IN MEMORIAM.

The Passing Away of a Devoted Wife And Mother-End , ame on Thursday. The late Mrs. David Harrold, whose spirit passed peacefully away on Thursday morning at her home on University avenue, had been an invalid for many years, yet she was ever cheerful and happy and bore her sufferings patiently. She was as well usual until about a week ago, when it became evident that the end was fast approaching. Though loving kindred and friends strove faithfully to prolong her frail existence, the hand of the reaper could not be stayed. Of a kind, loving, and unselfish disposition, reldom met with in life's eventful drams, one cannot wonder that she was almost idolized by her husband and family. A more devoted wife and mother never lived. Her mild and gentle manner won the admiration and friendship, and influenced for good all who came in contact with her. Early in life she had "chosen the good part," and when called upon to enter the valley of the shadow of death she feared no evil. Her implicit trust was in Him who bath said: "I will never flowers and immortelles upon the graves of those we love as aff ctionate tokens of remembrance, but the life and actions of our departed friend will live and blossom in the heart when flowers are forgotten

Should Be At School.

At ten o'clock this morning five lade ranging in age from ten to fourteen years were engaged in carting "properties" into the city tail for the company now holding forth there. A dozen other youths were employed about the ball. Last week there was a daily attendance of from a dezen to twenty-five boys at the city hall. The question naturally arises: "Why were these lade not at echoul?' Whose place is it to see that boys who should be at school are not there. In the case spoken of this morning the boys were divided between the public and separate schools.

DR. EVANS REPLIES.

Last night Rev. Dr. Eva .s addressed large number of people in the Oddfellows' half in refutation of Rev. Myddleton Wood's theories re the second coming of Christ. The speaker held that God was not unknowable, as Mi. Wood affirmed. The Almighty was knowable in three ways: By or through creation, redemption and revelation. Again Mr. Wood held that God was a real, living person, mind, or love or spirit, but a God of To make God a jerson de: troys his omnipresence. It God is being of flesh, that flesh is matter; matter, it is composite; if composite it has limitations; if limitations, how can it be eternal? God speaks of Him self in the scriptures as a spirit. The Greek text in I John iv. 2, relating to the coming of Christ, the Apostolic evangelist said could be taken in eith er the past, present or future tense. Bajus' brewery has a special brewing of There was but one honest interpretation of this text -- "has come." accept Mr. Wood's idea of either tense saves the Jew. "Will come" leaves to Judaism the coveted loophole.

Again Mr. Wood said Christ wee down into hades and preached to the captives. Inis is a deliberate and wholesale falsification of scripture. Bajus' Bavarian Lager is manufactured | Such scripture was not to be found except in Mr. Wood's fertile, fanatical cranium. Whenever paradise is spok en of in the word of God it refers to heaven.
