ITS CONNECTION WITH THE GAME OF LIFE.

A Grateful Odor or a Strain of Music Will Oftimes Waft The Mind Back to Pleasant Scenes in The Days Chat Are Dead -A Late Confeibution to Literature-Some Fresh Personal Notices.

When we were children one of our favorite games was called "Suggestions." We used to sit in a circle and the leader would whisper a word to her neighbor, who, in turn, would whisper to the one sitting next ber another word-one suggested by its predecessor. And so the game went on until the circle was completed, when the first and last words were spoken aloud, and rarely was there any seeming connection between them. Novertheless, the last word was the outcome of the chain of thought which, link by link, was evolved in the mind of each player by the word whispered by her neighbor. "Suggestions!' Though it seems but yesterday, time has made rapid strides since we played the old game for pastime. and yet we have been playing it steadily ever since, and in full reality, for it is the game of life; only, in the children's game there was no distraction, the whispered words had free course to raise the new links of thought, while in life the suggestions come from all sides at once, and the individual is liable to be like a foot ball in the ecrimmage, or like a shuttlecock, tossed hither and thither by "every wind of doctrine." For all that our environment man liveth unto himself." In the beginning, God said "Let there be light," and there was light, and since that divine suggestion the ball has been roiling, gathering its particles of thought into the history of the world. But the early introduction of evil marred the unity of the divine thought, and thenceforth humanity had a dual suggestion from which the sovereignty of the will had to select. Learned men turned this into scientific channels, and hence we have hypnotism, and kindred subjects. We have only to look about us to see the effects of suggestion in every day life. Who, of us, has not frequently forgotten something and brought is again to remembrance by retracing his footsteps, or by assuming the same position as when the CLOSEBURN, FORMERLY THE RESI-dence of Hon. G. A. Kirkpatrick, beauti-fully situated, opposite Macdonald Park. Apthought occurred, and back it has come ! that are all unthought of by others who perceive the same fragrance or hear the same sounds. The glories of the sunset arouse a whole train of suggestions in the mind of one whose eyes are open to the grandeur of the golden and crimson and blue which are emblazoned above us at the close of each day, and the gentle lapping of the waters on the beach, or the wild roar of the angry waves, are alike full of auggestions to one who will listen. W are all familiar with the name of the old song, "What Are The Wild Waves Say ing?" but no universal answer can be given to the time worn query, for the meseage of the waves is to each individual, the same story is not told to more than > before, suggestion. Take another well-known quotation, "A word may find him whom a sermon flee," and again we have the mystic power of suggestion. The subject is prolific and examples might be multiplied ad in finitum, but all I can do in a letter like this is merely to touch upon the thought; it is full of interest, and even this superficial handling of it may raise in the minds of readers a lengthy train of suggestions.

one, and the solution of the riddle is, as

One of the latest contributions to magazine literature dealing with psychological research is a little periodical entitled, "Suggestions," published by the Chicago School of Psychology. The initial number was issued last month and is full of interesting articles on the vari ous phases of psychology. The open ing article is, "Therapeutic Suggestion, What is it?" by Herbert A. l'arkyn, M D. medical superintendent of the school which is known as the "pioneer in American psychotherapeutics." Dr. Parkyn, who is better known to his Kingston friends as "Bert" Parkyn, is also one of the editors of the new magazine. In another article on "The intelligent use of suggestion in moulding the character of children," occurs the following story "In a New England town a baby boy was born whose first plaything was a piece of gold attached to a chain. When old enough he was taught to count with silver dollars, and when the lesson was over he was told to put every one of those dollars into his bank and keep them, and then les. some day he would be very rich. No key was given him to unlock the little iron safe, for he was told day. that he must keep his money if he would be wealthy. Beggare came to the door; bare footed children went past the house on icy sidewalks; pale and hungry faces looked up at him from the street as he piled his money on the window siil. So avaricious did he become that even his broken toys were laid away and kept, white his father smiled upon him and said, "You are going to be rich my lad; you are going to be rich." This boy became a millionaire, but so mean and miserly was his soul that no one shed a tear above his grave when the words were spoken, 'Ashes to ashes, dust to dust,' The little pamphlet will be devoted to the study of Suggestive Therapy, Hypnoti-m, Telepathy, Suggestive Education of Children, Dreams, Visions, and all psychological phenomena, but it will not touch upon spirittem or spirit phenomena in any of its issues. Again has a Royal Military College graduate been winning honor for himself and his country. Lieut. Percy Girouard has established a record by his push and perseverance in following up the British army in Egypt so closely that, although Atbara was won but a few months ago, already the railway is there, "pushed forward, says the London Daily Chronicle, "by the ceaseless energy and enterprise of Lieut. Girouard." STREET FIGHTS ARE COMMON

BAR-ROOM ROWS SHOULD BE CHECKED.

The Numerous Brutal And Petty Rows Are Becoming a Nulsance to Many Residents, Who Justly Make Complaint-Recent Cases Where Men Have Been Beaten Into Unconsciousness While Offendess Escape Justice.

The extent to which street fighting and bar-room brawle are carried on in the c ty is something disgraceful, and suggests the idea that there still remains some barbar ism among civil zed nations. This week seems to have been an exceptional one for brutal contests and milder pugilistic encounters, but the culprits escaping the vigilance of the police, many citizens have to put up with the noise and filthy lan guage which accompanies the brawle.

The other day in front of the Thousand immediately jumped upon his face and kicked him unmercifully, until the fellow stretched out unconscious, and to all ap pearance dead. The boots of the kicker were no light weight and the fellow's face was horribly distigured. Word reached the police, who hastened to the scene, but the offender had made off through back yards, over fences, and down the railroad track, where he was soon lost to sight. In 18 not long since another man under the influence of liquor was thrown out of a down town hotel and kicked about the road until he was unable to stand. These fights are of almost daily occurrence, and inflict on one another.

Last night a Scotchman with unsteady became off neive to others in the bar, and the treatment he received was anything but gentle. But for the intervention of the proprietor a rerious row might have oc curred. The owner of the house wisely refused to give the Scotchman any liquor and succeeded in sending him away from

The hotels are not the only scenes of these "scraps" but they are continually seen along the docks If matters continue as they are going, Kingston will soon have the reputatation of other large marine cities. It can be eafely said that ninetyfive per cent. of the lights do not come to the notice of the police and so the perpe trators escape legal punishment. The reeidents along Ontario street would ap preciate a closer watch in that district by the police department.

known in this town, where he victimized many merchants by a catchy story. Not only did he seem to take a delight in ruinhard earned savings, and then leaving them stranded in some strange place, but he oponly boasts of his success in the matter, and the great surprise is that he has escaped so long. Chief McGowan located the bigamist at Portage la Prairie last week, and at once left for the prairie town, returning with his prisoner on Monday morning. When there chief McGowan learned that Maggie Halliday, O'Brien's last wife, was at Daulphin, where he had taken her. She had $100 of her own savings when he married her, but he left her there alone and penniless. Arriving at Daulphin he put up at one of the hotels and began making love to one of the hotel girls. His attention seems to have been accepted, but when he urged an immediate and hasty marriage the girl became suspicious, and whether because he tried to take liberties with her or not, the girl struck him over the eye with a stove poker and inflicted a severe wound, which at present decorates his face. When word was sent to Maggie, the last wife, that O Brien had been arrested on a charge of bigamy, she went into hysterics and fainted away, and it was with the utmost difficulty she was revived.

On the way to Smith's Falls the news the owner of a number of wives seems to have preceded him as at many stations he was the subject of much attention. At HONEST COAL Chapleau the station platform was crowded with women anxious to get a glimpse of the prisoner, and O'Brien was just as anxious that he should be seen. The women would come and peek in at the car window while O'Brien would smile and kies his fingers to them. Ho finally a ked the chief to raise the window and then O'Brien put his head out and said . "Dear ladies, is there a clergyman in the crowd ! If there is we can soon have the matter settled. My only difficulty in previous cases seemed to be in getting a clergyman. I can always get the woman. Fortunately for the women the train soon pulled out. To the chief O Brien said that he had three wives or more living in Toronto. It was there he met Miss Meach, the North Augusta girl, whom he married at Detroit, and who still declares she is infatuated with the man and will live with him as soon as he leaves jail.

O'Brien was brought before mayor

Barnes yesterday, and was committed to Perth jail to stand his trial on the charge of procuring goods falsely and bigamy, and was taken to the county town by the chief. O'Brien has told several who have spoken to him that he has seventeen wives and forty one children, and make a boast of it. Came Up Very Suddenly. About eight o'clock last night a heavy

I saw your advertisement of CUTICURA REMEDIES in the Philadelphia " Record," and paid only $2.00 for CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CITICURA (ointment), and CUTTOURA BOAP, which cured me of Suit Rheum on my hands of 20 years' standing.

I had the worst hands I have ever seen. At first my hands and fingers broke out in red, watery blisters with terrible itching, so I could nearly twitch the skin off my flagers in agony, then after the watery fluid would como out, there would a scab form with matter under it, which would peel off and come in great cracks, the blood running out in streams. My finger nails grew out in wrinkles like a cow's horns and the roots of the nails were so affected that I lost six nails, three off each hand, but now they have grown out nice and smooth. I am very thankful to you for Cori-CURA. S. R. MILLER, Robertsdale, Pa. ECZEMA and every kind of tortaring, humiliating, disfiguring, itching, burning, bleeding, and scaly skin, scalp, and blood humors, with loss of hair, is instantly relieved and speedily cured by warm baths with CUTICURA SOAP, gentle anointings with CUTICURA (ointment), purest of emollient skin cures, followed by mild doses of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, greatest of blood purifiers and humor cures, when all clee falls.
