the matter and referred him to James Hanley. Hanley used words to the effect that "McCullagh was throwing it into him," which led witness to believe that McCullagh and Hanley had been drinking together. Mr. Gowdy questioned witness first. Might have referred Mr. Gowdy to Halliday, but thought he referred Mr. Gowdy to Hanley. Was present when Mr. Gowdy asked Halliday about the matter. Could not give Hanley's exact words, but thought they were "we were out together and he was throwing it into him." Did not pay sufficient attention to what Hanley was saying to repeat his words, but understood from his remarks that he and McCullagh had been out together drinking.

Alexander Walsh, bar-tender at the Thousand Island house, gave McCullagh a sandwich on the morning in question. Did not give McCullagh any liquor. McCullagh did not drink and was there about two minutes only. Did not appear to be drunk nor act like a drunken man. McCullagh did not ask for liquor nor did witness give him any. Left the bar at eleven o'clock and retired at one o'clock. McCullagh was not in the house up to that hour. Witness locks the bar at eleven o'clock and carries the keys. Nobody could serve liquor from the bar during the night without knowledge of witness. Had a short conversation with McCullagh yesterday afternoon in the acting room of the hotel, a small room set apart "where persons could go and have a quiet drink." Thought McCullagh was on his beat on the morning in question.

James Hanley's name was again called but he failed to appear. Police constable Ballantyne said he had been told that Hanley had left for New York. The hearing was further adjourned until tomorrow morning. There are more witnesses who will be summoned in behalf of the Times.

Saw The Liner Go Down. St. John's, Nfld., Aug. 5.—The mail steamer Virginia Lake arrived at Tilt Cove, on West Bay, 230 miles from here, at daylight this morning, bringing certain corroboration of the reported loss of an ocean liner in the straits of Belle Isle. A fisherman at Noddy bay reported to her that he saw a steamer collide with an iceberg and sink soon afterwards. The report is generally believed here, but nothing reliable is obtained. The fisherman said that the steamer looked like a passenger ship, and he could see the people preparing to launch boats, but she sank before they could do anything.

Attached By Fire. BUFFALO, N.Y., Aug. 5.—A special to the News says: Fire broke out in the chapel of the Niagara university, a Catholic institution near Niagara Falls, at four o'clock this morning. The chapel at nine o'clock was almost completely destroyed and the main building was burning. There is no possibility of saving the structure, since the fire apparatus is totally inadequate. The loss already is $75,000. The fire is attributed to an incendiary.

That's Much Interest. LONDON, Aug. 5.—The Daily News says it understands news has reached the house of commons that the price of wheat is taking great interest in the London exchange. His royal highness thinks that the unfortunate disputes over the last race will not be so unkindly remembered in America. Indeed on the contrary he believes that a contest well fought to the end would "greatly strengthen the friendly feeling so rapidly growing up between the two nations."

Drove Out To Walsh's Camp. Last evening C. W. Walker conducted a driving party to Walsh's camp at the floating bridge, Front Road. About twenty-five young people took in the trip, which was made in vans, and they had a glorious time until an early hour this morning.

SAGASTA ON HIS DIGNITY.

PEACE MAY NOT COME AS QUICKLY AS EXPECTED.

Spain Will Reply Next Week—The Government Has Not Received the United States Answer to Questions—Hoping for the Best—What Was Captured. LONDON, Aug. 5.—The Madrid correspondent of the Times says: "Though peace is regarded as assured, it may not be attained so quickly as is generally expected. Senior Sagasta objects to being hurried and insists upon everything being done in a quiet, orderly and dignified manner. He considers it necessary to have full and satisfactory explanations as to all doubtful points in order to enable him best to protect the national interests against the aggressive tendencies of the Washington cabinet. "He has also to examine very minutely the exigencies of the international situation and the domestic position, so as to avoid popular dissatisfaction. "The Madrid correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "The government has not yet answered the American note nor received president McKinley's reply to the explanations asked for by Senior Sagasta. The premier said to-day that the government would reply to the American demands early next week. "In consequence of the president of Castelar, who the Virginian affair threatened war with the United States. It is not probable that he will resign as a result of the conference. "The premier is inclined to rush the treaty through without convoking the cortes, trusting to get a bill of indemnity next month; but the party leading are not likely to consent to this course. "The Rome correspondent of the Standard says: Italy having notified the United States her intention to land a military force somewhere in Colombia, in default of a compliance with her demands in connection with the Gertutti claim, the American government replied, recognizing Italy's full right to do so, and expressing the hope of a pacific solution. HAVANA, Aug. 5.—After the Spanish troops had abandoned the village of Gibro, the jurisdiction of Sancti Spiritus was occupied by the insurgents, who captured eighteen guerrillas, natives of Cuba, who had belonged to the Gibro garrison, and killed them with machetes. The reason for this slaughter was that the guerrillas were Cubans who were fighting for Spain. HONG KONG, Aug. 5.—United States consul Gen. Wildman has received a letter from Aquinaldo, in which the insurgent leader asks why America should expect him to outline his policy, present and future, and to fight blindly for her interests when America will not be frank with him. He wants to know whether he is fighting for annexation, protection or independence and says it is for America to say, not him. He declares that he is not both fool and rogue and that the interests of his people are sacred to him. SANTIAGO DE CUBA, Aug. 4.—It is expected that eighteen transports will soon be conveying the soldiers back to the United States. These vessels will carry from 12,000 to 15,000. Shafter has received orders to remove his entire army north at once. MADRID, Aug. 5.—The explanation of the peace terms asked from the government at Washington, especially regarding the Philippines, is expected to-day. If it is received Spain's final answer to the United States will be made on Saturday. The government has been informed that Don Carlos is preparing to issue a manifesto as soon as it is announced officially that the queen and her ministers have accepted the American terms.

Do Negroes Blush? Blushing has often been considered as a peculiarity of the white man, and has been denied to other races, and especially to the negro; but several trustworthy observers assure Darwin that they had seen the faces of negroes an appearance resembling a blush under circumstances which would have excited one in us, although their skins were of an ebony-black tint. Some describe it as a blushing brown, but most say that the blackness becomes more intense. An increased supply of blood in the skin seems in some manner to intensify the blackness. Swars remain for a long time white in the negro, and Dr. Burgess, who has frequent opportunities of observing one on the face of a negro, noticed that it invariably became red whenever she was abruptly spoken to or charged with any trivial offence. The blush could be seen proceeding from the circumference of the ear towards the middle. Mulattoes are often great blushers. From these facts there can be no doubt that the negroes blush, though no reddening of the skin is visible.

They Act in Conjunction in Obtaining Concessions in China. LONDON, Aug. 5.—A despatch from Peking to a news agency says: Efforts are being made by the British colony at New Chwang, in conjunction with the Japanese, to obtain concessions for the neighborhood as a proposed railway terminus. New Chwang is a town and treaty port in the province of Leaotung, on the navigable river Liaou, near the gulf of P'ei Chi Li. The matter has been referred to the local (local) (the ruler of two or more departments of a province united into a one) where dilatoriness in the matter is declared to be due to Russian bribes. It is impossible to over-estimate the importance of obtaining a proper footing in a region where already a Russian influence preponderates. A great proportion of the New Chwang trade is in American goods and this fact renders the co-operation of the United States minister and his support of the British demand necessary as the gravity of the situation is undoubted. Letters have been received from leading British merchants in north China, confirming the reports of the state of uneasiness prevailing among the Chinese, who regard the issue between Russia and England as likely to decide the future of China. An imperial decree was issued to-day establishing a central bureau of mining and railway administration, under the presidency of two cabinet ministers.

Lean Pork for Export. Secretary Wilson, of the Agricultural Department, has been trying to learn why more American bacon cannot be sold in the English market. Denmark and Canada send large quantities of bacon to England, which brings from 11 to 14 cents per pound, while American bacon is rated from 6 1/2 to 8 cents. The trouble is that American bacon is too fat. The English want more lean meat, and the Danes and Canadians have learned this fact. In order to get more lean meat from the foreign bacon trade, the American farmer must feed and breed for lean meat.

What Is Proposed. HALIFAX, N.S., Aug. 5.—Dr. McCabe, of Ottawa, has been elected president of the dominion educational association. It will meet in Ottawa in 1900. Teaching of pedagogy in universities and making May 23rd empire day in the schools were ordered. A committee will report on a scheme for a central bureau of education for Canada, and Mr. Brown will propose changing names of letters of the alphabet to secure more uniform pronunciation.

BRIGADIER GENERAL WILLIAM S. WORTH.

He was the heroic bravery displayed by General Worth in leading his command up San Juan hill which gained him his promotion.

As a lieutenant colonel he was not in command when the engagement was opened, but within ten minutes after the ball had begun Colonel Wilcox was killed, and then Lieutenant Colonel Worth took his place. His men had the center of the hill.

Colonel Worth was wounded twice in the fight early in the engagement. One bullet pierced the arm just above the elbow and the other just below the shoulder. He clutched his sword in his left hand and led his men to the fresh attack. Shortly after this Major's bullets struck Colonel Worth in the right and left breast, leaving the colonel all in a heap and unconscious on the field. Orderly Keller saw him fall and ran to his assistance. Colonel Worth didn't know what had happened until Keller brought him around and told him. He looked dazed for a minute, then he said: "Keller, just keep me on my feet. I'm beat the lines."

While the orderly was bending over his chief a piece of shell struck him in the back, right on top of the carriage belt, and gouged out a handful of flesh. Keller stuck by his colonel, and after awhile the two were carried off the field together.

General Worth is now recuperating at his quarters on Governors island. It is expected that he will recover. In speaking of the fight he says that in all his experience during the civil war and later during his Indian campaigns he never before saw such an exhibition of bravery.

"Talk about leading them," he says. "Why, an officer had to sprint to keep up with them."
