JAPAN IS PREPARING.

Does She Really Mean To Fight Russia?

HAS EQUIPPED 200,000 MEN.

SHE WILL PROVOKE AN IMMEDIATE WAR.

Russia Can Oppose Her on the Coast With Only 50,000 Men, and the U.S.A.'s Naval Forces Are Far Inferior—Four Japanese Cabinets This Year Have Come to grief Owing to Efforts to Avert the Inevitable and Popular War—Japanes Officers shot as spies—Strong War Feeling.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Serious misgivings are expressed by those statesmen and officials here, who are in favor of the maintenance of peace at any cost, at the composition of the new cabinet at Tokio formed by field marshal Yamagata, often described as the Moloch of Japan, and to whom belongs all the credit of the brilliant Japanese victory in the war with China. The administration which he has constituted, and which comprises no less than four members of the famous Satsuma fighting clan, is distinctly and admittedly a war cabinet.

Yamagata has never ceased to express his firm conviction since Russia, by means of diplomatic methods, robbed Japan of nearly all the fruits of her victories; that his country would be compelled, sooner or later, to fight in defense of her existence against Russia, and has invariably advised that the sooner the conflict took place the better it would be for Japan, for at present Japan might have Russia at a disadvantage in the far east of Asia. But every month the power by which war was taking place diminished these advantages which Japan now enjoys. Japan's armaments are at the present moment far in excess of her resources. Her people are over taxed, and unless the resources them in a year or two the will become involved in national bankruptcy.

A war with Russia would unite all the belligerent factions and would be a most popular war with Japan. That the military government is getting ready for something of the kind may be gathered from the fact that Japan has already prepared an army corps of 200,000 men with food, fare and full equipment for one year's campaigning in northern Manchuria, while numerous small detachments of troops, under one pretext or another, are quietly being shipped over to Korea. Several Japanese staff officers have been captured by the Russians while making drawings and taking notes of the Manchurian positions at Vladivostok and Port Arthur, and have been shot as spies.

Against this army corps of 200,000 men, Russia would only be able to oppose 50,000 men, that constitute the bulk of her forces on the Pacific coast, while Japan's naval forces in the Chinese seas are superior to those of the east. Japan has already had four different cabinets this year, each of which has come to grief owing to efforts to avert the inevitable and popular war. The advent to office of the Yamagata administration is construed in official circles here as indicating that Japan has come to the conclusion that it is unable to attempt to stem any longer the strong tide of popular opinion, and has resolved upon provoking an immediate war with Russia, in order to avoid both internal revolution and the danger of eventual destruction by Russia when the latter has completed her trans-Siberian railroad and her Pacific coast armaments.

From a scientific standpoint, Japan is up to date, and the first her men would undoubtedly give a good account of themselves, especially on the water. This has been immensely improved since the war with China. Large purchases of guns and ships have been made, and they are of the latest pattern. Only recently have supplies of distilled spirits been brought in America and shipped to Japan for use in the manufacture of matches powder.

TERIBLY INJURED

By a Dynamite Explosion—Dynamite Warnings.

THURSDAY, Dec. 1.—Philip Vane, a boy by the name of Philip Vane, is reported to be severely wounded. He was hit and left hand was terribly wounded. On account of the age of the boy, the man who hit him could not be traced to Belleville Wednesday and Thursday.

The injured boy was still conscious but too weak to speak. The doctor and nurse were unable to collect only $200. The lad promises, if the duty is assigned to him, to make every man who owes a day pay a tax. How would it do to range a similar scheme in Kingston with a view to putting at the subsequent engine owners—or subjects of the poll tax?

QUEEN'S DEBATING CLUB.

Departmental Stores Regarded as a Street Convenience—Interest Polite.

The second regular meeting of this newly organized club yesterday afternoon at York school. There was a marked increase in the attendance, which indicated that the students' purpose following up the rugby contests or combat of the months of the previous meeting the subject of discussion was introduced. "Resolved that the departmental store is detrimental to social and economic progress." D. M. Silland and J. A. Donell argued in defense of the resolution, while W. McLaren and H. S. Dodge endeavored to show that departmental stores work on the principle of greatest good to the greatest number. The subject was well handled and many points of interest were brought out by both sides. It was concluded, however, that Messrs. Silland and Donell had the weaker side, as it seems a foregone conclusion with certain political elements that the departmental store has established itself as one of the greatest conveniences of modern times. The debate was decided by the president, Mr. Donell, and Mr. Shatto, who gave their decision in favor of the negative.

A New Name.

The ladies library association, of Pontiac, Michigan, has a new and novel scheme to establish a "Free Library." The association has purchased the city council to assess a dog tax, and the ladies will be in charge of collecting. There are about 2,000 dogs in Pontiac, and so far as the city authorities have been able to collect, only 200. The ladies promise, if the duty is assigned to them, to make every man who owes a day pay a tax. How would it do to range a similar scheme in Kingston with a view to putting at the subsequent engine owners—or subjects of the poll tax?
