IS THIS INGRATITUDE ? Hall Caine, the author, is making a sort of holiday trip to America, and, while on this side of the water, has promised to make two addresses on the Anglo Saxon alliance. This inspires a reflection from the Buffalo Express which was not, under the circumstances, to be expected "There was a time," it remarks, "when, o Great Britain, such an alliance seemed a necessity, but the re-approachment bet reen it and Germany, and the peace pro gramme of the Czar, have removed it, thereby making Mr. Caine's mission s work of supererogation."

Such a remark savours of ingratitude It is only a few days since the facts came out in regard to the friendly attitude of Great Britain in America's extremity. There was a time when the Anglo Saxon alliance was a very good thing. That was when the European powers, headed by France, had arranged for intervention between Spain and the United States, and for the protection of the Don. That intervention would have succeeded but for the refusal of Great Britain to countenance it. The demand of John Bull, that the ery. United States should have fair play, had its effect. He stood by to see that there was no interference, and that she United States came out of that war so soon and so well is owing to the fact that it had as an ally the greatest paval and military nation in the world. Is it to be understood that having served its purpose the United States has no further use for the alliance? That is what one is to infer from the language of the Buffalo Express. Nothing has transpired, however, in Europe or America that has affected the relations of the United States and Great Britain, and nothing that affects the mission of Hall Caine or any other

Rev. Mr. Pedley, of Vancouver, B.C. has given expression to a thought that is having a very wide circulation. He was preaching upon prohibition, and said:

"There is one thing I often warn our temperance people about, and I am a tem perance man myself. If we, in our enthusiasm, pass a law in Canada on the debiscite that is not intended to be operat ed, and that law becomes a dead letter on our shatute books, in ten years we will have a sarnival of crime to our dominion that it is difficult to conceive of. Better have the imperfect license law than a per fect law, a prohibitory measure that is not

Now Mr. Pedley was not arguing against the plebiscite. He was not resisting the idea that a test of public opinion upon a great question should be had, and that the plebiscite was the only test available. But he was arguing, clearly, against an at tempt to enforce a prohibitery law if the people were not in sympathy with it.

The Wars can remember when the license law was not respected as it is now. That law has been made more and more at Chautauqua National Photographic exacting until one is almost asionished as the effect it has wrought. There are some who think the process of limitation should be continued by the liceuse law until the change from the license system to prohibi tion becomes less serious than it may be at the present time.

Mr. Padley seems to question the expediency of acting precipitably in regard to prohibition, or of introducing a condition of things for which the people are not prepared. His remark is not meant to be discouraging. It inspires thoughtfulness, study, reflection-and all these should preceed the voting which will take place on the 29th.

The temperance people are doing what they can, by the distribution of literature. to make the electors read. The press of the country affords the ful'est discussion of the question. Let us hope that whatever the result it will be according to the best light and judgment of the people, and for the public good.

MAKE A CHARGE.

The Vancouver World does not think much of the average attack of the conser vative press upon Mr. Sifton, Canada's minister of the interior. Mr. Siften is telled of very much as Mr. Hardy was some years ago, as the wicked partner of the premier, as the man who is supposed to carry the sine of the administration, and especially the imaginary sins. Mr. Hardy has outfived the insihuations of his political opponents. 1. There is the question of fact. We have been told so often and by so wise men that the Scott act and the Maine against Great Britain, in her European re- law were failures, that some silly perple are getting ready to accept of the illegations as if they were facts. Let it be remembered that as good authorwiping out the troubles, exterminating it was to say the least, have testified that they were not failures as those Dingley is no mean authority, and he says that the Maine law is not the great mertality among the American, ure.
