What came near being a fatal shooting affair happened at Sherbrooke Lake on Tuesday. As the K. & P. train was pulling out of the village, headed south, a rifle bullet crashed through a window in one of the coaches, going out through a window in the opposite side. In its flight through the car it grazed the back of the neck of a lady passenger, but beyond giving her a scare it caused no greater harm.

The November Century is to have a novelty in a colored cover designed by Graven, the famous poster-maker of Paris. He has pictured Alexander the Great on his steed 'Bucephalus,' to mark the opening of Prof. Benjamin Ide Wheeler's serial 'Life of Alexander.' The cover for December Century has been designed by the French artist Tassot, who painted the famous illustrations for the 'Life of Christ.'

OUTSIDE PAPERS

Will Take Notice That Granites Are Not So Black As Painted

Montreal newspapers, the Herald especially, are making a great howl over the injuries Hartland McDougall received in the Montreal Granite football match of Saturday last. Toronto papers have taken sides with the Montreal press in throwing mud at Granites over the affair. The Toronto Star of Thursday's issue has this to say about the accident:

Hartland McDougall, the captain of the Montreal football club, is laid up with the results of a kick in the head, which he received in Kingston on Saturday. That should be an excuse for the expulsion of the Granites from the Quebec union. It begins to look as if the Granites were mere winners of the Quebec championship. Therefore, it is time for the Montreal Herald to better itself and have the best team "fried," to use its own language.

All of which goes to show that the writers of such nonsense must be all cued with a pain in the region of their waists. Hartland McDougall received a cut above the right eye brow, but it was inflicted by one of his own team, who acknowledged the fact on the field immediately after the accident.

The remains of the late George Metcalfe arrived shortly after one o'clock this afternoon from Syracuse, N. Y., on the steamer America. They were accompanied by Frederick Metcalfe, brother of deceased, and J. T. Sutherland, brother-in-law. The body was entombed in an oak casket covered with black cloth, with silver handles and ornaments. A large number of wreaths and bouquets of flowers, from the many Syracuse friends of deceased, accompanied the remains. Many of deceased's late companions accompanied the body to the train at nine o'clock this morning, and would have come on to Kingston had they not been informed that the funeral would be private.

The late George Metcalfe resided at Syracuse for three years, and during that time he made a wide circle of friends among the influential men of the city. He was successful in his calling as a veterinary surgeon, and had a comfortable bank account at the time of his death.

A Regrettable Death. On Thursday the home of Eliah Joyner, township of Kingston, was saddened by the loss of his youngest daughter, Eva, who passed away in her nineteenth year. A slight cold developed into consumption, and resulted fatally to the young girl just budding into womanhood. For several years she had resided with her sister, Mrs. J. W. Reid, at Cananque. The parents have borne a heavy loss, a son, Dr. N. P. Joyner, and another daughter, Miss Grace, a nurse in training at the general hospital, having previously passed to brighter realms. Miss Eva was a member of St. George's cathedral.

Married Men's Social. The annual social given by the married men of the Brock street Methodist church was held last night, and a very enjoyable evening was spent. During the evening Messrs Spence and Barton rendered solo, and the Rev. E. B. Laurence and the pastor delivered addresses. The entertainment was of an exceedingly interesting character and was enjoyed by all. This is the first of a series of similar social evenings which the congregation hopes to spend together during the winter months.

A Sure Winner. You are bound to be pleased when "Mc-Surley's Twins" come to town. It is an up to date farce, full of ginger from start to finish. Just the kind of show to drive away the blues. All the music introduced in this popular Irish farce comedy is bright, catchy and absolutely original. Having been especially written for the present adaptation. It will be seen at the Grand on Tuesday evening, October 25th. The play opens Monday at 10 a.m. at Sawyer's.

Advice Worth Something. Acting warden Foster has made some important recommendations, it is said, calculated to improve the management of Kingston penitentiary. It is hoped they will be laid before the minister of justice and not sidetracked, as such things have often been. The advice of an experienced worker, who has shown capacity for correction and reforming, is worth something.

A Large Citron. A. J. Lee has on view at his barber shop a citron grown on J. Burnham's farm, Howe Island, that weighs thirty-seven pounds, ten ounces. The seed was procured from the west from a friend of Mr. Lee's. He has also on view samples of potatoes, Dakota, Raska, that weigh two and three-quarter pounds. They are fine specimens.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT. Injured a Friend in a Scuffle - The Motion Balaraged.

TRONTON, Oct. 21 - J. R. Carlyle, a well known insurance agent, was arrested this morning and taken to the police court on a charge of assaulting A. W. Smith, a commercial traveller living on Major street. It appears that Carlyle and Smith were engaged in altercation at the young conservative rooms on Saturday night last. The quarrel grew into a scuffle and Smith was very badly injured. He has been unconscious almost ever since and this morning his condition is so low that his recovery is doubtful. Carlyle was remanded for a week. The motion to commit Harry Elber, conservative member for South Huron, for contempt of court in not appearing for examination when called on, was to-day enlarged until to-morrow.

Starting Orders. LONDON, Oct. 21 - Extraordinary interest in the war was shown in Great Britain and France over Fashoda and other nations in the far east has been aroused by an order of the admiralty issued this morning. The admiralty orders that no repairs be commenced on the ships of the reserve fleet now in dock yards that cannot be completed in forty-eight hours. This may be a bluff to take France down from her high horse in regard to Fashoda, or it may have relation to the demand of Great Britain that the emperor of China be restored to his throne.

DR. NEUFELD.

His Remarkable Adventures In The Khalifa's Country. Dr. Neufeld, the German explorer, who was rescued at Onaduman by the forces of the sirdar, is now in Cairo on a look-in, in which he will recount the adventures of his imprisonment among the Dervishes, Mezgre and unauthentic items of his career were published at the time the news of his rescue was announced by cable. As a forerunner of his book the doctor has summarized his experience for the Vossische Zeitung, from which the following is taken: Dr. Neufeld's father died in January, 1877, but his mother, Frau Sanitätsrath Neufeld, still lives in her native town, Foridon, on the Vistula, near Bromberg. Karl Neufeld, after having been graduated in medicine at Leipzig university, went in 1882 to Kenya, Upper Egypt, following his profession first as a medical man and then as a merchant. When Khartoum fell Neufeld conceived a chimerical scheme to equip a caravan to the Nile, and he equipped a caravan of ten mules, led by Berber, which was in the hands of Osman Digna, Osman took Neufeld prisoner, and sent him as a dangerous spy to the Khalifa, Abdullah. Neufeld's services as an interpreter were not to be trusted, as he had been employed by the British to fight against the Khalifa. Neufeld was to be hanged, but he begged so hard to be executed like a Mohammedan that the Khalifa granted him a reprieve. An attempt was then made to kill Neufeld, which he narrowly escaped, as he had been able to get a machine for cutting money. For his work he received from the Khalifa a monthly salary of fifteen Maria Theresa dollars, which was at the time worth $200. In late years many attempts were made to rescue Neufeld. The Austrian Catholic mission, induced by Fr. Othmar, Slatin Pasha, the British consul general, and others, more especially the Austrian representatives at Cairo, all endeavored to further the escape of Neufeld. He frequently received money, but he refused to accept it without his wife and the two children whom he had borne him. The latter, had Neufeld escaped alone, would have been exposed to fearful tortures. Besides making powder and coins, and decorating the most important articles, he wrote Arabic books and illustrated them, and became interpreter to the Khalifa and translator of the European newspapers, which the ruler of the Soudan received regularly.

TOOK HIM FOR A TOPER.

An Incident in Rev. Dr. Henderson's Life Not Before Published. Smith's Falls News. The visit of Rev. Dr. Henderson to the Methodist church here last Sunday reminded the News of a somewhat amusing incident in that gentleman's career, which has never yet been published. It was on the occasion of the incident occurred some twenty-two years ago when Rev. H. F. Bland was chairman of the Belleville district, and Mr. Henderson was a prominent member in that country. Bland had been labouring on a mission in a place near Bridgewater, Ont., and when on his way to attend the district meeting to be held at Belleville, and there to preach his trial sermon, he was invited to stop at a farm near Bridgewater and preach there in the evening. Bridgewater is a town founded by the late senator "Billie" Flint, who was one of the strongest conservative adherents in that country. When senator Flint, who gave the site on which Bridgewater is built, sold a lot it was stipulated in the deed that no liquor was to be sold within the village limits. A considerable part of the town at that time was the lot, and because no liquor was sold there it became a sort of resort for those who were addicted to drink, but who desired to overcome their appetites in the evening. The evening service, which was a strong temperance sermon, was an encouragement to those fighting the appetite, and while preaching he noticed a man in the audience with a very red face. He was asked what was the matter with him, and he said he had a strong desire to drink. He was observed the close attention he was giving, thought that his soul was surely falling in fertile ground. To follow up the good impression he had formed in his mind he rose in the evening, and walked down to where the man was standing with the intention of giving the "tonic," as he thought, a few more encouraging words. He offered him a glass of water, and he took it. He then said, "Well, you mean you are preaching a good sermon, and I like your style. But say, haven't you any better clothes than those you have on? It looks as if you had a good one in the last month." Mr. Henderson was taken completely by surprise, but had to admit that he had on his best clothes, and had been living on dry bread for some time. He then returned to his room, and had a long talk with his wife, who had been told by a friend that he had been drinking. He then returned to his room, and had a long talk with his wife, who had been told by a friend that he had been drinking.

Husband's Letter to New York Sun. "I take pleasure in returning through your columns the fact that my wife yesterday lost the chaste line which she has, or had, the bad habit of wearing dangling to a painful extent the moment of her going when she had occasion to look herself in a looking glass. I have long insisted that women who wore their watches in such a manner, but tempt themselves to steal, yet my wife would not effect an exchange, and day after day I have seen her go out only to see her come home again with the watch still there and a smile of scorn on her face for me. I have tried to persuade her to get rid of it, but she would not. It was neither subtle nor watch. I also desire to extend my sincere thanks to the gentlemanly and urbane pickpocket for pinching the usable. He has not only returned my watch, but has given me a new one, which I find to be a good one. I have been very much gratified that I am almost tempted to offer him $25 as a token of my esteem."

DECIDED NOT TO ACCEPT.

U.P.R. DECLINES THE ARBITRATION'S DECISION.

The Lines Vice-President Says the Question Must Be Submitted Again, and in Such Form as To Obtain a Decision On the Broad Merits - Shaughnessy Gives Information. MONTREAL, Oct. 21. - The Canadian Pacific railway has practically decided not to accept the decision of the arbitration in the trans continental freight differential rendered in Chicago two days ago. In the language of T. C. Shaughnessy, vice president, "the question must be submitted again in such form as to obtain a decision on the broad merits."

The officials of the C.P.R. were not prepared to express an opinion yesterday, in view of the fact that they had received no official information as to the outcome of the arbitration, but to-day Mr. Shaughnessy was prepared to do so as follows: "The arbitrators seem to have rendered a decision adverse to the C.P.R., but we are advised that the decision is based entirely on a technical construction of the language of the resolution that purports to describe the question which was to be left to arbitration. That resolution, after reciting certain provisions, reads: 'That the lines here represented will submit to arbitration the question of whether the Canadian Pacific railway is or should be entitled to a differential under the rates made by the United States lines for the carriage of the freight in question.'"

It appears that the arbitrators held that under the language of the only question they could try was whether the Canadian Pacific had an inherent title to a differential, and that they could not go into the question as to whether under existing conditions, and in accordance with railway practice on this continent, the Vancouver route should be conceded a differential. This company's traffic officer, who attended the Denver meeting at which the resolution was passed, clearly understood that it contemplated a bona fide submission to the arbitration of the material business question and not merely a technical, philological interpretation of the words uttered. No sane man would claim that the C.P.R. or any particular railway company had an inherent title to any differential. If we are correctly informed as to the basis of the arbitrators' decision, the question must be submitted again in such form as to obtain a decision on the broad merits."

EPISCOPAL CONVENTION.

Approving Czar's Peace Manifesto - Thanking Great Britain For Sympathy. WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. At the meeting of the house of deputies of the Episcopal convention a letter to the czar of Russia was agreed upon, declaring that the convention hailed with joy the great peace manifesto which the czar had issued. Rev. B. A. Taylor, Los Angeles, said that in view of the action relative to the czar of Russia it was eminently proper that the house adopt the pending resolution expressing thanks to Great Britain for the sympathy shown toward the United States during the recent war with Spain. It was particularly appropriate on this occasion, he said, while an eminent English churchman, the dean of Hereford, was present. The resolution aroused spirited controversy. J. S. Statenberg, Indiana, argued in vigorous tones that the resolution had no place before the church convention but was a political statement of opinion, and was not proper for the consideration of congress. When Mr. Statenberg moved to table the resolution there were murmurs of "No; 'No;" and the motion was lost. The resolution was then adopted by a viva voce vote. On the invitation of the presiding officer, the dean of Hereford addressed the convention and expressed his hearty thanks as an Englishman and for his country for the candid resolution. He referred to the friendly feeling between the two great nations, and he tended to no war like alliance, he said, but to that natural union between those of common tongue and tradition. Instead of meaning war, the alliance of the two nations would do more for peace, the dean said, than any other movement of nations. He closed with an expression of his intense desire for the unifying of the two continents.

A Bullet in His Body. CORNWALL, Ont., Oct. 21 - On Wednesday Dr. Wheeler had a visit from a couple of tramps, one of whom asked the physician to extract a bullet from his body. On examination the doctor found that the man had been shot from behind in the left side. The bullet, after passing within an inch of his heart lodged in one of the front ribs. The surgeon extracted a thirty-two-caliber bullet. With a word of thanks the hobbs decamped. Later chief Cameron received a telegram from the sut wifes in Morrisburg, asking him to arrest the man who had been shot. After some trouble the man was located in the Hotel Dieu hospital and placed under arrest, and the Morrisburg police notified. The prisoner says his name is John Kennedy. He says he was shot at St. Anne's last Thursday. He is wanted in Morrisburg on a charge of attempting to break into the store of D. C. Bush on the night of the 13th inst. Mr. Bush had been awakened by hearing a noise in the rear of his store, and going out had fired three shots at the intruders, but in the darkness they escaped. The man arrested is thought to have been one of the gang, especially as the calibre of the revolver and the bullet are identical and the dates of the shooting correspond.

Report At Ottawa. LONDON, Oct. 21 - Major Marchand, the man whose entry to Fashoda on the upper Nile has brought England and France to the verge of war, has been heard from. His report, upon which much depends, reached Cairo yesterday in the hands of a trusted French officer. It is asserted the report makes no mention of the visit of Gen. Kitchener to Fashoda. The British report was allowed to remain secret, French lines to facilitate an understanding. The report is said to make negotiations no easier.

Two's Murderer Identified. LONDON, Oct. 21 - The evidence adduced at the police court this morning in the proceedings against Marie Brown, the alleged murderer of police constable Tooley, was strongly against the prisoner. He has been positively identified by a number of witnesses and traced from Strathroy to the scene of the murder.
