THE PREMIER IN LENNOX

HE SPOKE LAST NIGHT IN NAPANEE.

Was Enthusiastically Received — J. R. Stratton's Argumentative Speech—The Attorney-General Disposes of Many of Whitney's Charges—The Dundas Man Seeking Entrance to Power by the Back Way.

Napanee, Nov. 18. — Last night was a memorable night in Napanee. Hon. A. S. Hardy speaking in the opera house. The hour named found the opera house packed to the doors, the stage was graced with a number of prominent ladies. Thomas Symington, as chairman, gave a short address. Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., Peterboro, said he hoped the electors would repeat the verdict to-day they passed last March and by a much larger majority. A general murmur of approval passed over the audience. Mr. Stratton eulogized our system of education and wanted to know what better system Mr. Whitney could offer. Mr. Stratton thought he could not improve it, and the legislation for the working men was almost perfect and a credit to any government. John Sandfield Macdonald during his regime had a surplus, but when the obligations which he had incurred were paid it took all this surplus and more. Mr. Stratton said he would be a hamed of any government that had not increased its expenditure and opened up the country and kept pace and even went ahead of other countries in their generous acts. He showed where the $3,800,000 were spent and what became of this much talked of surplus. If Mr. Whitney had told the people what buildings this government had built that should not have been built he would have enlightened the electors, but neither Mr. Whitney nor any conservative could point to anything we would have been better without. The industries fostered by the government have been the means of putting millions of dollars in the pockets of the farmers of this province. This part of his address was warmly received by the audience, composed largely of farmers. Over $2,758,000 were appropriated for hospitals. This was not done for the rich but for the poor of those who were not able to pay for the medical attendance needed. "What," said Mr. Sutton, "would you say to the unfortunates who met with such a severe railway accident the other day do it there was not an hospital in Belleville?" The last question dealt with by Mr. Stratton was the school book question, and Mr. Whitney's idea of providing an advisory board for the minister of education. This was strictly not in accordance with his sworn statement that 7,000 officials now being paid would be cut down, and asking for advisory boards, in the next breath, to increase this army of officials. He hoped the electors would return Bowerman Ashworth not by forty-three majority, but by 10,000 majority.

Mr. A. S. Hardy said: "I have heard so logical and concise a statement from Mr. Stratton that not very many points are left to me to which I am thankful as I am laboring with a throat affection which may prevent me from speaking at great length." The attorney-general took up a few points of the premier's speech on a different line from Mr. Stratton. For twenty-five years the electors have entrusted the government and not a dollar of general taxation had been imposed upon the people. "Mr. Whitney may not know how to carry on this government without direct taxation, but we know," said Mr. Hardy, "And there are a good many other things Mr. Whitney does not know. D. Macdiarmid whispers, and shouts ripple along the concessions like a row-rents on a school book."

Mr. Hardy contrasted the per capita expenditure of our province with other provinces and showed that Ontario was the lowest and this was most enough that we had an economical government. To show the consistency of the opposition Mr. St. John and Dr. Meacham approached the government with a petition to grant $1,500,000 to aid a railway to Hudson Bay. This, if granted, would increase the great debt to nearly $1,000,000, and these same men get up and say the liberal government is squandering the people's money. He instanced the case of Pennsylvania having seven asylums, each patient costing per week per man $3.37, while Ontario's cost was $2.43 per week per man. "Which place managed their affairs most economically? I leave that with yourselves," said Mr. Hardy. The funny part of the speech came in here where the attorney-general took Mr. Whitney's report in yesterday's Mail and Empire and made the whole house roar over the way he turned the tables on Mr. Whitney, over his funeral allusions, which were, he said, all on account of Mr. Hoyle, the member for North Ontario, who was his companion. It was to please Mr. Hoyle, who was a leading undertaker in his native town, that Mr. Whitney wanted to get up a funeral.

Mr. Whitney's educational policy was shown not to be feasible as if the minister of education was elected by the teachers alone and no voice from the people, the minister so elected would only hesitate to please the body who elected him. Mr. Whitney wanted to change the public school system, but he did not say how he wanted it run, nor could a whole college of dentists extract from him what he wanted to do in this line. The constable vote was shown by Mr. Hardy to be upheld by the government and that men who had voted for twenty-five years were quite eligible to vote again and the judges arguing the matter had also so decided. Mr. Whitney did not favor this and was angry when it became law.

The premier closed his remarks by saying: "He that cometh in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep, but he that cometh in by any other entrance is a robber." "This was how Mr. Whitney wanted to get in—by a trick—so look out for him."

The meeting closed with three cheers for the queen and three hearty cheers for the government and speakers.

Perth Pointers.

Perth, Nov. 17. — A farewell supper was given to Mr. Harper of the Merchants' bank, by some of his friends, at the Revere house on Tuesday night. He is being removed to a position in London. At the last meeting of the council a man was hired at a dollar a day to keep the crossings and sidewalks clean. The roads are terrible throughout the country just now, and business is not so good on that account. Mr. Dwyer's house is being rapidly completed. A load of stock cattle were shipped on Wednesday by Mr. Morely to Boston.

The Bay of Quinte R'y now short line for Tweed, Napanee, Deseronto and all local points. Train leaves City Hall depot at 4.30 p.m. R. J. Wilson, C.P.R. telegraph office, Clarence street.

THIRTEEN LEOS.

Nine of Them Lived Before The Norman Conquest.

London Sketch.

Thirteen in number have been the Leos that have filled the chair of Peter, and of these several have been popes of eminence. The first of the name early obtained the appellation of "Great," leaving less honored titles for those who might succeed. His pontificate in the middle of the fifth century lasted only twenty years. Leo II. in his twenty years of rule had the honor of crowning the greatest of the mediaeval Caesars, Charlemagne; Leo IV. was an exemplary pontiff, if nothing more; the fifth, sixth and seventh were but transient figures early in the tenth century, and the eighth was one of the anti-popes. Leo IX., one of the house of Hapsburg, toward the middle of the eleventh century, illuminated the world with his learning, and was canonized.

Four hundred and sixty years elapse before we come to another Leo, the tenth of the name, Giovanni de Medici, illustrious for his fostering of the renaissance and celebrated, in a different manner, for his inability to check the Lutheran heresies. Had he been less a patron of letters and a courtier and more of an anchorite the reformation might have been stayed, if not actually effected within the limits of the church itself. Another Medici, though not of the then reigning house of Tuscany, occupied the holy seat for a few weeks in 1605 as Leo XI. Again a gap — of more than 200 years — before we arrive at Leo XII., elected during the thirty years' peace, when Europe was slumbering between the Napoleonic wars and the days of '48. Last of all comes the benign and venerable Leo X II., who is passing his closing years as occupant of the vatican and as mediator between the sons of men. It is curious indeed that nine out of the thirteen lived before the Normans conquered "this little isle set in the silver sea."

MADAME DREYFUS

Calmly Confident That Her Husband's Innocence Will Be Asserted.

Public Ledger.

Mme. Dreyfus hides her heroism in a shaded nook in the environs of Paris close to Mount Valerien, surrounded by her family and her two children. With a steadfast confidence in the future, Mme. Dreyfus has never ceased to struggle with all her energy to prove her husband's innocence; but at the same time, with a sentiment which does her honor, she does not wish nor does she intend to annoy the public with the alternations of hope and despair which necessarily exist her. The Figaro gives an interview one of its staff had with Mme. Dreyfus, but there is little to learn in it, except that Mme. Dreyfus has two charming children, who play around and welcome with that childish indifference to their position which pertains to tender age. One also learns that, since the affairs of the last Henri, letters of sympathy have poured in from all parts, and that visitors have been very numerous.

In speaking of her husband's case, Mme. Dreyfus shows no anger. She expresses the hope that the revision of her husband's trial will take place without implicating others, especially those in power — in short, that there may be no painful disclosures, and that France may not offer to foreign countries the spectacle of her shame. Mme. Dreyfus is evidently the true wife of a soldier, an ardent patriot, and, in spite of the atrocious crime of which she considers herself the victim, she reserves for the army all the respect which the traditions of her family and her affection for her husband have raised in her.

SERIOUSLY TACKLED

This Is the Way the Commissioners Are Acting At Washington

Washington, Nov. 18. — The Anglo-American commissioners held the longest joint session since they came to Washington yesterday. The session lasted for an hour and a half. This is taken to indicate that the agreement on the reciprocity matters is near completion.

Since coming here the Canadians have continued to lead in the advance suggesting what manufacturers might be let into Canada free. It is also thought that the troublesome fisheries question will be seriously tackled within a few days. As good progress has been made with the reciprocity question.

There was another social event in honor of the Canadians yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Fairbanks, wife of the American commissioner, held a magnificent reception at their residence. Mrs. John W. Foster, Miss Cartwright, daughter of Sir Richard and Miss Scott, the guest of Lady Laurier, and many other Canadians called.

Sells Wife On Instalments.

New York, Nov. 18. — The sale of a woman on the instalment plan recently took place in Newark, N. J., and came to light to-day. The woman is Mrs. Nellie Van Hise. She is eight or nine years old and pretty. The man who sold her is her husband, Henry S. Van Hise. The purchaser is William A. Dreyer. He is nine or ten years old, and was a member of company D, First New Jersey volunteers, until that regiment was mustered out, a few days ago. The purchase price was $3. Of this amount $1 was paid down and the remaining $2 is to be paid later on.

Doan's Kidney Pills have been doing more for kidney sufferers in St. Catharines, and throughout Canada, than all other remedies combined. One of those who have found them a blessing is Mr. Alphons Herr, foreman of A. Meyer's baking establishment.

HIS EUNUCHS PUT TO DEATH.

Fourteen Attendants Of the Chinese Emperor Executed

Vancouver, Nov. 18. — The R. M. S. Empress of India brings advices that no fewer than fourteen eunuchs, who were the emperor's own special attendants, and on whose account he was in the habit of visiting, were executed by order of the empress dowager.

The reason given why this surgically deadened race should be widely known is that the execution took place in the court and in the chief eunuch's office, in the palace grounds, where numerous and brilliant functions are always in progress.

The empress dowager has issued an [illegible] services [illegible] whereby [illegible] and enjoining [illegible] and [illegible] strictly carried.

Curious Verdict in England

London, Nov. 18. — Curates are by no means extremely scarce in England. In the Durham house there are no less than forty-one vacancies out of the 300 positions. In some cases curacies have been vacant for months, and curates desiring a change are everywhere met with offers. This fact is explained by the rapid extension of church work having used up all the available men, seeing that the pay offered is good, the salary in some cases being $750 a year.

COLLINS BAY BREEZES.

A Good Mail Service—Preached to the A. O. U. W.—Other Items.

Collins Bay, Nov. 17.—Since the G. T. R. time table was changed residents have a better mail service. Times are rather dull as nearly all the men working for the Lesslie company are down at the Cornwall bridge. D. W. McDonald has been appointed tax collector. The schooner Ripple, from Timber Island, is in for a load of bran and flour. One thousand two hundred bushels of corn and wheat arrived yesterday for the Collins Bay roller mills. N. J. Leonard, Westbrook, held a sale of household goods and real estate on Wednesday. Mrs. M. Sheehan, an old and respected resident, passed away very suddenly on November 3rd. Mrs. F. Wood and family, Odessa, have moved into the house formerly occupied by the late L. Lalonde. S. Waller has moved into one of J. J. Lossee's houses. J. Ford and family have moved back to the city. Miss Patterson, teacher, is training her scholars for a concert in the near future. B. Kidd attended a meeting of the sessions of the Presbyterian mission at Portsmouth on Wednesday evening. H. Smith, seriously ill for a time, is improving a little. Mrs. D. Henderson and son have returned from a visit to Stella. F. Trudell held a successful concert in the new hall, Bath road, on Tuesday evening. J. B. McKay of the K. B. C. and Mr. Burton, Kingston, took part. Rev. Robeson, of the Methodist church, preached to the members of A. O. U. W. lodge on Sunday, November 6th. The scholars of the Presbyterian mission are to have a children's service in the hall on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. B. Bushell, Kingston, spent a few days at her home here last week.

A Serious Shooting Accident.

Lanark, Nov. 16. — The hunting season is over and the Lanark Sportsmen have had good success. Brook's Lake hunting party, composed of W. C. Caldwell, John A. Watt, W. Spalding, W. A. Field and Rev. James Cross, returned Saturday after a very successful hunt. They secured seven deers and a bear. W. McKinley, Hopetown, and H. Campbell, Clyde Forks, were with them. The Long lake party, composed of Dr. Scott, J. D. McLaren, J. N. Dobie, Lenark; R. A. Hunt, Arnprior; and Dr. Gemmill, Pakenham, broke up camp yesterday after securing nine deer. Another successful party, J. Pepper, N. Easton and several others, succeeded in securing seven deer. They struck camp to-day and arrived home this evening after enjoying two week's outing. Salt Lake boating proves to be a failure. Solomon Benedict, Robertsville, had a Sunday afternoon bear hunt after a bear which brought disaster upon him. A bear being noticed passing close by his house, in company with James McDermid he started in pursuit, their guns being loaded with buckshot. Benedict was ahead. McDermid's gun discharged accidentally, the shot lodging in Mr. Benedict's right arm between the wrist and elbow. Medical aid was summoned and after consulting upon amputation at the elbow was decided upon and carried out. Mr. Benedict is a married man. This misfortune leaves him handicapped in the race of life. Boyd & Caldwell are improving their premises by building new sheds to the rear of their store, which will at least accommodate a half dozen teams. Rev. James Cross left this morning for his home, Osgoodwick Centre, after an enjoyable deer hunt. On Sunday afternoon he briefly addressed his former congregation here. Mr. Curtis, in charge of the Beckwith church, conducted the service. Over seventy-five Snyder rifles have been disposed of by dealers here during the last few weeks. It will be dangerous in the surrounding country for the remainder of the hunting season.

Canada The Land For Him.

Piccadilly, Nov. 15. Owing to the heavy fall of snow, farmers had to cease ploughing. Our weather prophet, D. Walker, predicts some fine weather before the ground freezes up. We hope his prophecy is correct. Rev. A. McLean, pastor of the Presbyterian church here, is to-day moving into the house owned by Mrs. Shellington. We are pleased to have him as our neighbor. The long looked-for rain, much to the delight of teacher and pupils, have arrived and are in their position in the schoolroom. The new state blackboards will be in place this evening. On Wednesday Dr. Sparkle visited our school. He spoke very highly of the progress and present standing of the pupils. November 5th was celebrated here by the Orangemen of the lodges from nearby villages. A very large crowd was in attendance and a most pleasant day was spent. The proceeds received from the dinner were in aid of the Presbyterian church. A football match between Piccadilly and Parham teams was one of the features of the day. The winning team was to receive a new ball given by J. Campbell, Oak. Owing to the very high wind, blowing across the field, no goals were made, they were to play again for the ball on last Saturday, but on account of the fall of snow the game had to be postponed to the disappointment of the boys, as they felt quite confident that had they played they would have won the ball. Mrs. N. Card and her daughters, Dorothy, Cullumet, Mich., having made a visit among their friends, purpose starting for home on Thursday. Mrs. C. H. Godfrey, widow of the late C. H. Godfrey, has returned after spending some months in the northwest. Mr. and Mrs. W. Clarke, after a prolonged visit in the states, have returned. Billy has had quite enough of Uncle Sam and concludes that the "Land of the Maple Leaf" is the land for him.

A Good Spering Ground

South Leeds, Nov. 17. Since November 1st the weather has been what may be called ideal for the season, and excellently for sportsmen. The game to be more numerous this year than ever before. As for those who are real nice, it goes without contradiction that there are more good shots to be found here than in any place of real size in the country. W. H. Chris is about to put a new steam engine in the Hendershot machine is about broke down. He expects to do a rushing business. Mrs. T. Little has fallen heir to a large fortune, left her by the death of her aunt. Miss J. Little has returned home from Poole's Resort, where she spent the summer. Visitors: F. Grow at S. F. Pepper's; R. Slitter at A. Latham's; Ganannoque. A. Abrams at R. Leaky's; and D. Hyde at W. H. Clerk's.

Tamworth Tidings.

Tamworth, Nov. 16. — Several loads of fur and one bear passed through Tamworth the last few days from the back hunting grounds. Rev. Mr. Ballantyne's brother, Hector, from Iowa, has been visiting at Rev. Ballantyne's and W. A. Fulber's for the past few days. Amos Robson, W. A. Fulber, Harry Peal and C. H. It is quite common to see very hearty eaters very thin; this indicates faulty nutrition. The systems of such people crave nourishment and don't get it; although overworking their digestive organs, they are starving slowly because what they eat doesn't assimilate. Miller's Compound Iron Pills increase powers of digestion and assimilation, so that the full benefit will be derived from what is eaten. This is noticeable in increased weight and strength, and the general feeling of comfort that follows their use.

Think There Was Foul Play.

Wiarton, Ont., Nov. 18.—The jury empanelled to enquire into the death of the Indian Charles Nadjiwan, found that Nadjiwan came to his death by concussion of the brain as a result of an extensive depressed fracture of the skull and hemorrhage caused by a fall from the balcony of the Queen's hotel on the night of November 14th. From the evidence produced we cannot tell whether it was accidental or otherwise, but the conflicting nature of the evidence leaves room for suspicion of foul play. We are further of the opinion that the law prohibiting the selling of liquor to Indians is practically a dead letter, and would advise that the most stringent measures be taken to prevent the violation of a good law.
